141 RACKETEERS PLEAD GUILTY

Today

The S. O. Quadruplets.
30 Loads of Airmail.
Helen Wills' Husband.
Four Great Old Men.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

STANDARD OIL OF INDIANA went skyrocketing yesterday, as everybody might have known it would do.

Mr. Rockefeller asked for proxies to put Col. Stewart out. Col. Stewart asked for proxies to stay in. The quickest way to get proxies is to BUY them. The stock calmed down after somebody bought 95,000 shares of it.

IT'S a hard fight and when it is over this question will arise:

Assuming that Col. Stewart, now head of Standard Oil of Indiana, defeats John D. Rockefeller, Jr., as Wall Street believes that he will do, how will that affect Standard Oil of Indiana?

THE doctors said one Siamese twin couldn't live if the other were cut away. The little Standard Oil octopuses of New York, New Jersey, Indiana, California are Siamese quadruplets. What will happen to one if it is cut away? What will happen to the other three with little sister from Indiana gone?

WISE business men use the air mail. They are interested in building up a most important government institution, and they know that letters marked air mail command attention.

TODAY John N. Willys will send from Toledo more than 30 airplanes carrying 30,000 pounds of air mail addressed to 6,000 towns in every state in the union.

THIS "batch of letters" will include 700,000 pieces of mail concerning Mr. Willys' Whippet car.

Twenty Army pursuit planes from Selfridge Field will accompany the mail planes, making a first class spectacle in proof of commercial aviation development in the United States.

EVERYBODY'S peaceful, nobody wants war, but if we DID have war it is comforting to remember that those 30 mail planes, with Army pursuit planes to accompany and protect them, could carry 30,000 pounds of food and medical supplies, or 30,000 pounds of poison gas, or explosives to discourage invading forces on sea or land.

HELEN WILLS, wonderful California girl, will marry Frederick Shander Moody, Jr., of San Francisco, a union that interests the whole nation.

Those who believe that the human race could be quickly and greatly improved if the right young men married the right young women will be interested in this wedding, and hope that Mr. Moody may be worthy of his wonderful good fortune.

CLEMENCEAU and Foch, to whom France owes most in this generation, were both ill, and both are better, good news for everybody.

Clemenceau, the "Old Tiger," enjoys life in spite of his 87 years. The world hopes that he will go on long enjoying it, also the gratitude of his friends, and the animosity of his enemies.

He enjoys one as much as the other.

IN A war that enlisted the youth, energy and intelligence of many great nations, the four men standing out above all others were all old men, Lloyd George, Foch, Clemenceau, Von Hindenburg.

NORTH DAKOTA and Illinois favor calling our language "the American language," not the "English language."

A bill is introduced in the North Dakota Legislature to that effect.

Patriotism is admirable in all its forms, but after all it is the "ENGLISH LANGUAGE." We borrowed it from the English and we adopted it. A spade is a spade, and English is English. It is a first class language, created by the genius of English writers and orators, and will keep its name.

WE CAN afford to give credit where it is due. Other nations credit us with the telephone, flying machine, the phonograph, the steamboat and a few other things that really are AMERICAN, and don't try to change their nationality.

WHILE we ask a few questions, and get no very satisfactory answer, and sign a peace pact, wise France appropriates 989,000,000 francs for 18 warships. One 10,000-ton cruiser is intended among them, also "six cruising submarines," gigantic undersea battleships; and a big submarine to lay mines, for blowing up enemy ships, is also included.

The French like peace and peace pacts, but they also like SAFETY, and mean to have it.

NATIONAL prohibition was 10 years old yesterday, and Mr. Whalen, New York City's new police commissioner, celebrated by raiding 32 speakeasies, arresting 32 men. This left about 24,963 speakeasies operating in New York City, and heaven knows how many hundreds of thousands throughout the whole United States.

You can lead men to water, they won't all drink it.

BABE RUTH AT WIFE'S BURIAL

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—Tears streamed down the grief-lined face of "Babe" Ruth as he stood in a driving snowstorm in Old Calvary Cemetery today and watched the white casket containing the body of his wife, Helen Woodford Ruth, slowly lowered into her grave.

"Lord, have mercy on her soul," he prayed, his mouth quivering with emotion.

MOTHER DRY-EYED

The aged mother of Mrs. Ruth stood next to Babe, gazing at the grave as if dazed. No tears come from her eyes, but grief was written in every line of her face.

Hundreds of persons were gathered outside the Woodford house on West Fourth street. They lined both sides of the street and were kept at a respectful distance by a detail of 33 police officers in command of Capt. Martin H. King.

The services in the mode Woodford home were brief, prayers at the casket being said by the Rev. Father Burke.

There had been rumors that Mrs. Ruth had been poisoned and also that she had sustained a cut on the head prior to death. The autopsy, however, revealed that this was not true.

The official probe of the death of the noted ball player's wife was closed by the following statement

MRS. LOGAN ENTERING COUNTY JAIL

SISTER PUSHES JAWORSKI PLEA

Paul Jaworski's sister and lone defender, Mrs. Catherine Lucille Logan, today was seeking to save her brother from the electric chair through the clemency of Gov. John S. Fisher.

Mrs. Logan came to Pittsburgh from Detroit today and talked to the bandit-slayer at the Allegheny County jail for 30 minutes. She told him of her plans to appeal to the Governor. Paul told her to "go ahead, if you want. I don't care. I might as well die now."

Mrs. Logan plans to ask the Governor to commute to life imprisonment Jaworski's sentence of death. If that plea fails, her visit to Paul today will be her last.

Her appeal is to be based on the assertion that Jaworski is insane. A petition to the State Pardons Board for a commission to investigate that assertion was refused Tuesday.

While Mrs. Logan prepared to make her appeal, Sheriff Robert H. Braun was awaiting arrival of the Governor's warrant authorizing the transfer of Jaworski to the death house at Rockview. The bandit will die there Monday, unless Gov. Fisher acts to prevent it. The possibility of such action was deemed remote by Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park, who prosecuted Jaworski.

MOSS TAKES UP FRAYNE JOB

J. M. Moss, executive assistant to Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, this morning was placed temporarily in charge of the investigating unit of the local prohibition bureau, succeeding Joseph A. Frayne, who resigned as assistant administrator. Moss will hold the post until Pennington picks, from the first three eligibles on the Civil Service list at Washington, the man who will become assistant administrator.

Moss, a former naval officer, has been in the prohibition service, for three years and came here from Alabama.

A. G. McDuffy, who has been acting head of the enforcement unit, will continue in that post, it was announced.

POLITICAL ROW STIRS WOMEN

A revolt against the leadership of Mrs. J. Wood Clark, county vice chairman, and Mrs. Carroll Miller, member of the national committee, has disrupted the Democratic women's organization in Allegheny County.

Ill feeling, which has been smouldering since the last presidential campaign, caused the open break to come at a meeting yesterday in the Crystal Room of the William Penn Hotel. More than 50 women, expelled from the Allegheny County Democratic Women's Club, stood in the hallway for half an hour seeking a new meeting place.

FORM NEW CLUB

During their wait they organized the Jeffersonian Democratic Club, electing Miss Frances Langfitt president. Those who remained in the Crystal Room re-elected Mrs. Clark president, after making open charges that the followers of Mrs. Langfitt had attempted to "pack" the meeting with non-members and even Republicans.

Mrs. Florence E. Shaw was presiding when the trouble started. Those in charge refused to accept the dues of a number of women.

Hoover to Go South For Vacation Monday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—President-elect Herbert Hoover will leave Washington Monday at 10:30 a. m. for Miami Beach, for rest and to study in quiet problems confronting his coming administration, it was announced today at his headquarters here. He will travel in a special train over the Atlantic Coast Line and arrive at Miami Beach about 1:30 p. m. Tuesday.

U. S. Steel Goes To New High on 'Melon' Rumor

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—United States Steel, common, sold at the highest price in its history in the market today, when the stock sailed over 173 in an enthusiastic buying wave in the forenoon.

Wall street heard today that the directors, at their meeting January 29, would order another stock dividend similar to the one put through in January, 1927.

The Steel Corporation now has close to $650,000,000 surplus.

PROXY AIDS BATTLE ON STEWART

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(INS.)—The United States government has contributed its support to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in his fight to oust Col. Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

A proxy covering some 12,000 shares of stock was turned over to Rockefeller today by Howard Sutherland, alien property custodian, who holds the stock for certain German nationals.

SEE STEWART WINNING

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—the battle of proxies, Col. Robert W. Stewart will "win in a walk" over John D. Rockefeller, Jr., according to reports in La Salle street, Chicago's Wall street.

Although New York petroleum authorities were reported to have stated that Rockefeller would win his fight to have Col. Stewart ousted as chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, brokers and financiers in Chicago, according to a canvass today by International News Service, believe Stewart will win handily. The money kings said they believed the indorsement of Col. Stewart by the company's directors had decided the issue.

STEWART STANDS PAT

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The bitterest factional fight in American industrial history, the fight to oust Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of the Standard Oil of Indiana board, will not be waged, and is not being waged, in the stock market.

Unimpeachable sources say the Stewart interests are not buying a share of Indiana stock in the open market, despite bally-hoo on which Standard of Indiana jumped about 12 points in the last two or three days. Stewart is standing pat with his supporters on their holdings of stock, which they believe are sufficient to swing the vote to Stewart on March 7.

Since all officers of the company have declared for Stewart, as well as thousands of small stockholders, a counting of noses would show an overwhelming majority for Stewart.

Mauretania Sets New Speed Mark

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The liner Mauretania has again broken the speed record from New York to Plymouth. The ship, reaching Plymouth today, made the trip in four days, 19 hours and 57 minutes, breaking her former record by two hours and two minutes.

She was to pay him half of the $10,000 prize money she won in a contest in which the photographs were submitted, the suit charges.

COL. FRY PASSES UP LEGACY

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 17.—The will of Henry Clay Fry, Rochester manufacturer, was filed for probate yesterday. In a codicil, dated 1925, a grandson, George Kenneth Fry, a son of Col. Harry C. Fry, Jr., of Pittsburgh, is made a beneficiary.

Col. Fry today said that he was left out of the will at his own suggestion.

No estimate of the value of the estate is given.

Mrs. Belle M. Fry, the widow, is left certain property in Point Chautauqua, N. Y., the Fry homestead in Rochester and a $10,000 life insurance policy. Miss Maggie Horst, a former housekeeper, is bequeathed $2,500.

The residue of the estate, which consists of valuable real estate in Point Chautauqua, N. Y., and Rochester, Pa., and stock in the Fry Glass Company, the Fry Equipment Corporation and the First National Bank, Rochester, is equally divided among these children: J. Howard Fry, Gertrude Jenkinson, Clara B. Sage and Mabel M. Bonnell and a grandson, George Kenneth Fry.

Col. Harry C. Fry, Jr., is president of Logue Bros., insurance agents in the Peoples Building. He was, for two years, chairman of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce aeronautics committee. He holds the rank of colonel in the Army Reserve Corps, material division. He resides at 3000 Iowa street.

Afghanistan Gets Third King in Week

KABUL, Afghanistan, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—King Inayatullah, in whose favor Amanullah abdicated a few days ago, today surrendered the Kabul citadel to a superior force of the rebel Bacha Sakao, who was proclaimed Habibullah Khan and thus became Afghanistan's third monarch this week.

49 FIGHT CHARGES; 54 DON'T APPEAR

Arraignment of the 244 alleged racketeers, including politicians and city policemen, indicted in October after the county grand jury probe, today brought pleas of guilty by 141 of the defendants before Judge James B. Drew in Criminal Court.

Pleas of not guilty were entered by 49, embracing the most prominent of the defendants, and Judge Drew, after an emphatic assertion that no delays would be considered, ordered the cases listed for trial promptly. The cases were listed at the rate of two or three a day between January 22 and February 6.

54 DO NOT APPEAR

Only an hour and a half was required to receive the pleas.

Fifty-four of the indicted did not respond to the call and of these two are dead, three are in hospitals and five, including Albert W. Forney, alleged slot machine king, are in the county jail on federal warrants.

The remaining 44 are unaccounted for and will be served with a further summons to appear Saturday, January 26, when Judge Drew is to dispose of all the pleas of guilty. Their cases will be listed for trial if they do not appear at that time.

BIG FELLOWS FIGHT

The pleas of guilty came generally from the so-called "small fry" and none of the more important defendants pleaded guilty, all electing to stand trial.

Among those pleading not guilty were Stanley Orie, "Strip" politician and brother of Magistrate John Orie, charged with selling liquor and maintaining gambling devices; Alderman George S. Wilson, of the Eighth Ward, and George P. Andrews, his constable, charged with conspiracy, extortion and malfeasance in office; Charles W. Collins, investigator for Children's Service Bureau, and Alderman Patrick Cawley, of the Nineteenth Ward, under similar charges; Herman Bloedel, county property custodian and Twenty-fourth Ward chairman, accused of illegal liquor selling; Michael DeRosa, Jr., charged with maintaining a gambling device; Police Lieutenant John J. Lynch, Patrolmen William Moore and Howard D. Rosensteel, J. J. Lyons, Martin Burke and Thomas Oliffe, charged with conspiracy and illegal liquor selling, and Justice of the Peace Wallace L. Baker and Constable E. V. Stokes, charged with extortion, bribery and malfeasance in office.

SPEED PROMISED

At the start of the "plea day," Judge Drew uttered his warning that no delay will be brooked.

"There is no need of anybody appearing to ask for a postponement unless the defendant is sick, no fooling," Judge Drew declared. "All these cases will be disposed of within 60 days if we have to sit here at night and on Saturdays."

When it was suggested in one case that Congressman Harry A. Estep,

RAIN, NO FLOOD, DUE HERE AS TEMPERATURE RISES

Mild, rainy weather will prevail for the next 24 hours or more, the weather bureau predicted today.

The frigid spell came to an abrupt end last night, as light rain began falling, and this morning the mercury stood at 43 degrees, a jump of 37 degrees since the same hour yesterday.

"A low pressure area causing light rains extends from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Coast," said Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. "The rain in most places is light. Up to 8 a. m., today, the rainfall here was eight one hundredths inch."

Unless the rain should become heavy, there is no likelihood of gorges breaking in the three rivers, Brotzman said. The gorge in the Ohio River above Baden is fast in one foot of water, and a large volume would be necessary to move it. The severe cold of the last few days has further strengthened the four gorges in the Allegheny, one in the Youghiogheny, and frozen pools of the Monongahela, the forecaster asserted.

Little change of temperature is predicted for tonight.

DEALERS REPORT LARGER SUN-TELEGRAPH SALES

Shrewd newsboys, news dealers' reports disclosed today, are not taking kindly to the suggestion that they can earn a fair wage only by handling the Pittsburgh Press exclusively. They see greater opportunity for profit in handling the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, with its large and rapidly increasing circulation. They are not impressed by the kind of so-called "protection" promised them if they would sacrifice customers who prefer other newspapers to the Press. Sharp-witted "newsies" are not slow to detect the fallacy in that proposition.

The National News Company, of New Kensington, for example, reports that two boys who had been delivering the Press, applied for work as carriers of other Pitts-

15 HOMES RUINS IN ROCHESTER BANK FIRE

ROCHESTER, Pa., Jan. 17.—Fifteen families were made homeless and a four-story bank-office-apartment building was destroyed early this morning in one of the most spectacular fires in the history of Beaver County.

Flames destroyed the home of the Rochester Trust Company, in Brighton avenue, the heart of Rochester's business district.

LOSS PUT AT $500,000

Bank officials say that the loss of the building alone will be more than $200,000, and other damage will make the total loss $500,000.

The fire is believed to have originated in the Murphy store, and to have spread to the elevator shaft.

Firemen from Rochester, North Rochester, East Rochester, Freedom, Monaca, Bridgewater, Beaver and New Brighton were called out to fight the flames.

WOMAN FALLS DEAD

During the height of the excitement, Mrs. Iva Merritt, 32, a resident of the building, fell dead from a heart attack. Mrs. Merritt had been to the movies and, returning, found her home in flames. She had just witnessed her sister-in-law, Mrs. John Johnston, and Mrs. Johnston's two small children run from the building.

John Whaley Whalen, 22, a member of the Freedom fire department, was hit by an automobile while working in the street. He was only slightly injured.

Money and bank records were found safe in the fireproof vault.

Robber Fells "Gas" Attendant, Gets $46

Demands Million For Husband's Strayed Love

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—A cool million. That's the value Mrs. Bessie Strum Arnold places on her husband, Ray M. Arnold, wealthy investment broker. She brought an alienation of affections suit for this amount today against Mrs. Margaret Crenshaw West, who was also named as co-respondent in her divorce action against Arnold.

issued by District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell:

FIND NO POISONS

"There is no evidence of poisoning and the case is closed as far as this office is concerned. And I hope, for the sake of the unfortunate woman who cannot speak for herself, that it is closed as far as everyone is concerned."

Mrs. Ruth died last Friday night in a fire at the bungalow she shared with Dr. Edward H. Kinder, Watertown dentist.

A solemn high mass of requiem will be celebratd tomorrow morning at St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Ruth.

Little Dorothy Ruth, the 9-year-old adopted daughter of the ball player, did not attend the funeral. It was reported on good authority that there would be no legal fight between Ruth and the Woodford family for the custody of the child.

Kinder was not among the several hundred persons who assembled at the grave. Neither did he view the body at the house. His attorney said he was in seclusion and had nothing to say.

Livingston Requests Bill of Particulars

The Civil Service Commission today received a letter from Charles B. Prichard, attorney for Murray G. Livingston, requesting a bill of particulars to amplify the "good of the service" reason used by Mayor Charles H. Kline in discharging Livingston about a month ago as chief inspector of weights and measures.

The letter asked that the information be furnished in reasonable time before the commission begins a hearing at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in the City-County Building on Livingston's appeal from the Mayor's discharge order.

James C. Smith, secretary of the commission, did not indicate what reply would be made to Prichard's letter.

2 Firemen Injured in $100,000 Chicago Fire

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Two firemen were injured, a third was overcome by smoke and damage of $100,000 was done in a fire which swept the four-story Pancoe Building in downtown Chicago today.

representing the defendant, would be in Washington because of the special session of Congress, Judge Drew remarked. "We cannot let a special session of Congress interfere."

The defendants were called before the court in groups of 10 by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner and each was asked whether he pleaded not guilty or guilty to the charges, consisting for the most part of maintaining a gambling device. This charge arose from the operation of slot machines.

DATES SET AT ONCE

Where pleas of not guilty were entered, dates for trial were immediately fixed by Gardner and his chief clerk, George Conner, with several exceptions. One of these was Fred Stratman, the excuse being that he will be on trial after February 4 in United States Court.

Judge Drew, in fixing January 26 for disposition of all the pleas of guilty, ordered that all necessary offices, including the Clerk of Courts, the Sheriff's office and the probation office, remain open on that day until all pleas are disposed of. These offices close at noon Saturdays.

FORNEY TO APPEAR

Forney, most important of those who did not respond, will be released from jail Saturday upon the completion of a six-month sentence imposed in Federal Court, will be arraigned Monday, Judge Drew has declared, and he will be promptly placed on trial in the event of a plea of not guilty. A county detainer has been lodged for him, but he can be freed on bond pending trial.

Paul G. Echard and Max Wipkowski have died since the indictments were found, the court was informed, and among those reported in hospitals was Peter Bubanovic, who was mysteriously shot at his North Side home a few days ago, after being called as a witness before the federal grand jury.

The defendants constituted the largest group ever arraigned in Criminal Court in one group or in one day. The courtroom and the corridors of the Court House were thronged with defendants, their attorneys and friends.

Coolidge Signs Kellogg Pact To End War

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—President Coolidge today signed the document of ratification of the Kellogg treaty to renounce war.

Notification that the ratification document has been signed will be sent to the 14 other original signatory powers. One other step will remain, the signing of exchange copies of the treaty for deposit in the archives of each signatory nation.

claiming they should have paid before the meeting. According to Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Shaw ruled that those who had not paid, could not vote. Those opposing Mrs. Clark then were ordered from the room under the threat of expulsion by the police. After waiting in the hall they borrowed the clubroom of the Amen Corner for the "rump" session.

OFFICERS ELECTED

In addition to Miss Langfitt the members of the new Jefferson Club elected Mrs. Anna E. Felix, Mrs. Agatha Tuernan and Miss Susan Scheif, vice presidents; Miss Stella E. Snstead, secretary, and Mrs. C. F. Heidemann, treasurer. The Allegheny County Democratic Women's Club, after expelling the revolters, chose Mrs. Clark, president; Mrs. J. G. Criste, Miss Martha Ross, Mrs. Cora H. Simpson and Mrs. Beatrice Tatum, vice chairmen; Mrs. E. R. Fagan, treasurer, and Mrs. Derwood Breeding, secretary.

"Mrs. Felix and Mrs. Ida Allen tried to pack the meeting," charged Mrs. Clark today. "They brought in new women, some of them Republican women, and tried to vote them."

Mrs. Felix charged that Mrs. Clark and her fellow officers "had to be pushed on to make a fight in the last campaign."

"Sometimes it seemed they were for Smith and sometimes for Hoover. We propose to make the Democratic party here a real live party," she said, adding that men will be welcomed in the membership of the new Jefferson Club.

$5 FOR $24,000 RETURN STIRS CAB DRIVERS

Pittsburgh taxicab drivers are divided in their opinions on an adequate reward for M. Eisenberg, lighting fixtures dealer, to have paid Eugene Celso, a taxicab driver, of Woodside, L. I., for the return of $24,000, which was left in the latter's cab.

Eisenberg is reported to have rewarded the cabbie's honesty with a $5 bill and a chicken and spaghetti dinner.

"NOT ENOUGH"

Several drivers who were interviewed here yesterday said that Eisenberg's reward "wasn't so many."

Driver W. C. Miller contended 10 per cent of the $24,000 would have been an adequate reward.

"Somehow, the rich fares, whether handing out tips or rewards for found articles, always give less than the poor people," he declared.

"I found a $700-bracelet once and the society woman to whom I returned it handed me a $1 bill. On another occasion, I called back a poorly dressed woman who left a canary in a cage in my cab. You can imagine my surprise when she handed me 10 'smackers.'"

"No indeed!" said Edward Horner, another driver, when he was asked if he thought $5 and a spaghetti dinner was a just reward for the return of $24,000. "The driver should have got at least $50. We may have a lot of Scotsmen in Pittsburgh, but our fares are generally liberal with rewards and tips."

He recounted how upon one occasion a fare gave him $10 when he returned a stickpin of little value.

$10 FOR LOST PIN

Jack Arens told how a fellow driver found more than $20,000 in cash in a hatbox that had been left in the latter's cab. The owner of the cash rewarded the finder with $100. Arens reports that he, himself, found a pocketbook in his cab, containing $2. When he returned it, its owner, a business girl, rewarded him with $1.

H. T. Kelly's idea of a just reward in the Eisenberg-Celso case is $1,000.

"Of course, honesty is a reward in itself, but that's no reason why honest, hard-working taxi drivers who have a hard enough time providing for their families should not get substantial cash rewards for their honesty," he commented.

20TH CENTURY CLUB TO BUILD

The Twentieth Century Club will remodel its clubhouse on Parkman boulevard. This decision was unanimously reached at a meeting of the club yesterday morning, after pictures of plans were shown on a screen.

The Union Trust Company will be trustee for the bond issue by which the new addition will be financed and work will be begun as soon as plans are accepted.

Benno Janssen is the architect. Plans for remodeling have been under discussion for 12 years, but were put aside at the time of the war. The present clubhouse is about 25 years old. Mrs. William Watson Smith, who was a member of the original building committee, is chairman of the present committee.

Girl Found

BERTHA HERBERT

Bertha Herbert, 16, 911 Sandusky street, reported missing two weeks ago, appeared in Missing Persons Bureau today and charged that she had been taken to Steubenville by her brother-in-law, Edward Humphrey, 32, who denied knowledge of the case when he was arrested at the time she disappeared. The girl said she escaped Tuesday.

SENATOR REED CONFERS WITH HOOVER ON CABINET

REAPPOINTING OF MELLON URGED

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Cabinet appointments under the forthcoming new administration have been discussed at a conference here between President-elect Hoover and Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh.

After visiting with Mr. Hoover for more than 40 minutes, the Pennsylvania Senator said that he had strongly urged the reappointment of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, and had added his indorsement of several others mentioned for the War and State department portfolios, but declined to reveal who they were.

As the chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee and as a member of the foreign relations body, having jurisdiction over activities of the War and State departments, Senator Reed said he was naturally interested in the cabinet officers selected to fill these posts. He therefore went into the subject at some length with Mr. Hoover, making confidential recommendations which he hopes will be considered.

The Pittsburgh Senator was a dinner guest of Mr. Hoover recently. Due to the social nature of the visit, he explained, he was unable to discuss the cabinet situation, hence his call late yesterday.

PELLAGARA DIET STUDY PROVES FATAL TO DOCTOR

U. S. SCIENTIST MARTYR TO HUMANITY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Stricken while engaged in a study of the diets thought to cause the disease of pellagra, Joseph Goldberger, 54, a United States public health service scientist, died today at the naval hospital here following an illness of several months.

The fatal illness was an enigma at his death to his fellow scientists. A post-mortem was planned by Dr. G. W. McCoy, director of the health service's hygienic laboratory and a close friend of Dr. Goldberger, to determine the cause of the fatal illness.

BELIEVE INFECTION CAUSE

Dr. McCoy said physicians attending the dead scientist believed he suffered from some form of anaemia. They did not agree on the type of the disease, however, and later concluded that some other undetermined infection was the primary cause of his sickness.

Twenty of Dr. Goldberger's colleagues of the public health service volunteered for blood transfusions shortly after he became critically ill early in November, but after six operations this was abandoned, as of no avail.

Before the fatal attack he had suffered three other severe illnesses—typhus fever contracted 15 years ago while he was experimenting on it in Mexico City; yellow fever shortly after this, while he was working with this disease in New Orleans, and dengue fever while studying that malady in Brownsville, Tex.

Dr. Goldberger was born in Austria-Hungary. He was graduated from the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York.

AID TO HUMANITY

Dr. Goldberger's greatest achievement with the public health service was his contribution to the world's knowledge of pellagra. His discoveries are believed to have saved thousands from succumbing to this malady. He is survived by his widow, three sons and a daughter.

During the 14 years in which Dr. Goldberger was in charge of public health investigations of pellagra, he showed that the disease is due to an unbalanced diet and demonstrated the means whereby it might be prevented and cured.

His work contributed largely to the general knowledge of nutrition. He discovered the vitamine "pp" or pellagra preventive, and showed that dried yeast contains it.

NATIONAL C. OF C. FIGHTS COAL CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States appeared before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee in opposition to the bill to stabilize the bituminous coal industry.

The delegation included Felix M. McWhirter, president of the People's State Bank, of Indianapolis; Charles F. Conn., president of the Armour Fertilizer Works, Chicago.

When McWhirter began reading a statement opposing the bill, Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, asked him if the Chamber of Commerce had any "constructive suggestions" to offer to solve the bituminous problem. McWhirter said the chamber had none; that the committee was merely appearing in opposition to the bill.

The measure proposes to create a coal commission whose membership would include representatives of the operators and the miners. It would have power to issue licenses to operate, to permit consolidations and to supervise mining operations, with particular attention to the methods employed, machinery and equipment used, production costs, employe relations, wages paid, capital invested and grades and quality of products.

The commission would supervise the distribution of bituminous coal, allocate markets, both domestic and foreign, and decide what grades and quality of coal would be made available in each locality. The commission would be given jurisdiction over sales and authority to fix minimum sales prices.

ROBERTSON MAY TAKE NEW JOB FEBRUARY 1

"I do not know when I shall assume my new duties," said A. W. Robertson, newly elected chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, on his return to Pittsburgh today.

"It depends on how soon the Byllesby interests feel they can dispense with me. I may be able to make the change around February 1. I feel sure that the people who are now operating the Philadelphia Company and its subsidiaries will continue in the local management."

A second important development took place in Pittsburgh industry yesterday when terms were completed for the merger of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company with the American Radiator Company.

O. M. Wooley, president of the American Radiator Company, and other officials completed a two-day conference with officers of the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company with the result that all of the points of difference are understood to have been settled.

Theodore Ahrens, president of Standard Sanitary, would not divulge the details of the transaction, but stated the final approval of the merger would be acted on by the boards of directors of the two companies at their next meetings. American Radiator directors will meet on January 29 and Standard Sanitary directors on January 31.

LENGLEN BOOKS BERTH HOME

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The management of the Biltmore Hotel here today confirmed reports that Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, and her mother, who abruptly left the Los Angeles home of their hostess, Mrs. Anita Baldwin, last week, had made arrangements to return to France.

Whether Baldwin M. Baldwin, son of their hostess and former tennis manager for Mlle. Lenglen, was accompanying the two women, was not known here.

Reports came also from the home of Mrs. Baldwin, daughter of the late E. J. (Lucky) Baldwin, millionaire mining man, that she was attempting to locate her son. Young Baldwin left his mother's home at the same time the Lenglens departed. Mlle. Lenglen and her mother moved to the Biltmore here and Baldwin also established quarters in the downtown area.

HELEN WILLS' 'POKER FACE' HAS DOUBLE IN FIANCE

By CARL MORITZ.
International News Service.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—Miss Helen Wills, unconquered on the tennis court, has found her match as a "poker face"—as she is called—in her betrothed, Fred S. Moody, Jr., handsome young San Francisco broker.

Moreover, the beautiful Berkeley tennis queen, whose classic features have been likened to those of Venus, has found her "Adonis" in the tall, athletic youth whose serve went straight to her heart.

The love match started in Cannes, France, in 1925, the shy young broker said. "I was traveling abroad with my parents when I met Helen at Cannes. She was playing her first tennis match abroad that year.

"Yes, I guess the fact that we both lived in the San Francisco Bay region had quite a bit to do with our becoming friendly right away in a strange country.

VISITED ART MUSEUMS

"We visited art salons and museums and saw quite a bit of one another while we were abroad that time."

Moody is interested in art and in painting, "but no more than the average layman," he ventured.

Moody's shyness disappeared when the question of Miss Wills following a career was broached.

"I certainly do want her to keep up her tennis and her art after we are married," he said. "Helen is a very busy girl and I believe it a very good thing for girls to be busy."

HAD TERM AT SEA

Asked if he liked athletics, Moody, who, although he did not attend college said, "Yes, I used to play football, and I like tennis and golf—but, business takes most of my time."

However, Moody has not devoted all of his life to business. When he was graduated from the Potter School in San Francisco, instead of following the heavily beaten path to college, Moody went to sea.

Moody started out as an ordinary seaman on a sailing vessel and made three trips to Honolulu. He learned seamanship and navigation and qualified as a deck officer, after which he made several long voyages.

Moody is a member of one of the pioneer families of San Francisco and is popular among his fellow brokers despite his natural bashfulness and his "poker face."

Charleroi Newsies Honor Benefactor

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 17. — Newsboys for The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph today turned over their share of the receipts from the sale of papers for the day for a floral tribute to a man who was their favorite—George W. Might, 47, owner of the Might Bookstore and News Agency.

Mr. Might fell dead at his home Wednesday. He was an officer of the Western Pennsylvania News Dealers' Association, and a past president of the Charleroi Chamber of Commerce, and his interest in the newsies had won him their admiration.

FOSTER GROUP TO MEET

Definite plans for the $500,000 campaign for a memorial hall in honor of Stephen Collins Foster, Pittsburgh composer of Southern melodies, will be discussed tomorrow when the committee meets for luncheon in the William Penn Hotel.

The public campaign for funds is planned for April. It is proposed to construct a building somewhere in the Oakland district to be used as a Pittsburgh musical center.

BOOTH OUSTED, SISTER MAY GET JOB

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The choice of a new head of the Salvation Army by the high council which last night deposed Gen. Bramwell Booth, adjudging him in an unfit condition to continue his leadership, is the next important development in affairs of the army.

Commissioner Hay, as president of the council, this morning announced the council's vote of 55 to 8 to relieve the general of his command.

The council is scheduled to meet tomorrow to elect a new commander and to take legal steps, if necessary, to obtain possesion of the army's huge property, now vested personally in Gen. Bramwell Booth.

The three most likely nominees for the post of general appear to be Evangeline Booth, the American commander; Commissioner Edward Higgins, the chief-of-staff and Commissioner Lamb. It was thought improbable that the question of the new leadership would be decided on the first day of the resumed session, the final decision more likely coming early next week.

FRUIT DEALER GETS CHAIR

Tony F. Siciliano, 39, Logan street fruit dealer, was found guilty of murder in the first degree in Criminal Court today and death in the electric chair was recommended as punishment.

Siciliano was charged with murdering a rival fruit dealer, Frank Sesto, Jr., 27, of 119 Elm street, September 2, after an argument.

Siciliano and Sesto conducted adjoining fruit stores. Testimony at the trial showed that they had argued over the sale of a half dozen ears of corn.

TOO BUSY FOR BRIDGE, SAYS EDISON, IN FLORIDA

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan 17.—(AP.)—Other folks may come to Florida for a winter vacation, but not Thomas Alva Edison, who, at almost 82 years, resumes work at Fort Myers today.

The inventor, eager to arrive at his home and scene of his experiments with rubber-producing plants, received newspapermen for a brief period as his train stopped here yesterday.

He told one questioner that he expected to a live "a few years more."

The inventor would not commit himself directly on the subject of future wars, answering a question about that by saying:

"So far, the United States has had a war approximately every 50 years, beginning in 1775."

To evolve a domestic supply of rubber for this country in case of future wars is the problem now occupying Mr. Edison. He believes he will find the solution.

TOO BUSY FOR BRIDGE

One inquisitive reporter scribbled the question whether, now that he is nearly 82, Mr. Edison finds his mind as active as ever.

"Yes," was the quick reply; "I can see no difference."

"Have you decided, after all, to learn to play bridge?"

"Not yet," said the inventor. "I'm too busy playing the rubber game right now."

IN HIGH SPIRITS

FT. MYERS, Fla., Jan. 17. — (AP.)—In robust health and high spirits, Thomas A. Edison arrived at his Florida home here last night for his forty-sixth annual winter visit.

The inventor stepped from a train to be greeted by a band playing "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen," one of his favorite compositions, and by a crowd of several hundred persons.

A corps of laboratory workers is ready to begin work today, assisting Mr. Edison in his efforts to find a plant capable of producing an emergency supply of rubber in the United States.

burgh papers. They said, according to the National News Company, that last week they netted only $1.5c delivering the daily and Sunday Press on carrier routes.

The public is just as little impressed by the plea that it is necessary to buy the Press to protect the newsboys. The best indication of how the public regards the matter may be found in the increasing number of Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraphs sold.

CIRCULATION GROWS

The Sun-Telegraph's circulation has bounded ahead during the past week, and continues in advance, in a manner little short of sensational. In several communities sales of the Sun-Telegraph are now greater than the combined sales of the Press and Sun-Telegraph a week ago. News dealers' sales figures tell the story. Here are a few characteristic reports:

The Tarentum News Company reports that before it had trouble with the Press it sold 457 copies of the daily Press and 700 of the daily Sun-Telegraph, a total of 1,157. Its net sales of the daily Sun-Telegraph are now 1,587 copies. The company formerly sold 1,226 copies of the Sunday Press and 1,455 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a total of 2,681. Last Sunday it sold 2,948 copies of the Sun-Telegraph.

Behm and Wade, news dealers at Washington, Pa., report they formerly sold 672 copies of the daily Press and 972 of the Sun-Telegraph, a total of 1,644. They now sell 1,703 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph. They formerly sold 2,461 copies of the Sunday Press and 4,150 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a total of 6,611. Last Sunday they sold 4,802 copies of the Sun-Telegraph.

James Franus, news dealer at Monongahela, states he formerly sold 567 copies of the daily Press and 79% of the daily Sun-Telegraph, a total of 1,382. He now sells 596 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph. He formerly sold 711 copies of the Sunday Press and 1,297 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a total of 2,008. Last Sunday he sold 1,516 copies of the Sun-Telegraph.

BIG INCREASE

Carl Schempp, news dealer at Donora, reports he formerly sold 593 copies of the daily press and 771 of the daily Sun-Telegraph, a total of 1,364. He now sells 965 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph. He formerly sold 775 copies of the Sunday Press and 1,481 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a total of 2,256. Last Sunday he sold 1,603 copies of the Sun-Telegraph.

The George S. Might news agency at Charleroi reports it formerly sold 661 copies of the daily Press and 1,263 of the daily Sun-Telegraph, a total of 1,924. The agency now sells 1,650 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph. There were formerly sold 1,057 copies of the Sunday Press and 2,100 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a total of 3,157. Last Sunday 2,512 copies of the Sun-Telegraph were sold.

James Taylor, news dealer at Monessen, states he formerly sold 839 copies of the daily Press and 968 of the daily Sun-Telegraph, a total of 1,807. He now sells 1,379 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph. He formerly sold 1,323 copies of the Sunday Press and 2,044 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a total of 3,377. Last Sunday he sold 2,380 copies of the Sun-Telegraph.

OHIO VALLEY BOOST

Mrs. M. Mullen, news dealer at Monaca, states that before the Press made its demand she sold 200 copies of the daily Press and 288 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph, a total of 488. Since then she has sold 471 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph. She formerly sold 288 copies of the Sunday Press and 560 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a total of 848. Last Sunday she sold 735 copies of the Sun-Telegraph.

Joseph C. Feick, manager of the Ambridge News Depot, reports his average sales formerly were 575 copies of the Daily Press and 795 of the daily Sun-Telegraph, a total of 1,370. Now he sells 1,255 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph. He formerly averaged 885 copies of the Sunday Press and 1,425 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a total of 2,310. Last Sunday he sold 1,810 copies of the Sun-Telegraph.

The Swissvale News Company reports it formerly handled 1,530 copies of the daily Press and 1,177 of the daily Sun-Telegraph, a total of 2,707. Now the company sells 1,937 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph. It formerly sold 1,650 copies of the Sunday Press and 1,750 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a total of 3,400. Last Sunday it sold 2,265 copies of the Sun-Telegraph.

The Carnegie News Company reports it formerly handled 1,370 copies of the daily Press and 1,062 of the daily Sun-Telegraph, a total of 2,432. Now the company sells 1,957 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph. It formerly sold 1,638 copies of the Sunday Press and 1,774 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, a total of 3,412. Last Sunday it sold 2,140 copies of the Sun-Telegraph.

The Hazel News Company, 4200 Murray avenue, reports it formerly sold 750 copies of the daily Press and 498 of the daily Sun-Telegraph, a total of 1,248. Now it sells 1,098 copies of the daily Sun-Telegraph. It formerly sold 910 copies of the Sunday Press and 775 of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. Last Sunday it sold 1,335 copies of the Sun-Telegraph.

BURNING CYCLORAMA ROOF CRASHES

FIRE RUINS OF CYCLORAMA HALL, SHOWING CAVED-IN ROOF

St. Louis Officials Study Schools Here

A group of school officials and civic leaders of St. Louis were in Pittsburgh yesterday studying the local school system in search of plans and policies for their projected $22,000,000 building campaign. They visited the Arsenal Trades School, the Allegheny Vocational School, the Oliver High School and the new administration building. They were especially interested in the trade schools as they plan to establish a $4,000,000 trade school in their city.

Inquest Frees Girl In Death of Baby

Susie Romanick, 22, employed at 5728 Hobart street, was exonerated by a coroner's jury today at an inquest into the death of her newly-born baby in St. Francis Hospital, last December 15. Mother and babe were found in the basement of the Hobart street address the day previously. The young woman denied knowledge of how the child was injured.

OLD CYCLORAMA HALL RAZED BY FIRE

The old Cyclorama Hall, a landmark at Beech and Irwin avenues, North Side, occupied as a factory by the Consolidated Ice Company, was destroyed and two other buildings and their contents were damaged by a fire which for a time threatened an entire block late last night.

A two-story building at 1001 Irwin avenue, occupied by the Dukane Coffee Corporation, and the one-story brick office and factory of the Luther Catering Company, at 816 Beech avenue, suffered heavy loss by water.

LOSS SET AT $200,000

The hall and equipment in the ice plant was valued at $200,000, according to Thomas A. Dunn, general manager. Sixty men who were employed there will be transferred to other factories, he said.

Deputy Fire Chief Frank Loxterman and Battalion Chief Daniel Jones estimated the total loss at $50,000.

POLICEMAN HURT

Patrolman John Reese, attached to the Central Police Station, and J. A. Coppler, 38, of 1225 Buena Vista street, were struck by a taxicab near the scene of the fire. Reese, who was directing traffic, suffered an injury to his back and is in the Allegheny General Hospital. William Cooper, 26, of 1906 Morrel street, driver of the cab, was arrested.

Cyclorama Hall, a circular structure of brick, built in the late 80's, was not a financial success. The place was sold and changed into a dance hall, boxing arena and a roller skating rink.

Tyrrell Case Ruling To Be Made Saturday

Judge Robert A. Stetz, of Northumberland county, will be in Criminal Court here Saturday to dispose of the second degree murder case against Attorney Fayette J. Achieving a boyish figure a peril to health for many

Men and women injuring themselves by starvation diet

THE passing fad of dieting to reduce weight is permanently injuring the health of girls, women and men in the opinion of eminent medical authorities. How dangerously serious dieting has become may be judged from the following statement by a famous doctor. He says: "Many young women to whom motherhood has been denied have come to me to learn the reason why. I have to tell them, only too often, that they have sacrificed their children for the sake of a boyish figure." This doctor goes on to show that many adults, both men and women, do injury to themselves by starvation diets from which they can never recover.

It is time to call a halt in this dangerous practice. Whoever said that two persons could have the same standard of weight? Medical science now declares that standardization in the weight of human beings is impossible, as well as undesirable.

"Lucky is a marvelous pal—the toasted flavor overcomes a craving for foods which add weight."

George M. Cohan, America's Stage Favorite

NO longer need a trim, slender figure be your envy. No longer need you face the rigid requirements of harsh dieting methods. Overweight is banished when you banish fattening sweets and eating between meals and light a Lucky. "Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet."

20,679 physicians have confirmed the fact that Lucky Strike is less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes. These professional men realize the value of toasting, the secret process that eliminates impurities and irritants. Lucky Strike is a delightful blend of the world's finest tobaccos. And toasting develops a flavor which is a delightful alternative for fattening sweets.

Many prominent athletes testify that Luckies steady their nerves and do not harm their physical condition. Men have long known this and practiced it successfully. These are the men who watch their health, who keep trim and fit, realizing the dangers of overweight. And now, women may enjoy a companionable smoke with their husbands and brothers—at the same time slenderizing in a sensible manner. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

LEAGUE DRAFTS ANNEXATION MEASURE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Proposed legislation ranging from an annexation bill to one providing additional powers in regulating motor traffic, was approved at a meeting here yesterday of the law and legislative committee of the Third Class Cities League, composed of city solicitors.

An outstandi development was the decision to for the proposed graded tax law, as applied in Pittsburgh, back to the league, for further consideration. Another was the tabling of a proposed bill providing for the appointment of a board of tax revision by the county court.

In these two matters it was explained that there was considerable misunderstanding in the league, and that further explanation was deemed advisable to obtain unanimous approval.

TAX MEASURE SPONSORED

The proposed annexation measure makes annexation mandatory upon the petition of three-fifths of the taxable inhabitants of the municipality to be annexed to a third-class city, and applies to boroughs, townships or parts of townships.

The league will sponsor a measure which fixes at $300 the maximum limit of taxation of businesses and occupations, an increase of $100 in the limit now provided for under law. The bill would also extend this tax to each unit of a chain organization. Another measure would make municipal bonds exempt from state taxation.

TRAFFIC CONTROL URGED

Another proposed bill would permit the advertising of newly-adopted ordinances and other matters relating to ordinances, now required to be published in full in newspapers, in pamphlet form and placed in a designated place for distribution to the public. Only the announcement of the adoption of the ordinances and its substance would be inserted in a newspaper. A similar measure was defeated in the 1927 legislature.

Cities of the third class would be given greater authority in regulating their through traffic, and the designation of streets as one-way thoroughfares under the terms of the last bill approved. Much of these powers is now vested in the state. The bill would also give the cities fines collected for the violation of any local traffic ordinance instead of the state which now collects all fines with the exception of those for violation of the speed and weight laws.

Precautions against colds and "flu"

Do these two things:

1. Protect nose and throat
2. Keep system in good condition

There's no need to get panicky because the papers are full of news of an influenza epidemic. There's no use in isolating yourself because a lot of other people are sick with it. If you take two simple precautions every day—and then don't worry—the chances are you will throw off any cold or "flu" germs you are exposed to, and keep well.

We're not recommending that you dose yourself with a lot of medicines, either. Just observe two common-sense health rules which can be easily followed.

FIRST of all, make sure your system is in first class order. Don't let it get slowed up or sluggish. See to it that it functions perfectly. The easiest way to get run down and in a condition to pick up disease is to neglect this all-important matter.

Physicians agree that, particularly in times of epidemic, purging by laxatives and cathartics is not advisable. Many doctors are therefore prescribing Nujol, as in no case does it cause exhaustion or weakening of the system in any way.

Nujol can't possibly upset you or disagree with you. For it contains absolutely no medicine or drugs.

Get a bottle today at your nearest drug store and start taking Nujol tonight as one simple way to keep fit and to protect yourself against influenza.

That's the first precaution. Now for the second. Keep your nose and throat well protected with Mistol.

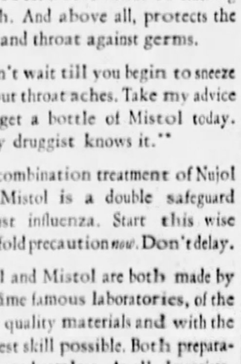
Dr. David says:



"I'm advising all my patients these days to keep Mistol on hand and use it regularly. The first thing in the morning before you go out. And again at night when you come home. Don't be afraid to use it freely. It will do no harm. And then stop worrying. You've done all you can to safeguard yourself.

"Put Mistol up your nose. There's a special dropper that comes in every package that makes it very easy to use. Just tilt your head back and drop it in your nose until you feel it in your throat. You'll notice the pleasant, cleansing effect at once. Mistol clears your head and makes breathing easy. It has a healing, soothing effect on the membranes and relieves any irritation or inflammation. It helps dry up a running nose. Use it, too, as a gargle. Mistol is good for a sore throat or hacking cough. And above all, protects the nose and throat against germs.

"Don't wait till you begin to sneeze or your throat aches. Take my advice and get a bottle of Mistol today. Every druggist knows it."

The combination treatment of Nujol and Mistol is a double safeguard against influenza. Start this wise two-fold precaution now. Don't delay.

Nujol and Mistol are both made by the same famous laboratories, of the finest quality materials and with the greatest skill possible. Both preparations are harmless. At all druggists. Aren't they worth trying?

6TH AVE. CAFE RAIDED

Two men were arrested and a quantity of wine, whisky and champagne was seized last night, prohibition agents reported, in a raid on the Milano Restaurant, 507 Sixth avenue. Prohibition agents were aided by constables in making the raid. Aliso Piastrello and James Skeels were those arrested. Prohibition agents also visited a store at 2163 Bedford avenue, where George Foultz was arrested and a small quantity of whisky was seized, the report said.

Two Coraopolis places were raided, a store at 1543 Fifth avenue and a dwelling at 846 Pennsylvania avenue, John Pass was arrested at the store, where agents say they found moonshine, beer and wine. Elvie Mills and Bertha Mills were arrested in the residence and only a small quantity of moonshine was found there, the agents report states.

Joe Politi and Patsy Bombara were arrested in a raid on a hotel at Groveton. Wine and moonshine were found in the establishment, the raiders say.

Home-Made, but Ends Bad Cough In a Hurry

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Put this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and soothes away the inflammation. At the same time it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in obstinate bronchial coughs and "flu" coughs.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

ALBERT C. LEHMAN

LEHMAN GIVES $12,000 ANNUAL ART PRIZE HERE

Albert C. Lehman, Pittsburgh industrialist, has given the Carnegie Institute, for the annual International Exhibition of Paintings, what is probably the largest prize offered in the art world. The announcement was made yesterday by President Samuel Harden Church at Carnegie Institute after the trustees had accepted Mr. Lehman's gift. The prize will be awarded for the first time at the twenty-eighth International, which will open next October.

The prize and purchase fund will amount to $12,000 annually. The prize itself is $2,000 for the painting which in the opinion of the International Jury of Award is the best purchasable picture in the exhibition. The prize carries with it a guarantee to purchase, on behalf of Mr. Lehman, the painting at its list price up to $10,000. The prize and purchase fund is being offered annually for a period of five years.

Under the conditions of the gift it will be possible for a painting to be awarded the Carnegie Institute first prize of $1,500 and the Lehman prize of $2,000 and be purchased at a price up to $10,000. If a painting receiving the Carnegie Institute first prize is not purchasable, the prize is to be awarded to the picture which in the opinion of the jury is the best among those available for purchase, and it shall be purchased at its list price up to $10,000.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area that caused the cold weather over this section yesterday morning moved rapidly out off the coast, and, as a result, the barometer fell rapidly everywhere east of the Rocky Mountains. The disturbance that appeared in the far Southwest developed into a storm of marked intensity. The center stretches from the Canadian Northwest southeastward over the Rocky Mountain states to Colorado. Lowest barometer reported is 29.38 inches, at Cheyenne, and 29.36 inches, at Medicine Hat and Swift Current. Light rain or snow occurred nearly everywhere east of the Rocky Mountains, and rain is falling at many places this morning. There was a marked rise in temperature over most of the country.

River Conditions.

The rainfall over the rivers was very light. There is 8.0 inches of light, fluffy snow over the Allegheny, and about 2.0 to 3.0 inches over the Monongahela. The rivers are frozen above Pittsburgh, but the Pittsburgh pool is clear. There is also considerable ice in the Ohio at points below Pittsburgh. No change is expected in the river conditions during the next 24 hours.

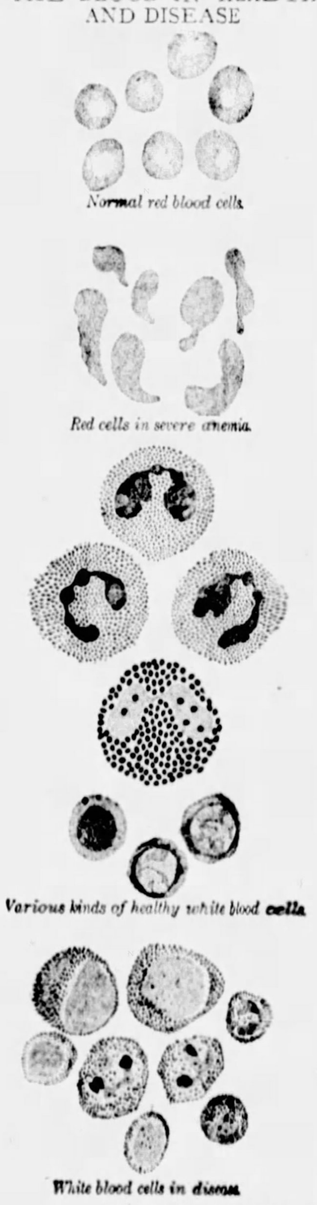
He who investigates and then condemns is a wise man. He who condemns before he investigates is a fool.—Henry W. Beecher.

THE BLOOD IN HEALTH AND DISEASE



Normal red blood cells.

Red cells in severe anemia.

Various kinds of healthy white blood cells.

White blood cells in disease.

Every advance in natural knowledge has involved the absolute rejection of authority, the cherishing of the keenest skepticism, and the most ardent votary of science holds his firmest convictions, not because the men he most venerates holds them, not because their verity testified by portents and wonders, but because his experience teaches him that whenever he chooses to bring these convictions into contact with their primary source, Nature. Whenever he thinks fit to test them by appealing to experiment and to observation—Nature will confirm them.

The man of science has learned to believe in justification, not by mere faith but by verification. The scientific spirit is of more value than its products. The danger to society is not merely that it should not believe the wrong things, though that is great enough, but that it should become credulous and lose the habit of testing things and inquiring into them, for then it must sink back to savagery. Belief, that sacred faculty which prompts the decisions and knits into harmonious working all the compacted energies of our being, is not for oneself, but for humanity. Facts which have been established by long experience and waiting toil and which have stood in the fierce light of free and fearless questioning. Then it helps to bind men together and to strengthen and direct their common action. No simplicity of mind, no obscurity of station can escape the universal duty of investigating that which is for the common good of all.

There is no alleviation for the suffering of mankind except the resolute facing of facts as they are. History proves that the world is prone to show small favors to its teachers. Perils and revilings in most times and countries have been the market price it has offered for wisdom and the welcome with which it has greeted those who have sought to enlighten. Ignorance shackles man and retards progress.

The discovery of Blood Cell Serums in 1909, made from living matter (Ferment), was denied by all scientists. They did not share the opinion of the Author and disdained everything, but he had a strong love for science and an equally strong love for humanity. In science he saw the means of performing the greatest service to his fellow man. There were years of patient waiting, but he struggled on with the conviction that the true guides of humanity are those who give their devoted service, not those who rule by might. The aspect of science is always obscured by a narrow view that every branch of learning must immediately prove its usefulness or to be condemned, that every man must show himself to be a practical man or be content to be thought a fool. In each generation it is necessary to combat this view. Pasteur, at one of the most critical moments of his life, said that he had a lasting provision of faith and fire. To worship at all times the spirit of criticism, for, if reduced to itself, it is not an awakener of ideas or a stimulant to great things, but without it everything is infallible. It always has the last word.

It is a fact that what the Public accepts you can depend upon. 50,000 patients in Chicago alone were treated for supposedly incurable diseases and corroborated all claims of the discoverer. Over 35,000 patients have taken Blood Cell Serums in Pittsburgh with good results as well as many thousands in the other large cities.

All healing is done through the Blood. The curative Force lies within the Body. To strengthen the power of it, to make it nearly perfect as possible, must be the basis of all treatment. No matter how radical may be the advocate of any particular science or mode of healing, there is one great common premise which every system must acknowledge and that basic element is the Blood. By administering Blood Cell Serum directly into the Blood Stream, their healing virtue is not lost, as by dosage by mouth to the stomach. One serum makes an optimist of the most skeptical. One serum revives hope in the most despondent sufferer. One serum makes new white blood cells, increasing the patient's own natural weapons against disease, chronic or acute. Why drug your stomach day after day, from year to year?

This article is written in view of defending your boy and girl. If they had been indicted, you would listen to every word spoken and weigh each sentence in hope of an acquittal. SMITH APPEALS FOR FUNDS FOR PARTY

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Alfred E. Smith, recent Democratic presidential candidate and former governor of of New York, appealed to the rank and file of the Democratic party by radio last night to help raise the $1,500,000 deficit that stands as an aftermath of "the happy warrior's" defeat. He spoke over a coast-to-coast hookup of 30 stations under the auspices of the National committee.

Mr. Smith announced that his contribution would be the gift to the Democratic committee of his campaign speeches, for which he said he had had several offers from publishers. A bound copy of the speeches, illustrated with photographs taken on his campaign tours and published by the National Committee with no profit for the former governor, will be sent to each contributer who sends in $2 or more.

MORE PUBLICITY URGED

In making his appeal for funds, the former governor seconded recent assertions of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt that the Democratic party needed more consistent National publicity between campaigns.

"Immediately following every National election," he said, "there is always apparent a general lack of interest in the welfare of our party. It has been the habit of the Democratic party to function only six months in every four years. This is demonstrated by the fact that no attempt was made to liquidate the deficit left from the National campaign of 1924 until the spring of 1928.

WANTS MILITANT PARTY

"It has been the custom right along to have the party deficit taken care of by a comparatively small group of people, and usually the small group has an interest in some particular candidate. It tends to place too much power exactly where it should not be—in the hands of the few."

He urged that the Democratic party be a progressive, militant party and pointed out the need of a minority party under a system of government such as that of the United States.

Man Under Train Escapes With Life

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Simon Dauman, an electrician employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, stepped backward yesterday from the door of a small building in the Youngwood yards directly in the path of a train of cars. He fell between the tracks and the engine and two cars passed over him, but he escaped with the loss of two fingers.

'1-EYE' DRIVERS WARNED

Pittsburgh's "one-eyed" automobiles—or more correctly, their drivers—are heading straight for traffic court.

Acting under orders of Director of Public Safety James M. Clark and Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh, a squad of six motorcycle patrolmen are riding Bigelow, Baum and the Allies boulevards to stop the dangerous practice of driving cars with only one headlight functioning. Later the scope of the crusade will be extended over the entire city.

First offenders will be warned. Second-timers are to be given the maximum sentence of the law, the patrol officers were told.

More than 300 "one lighters" received their warnings last night.

Traffic Lieut. Robert Buck, Patrolmen McCann, Wissman, Kahout, Bruce, Long, Jantz and Flannery are in the patrol.

All the squad members were tutored in state headlight requirements at the state patrol school.

The statutes require automobiles to carry two headlamps, not in excess of 21 candlepowers and adjusted to light the road clearly for 200 feet. Lens approved by the State Highway Department must be used.

BANDITS ROB "HILL" STORE

With traffic policemen standing nearby, two armed Negroes entered the shoe store of E. Z. Pritchard, 803 Wylie avenue, this morning, held up the place, and escaped with $30 and some merchandise.

Covering Pritchard, who had just opened the store, with pistols, the bandits backed him to the rear of the store. E. N. Hammock, 27 Bonvue street, North Side, entered and he, too, was ordered to a rear room. The robbers took $5 and a gold watch from Pritchard, $20 from Hammock and $5 from a cash drawer and some merchandise.

Pritchard and Hammock were locked in a rest room, and the robbers fled. After being held prisoners a half hour the two men broke down the door and Pritchard notified the police.

State Senator Heads Law Body

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—State Senator John F. Kunkle, of Greensburg, has been chosen president of the Westmoreland County Law Association following the annual meeting of the organization here. He succeeds the late Attorney J. R. Smith, of Scottdale, who died recently.

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

W. B. Caldwell M.D.
AT AGE 83

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.

METROPOLTIAN PARK CONTROL FAVORED

Creation of a department of parks as one of the administrative offices under the new metropolitan plan was being considered by the Metropolitan Plan Commission today.

The citizens' committee on parks and recreation, headed by E. T. Whiter, includes A. L. Humphrey, Warren I. Bickford, James Cruikshank and Owen Kraft. Whiter urged, in addition to bringing all park and recreation activities under one head, the employment of a trained and experienced executive to fill the position.

The committee also recommended a citizens' board be established as a policy determining body, to serve without compensation. This department would have entire supervision of all parks and recreation centers in the city and county.

C. E. Stimson, field secretary of the Playgrounds and Recreation Association of America, also spoke before the meeting, held in Old City Hall.

Motor Registrar To Address Club

Benjamin G. Eynon, state registrar of motor vehicles, will speak Friday night at the annual meeting of the Pittsburgh Motor Club. Directors for 1929 will be elected at the meeting which will be held in the Chamber of Commerce. Norman F. Brown, director of the county Department of Public Works, will be another speaker.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Just Rub Away Danger

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, is a counter irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

$2,000,000 REFUSED FOR CHAPPED HANDS REMEDY

Considered best for instant relief and quick healing

Doctors and nurses first used Noxzema to heal chapped hands and keep the skin soft and white. Almost overnight, however, its fame as a soothing, healing cream has spread far and wide, until this year over 4,000,000 jars were used, and over $2,000,000 is being offered for the business.

If your hands are badly chapped, apply Noxzema, the $2,000,000 medicated skin cream. It will stop all smarting instantly — quickly heal away every trace of redness and roughness. There's nothing like it for keeping hands smooth and white in spite of housework or exposure to harsh wintry weather.

Noxzema is snow-white, greaseless and vanishing—won't stain clothing. It is sold by all leading drug and department stores. Get a small jar today!

Wild Animal Cage Refuge from Angry Wife

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A wild animal cage was the refuge of a circus man when his irate wife chased him about the "big top" with a horsewhip.

This was the testimony of Alpheus G. Barnes Stonehouse, the "Al G. Barnes" of circus fame, in court here yesterday in connection with a suit for separate maintenance.

King Still Improving, York Goes to Show

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—King George's steady improvement continues without interruption, it was indicated today. Queen Mary and Prince George have completely recovered from the slight colds which kept them to their rooms for several days.

For the first time since his majesty's illness, members of the royal family visited a theater, last night. The Duke and Duchess of York set this favorable precedent when they saw a musical show at the Playhouse Theater with a party of friends.

PEGS MOVED, NOW CITY HAS TO REPAVE STREET

Council has ordered the replacing of the pavement of Clifford street, recently improved at a grade other than the one established by city engineers. The area extends over 208 feet in the vicinity of Album street. The cost of correcting the error was estimated at $1,200.

Council discovered the mistake when Pasquale Navarro, 6439 Navarro street, who owns property on Clifford street, asked a refund of $500 from his pro rata share of the cost of the improvement on the ground that he suffered a loss through the changed grade.

Tom Reed, chief of the city's engineering bureau, admitted the street was paved to the wrong grade. He explained an investigation revealed an unidentified person altered the surveyor's pegs left in the street to define the grade and the contractor completed the paving according to the changed markers.

E. Z. Smith, member of the Board of Viewers, that made the assessment against Navarro, declared the latter's request for a refund "was not too much." Navarro, however, preferred to have the street repaved at the correct grade and did not press his claim for a refund.

2 Resist Bandits —Both Shot Dead

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Two storekeepers were dead today as a result of resisting bandits who tried to hold them up. Frank Nierman, 48, was slain in his feed store when he grappled with the robbers. Joseph Dorr, 50 was shot to death in his delicatessen store. The till was found empty. Both slayers escaped.

3 of Section Crew, Hit by Train, Killed

POAST TOWN, O., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Three members of a Baltimore and Ohio section crew were killed instantly and four others injured seriously, some probably fatally, here today when they were struck by a freight locomotive soon after starting work.

POLICE GUESTS CURBED

Many of the lodgers who use the Frankstown Avenue Police Station nightly are making themselves too much at home, police say.

It seems many of the free lodgers retire to their beds for the night with bottles of moonshine or a portion of strong "canned heat" at their side. It also seems that when they get up in the morning the early birds select the best garments in sight.

To break up these practices, the police arrested 18 of the 34 lodgers who were at the police station early today. They were charged with vagrancy.

In Police Court Magistrate John W. Orie distributed fines of $2 to $50 and jail sentences of five to 30 days.

At Central Police Station there was a different picture this morning. Hot coffee and doughnuts were distributed to scores of the visitors there. Such distributions will continue each morning hereafter during the winter.

Ditch Collapses, Excavator Hurt

MONESSEN, Pa., Jan. 17.—Caught in the cave-in of a ditch while excavating for the foundation of a new movie theater here, Edward Felton, 33, a laborer, suffered a fractured right leg and other injuries. He was taken to the McKeesport Hospital.

Stop hacking Coughs that wrack your whole system

DOCTORS advise coughs should be checked quickly. They sap vitality—put a terrific strain upon the vital organs. A cough can wrack your whole body—tear at the delicate tissues of the throat—leave the muscles of your chest and stomach sore from sheer exertion. Your health demands that coughs be checked, before exhaustion or serious infection sets in.

At the first sign of a cough or throat irritation, take PERTUSSIN. It helps Nature free the air passages of germ-laden mucus, soothes the irritation and quiets the cough. PERTUSSIN has been prescribed more often for coughs than any other advertised remedy.

PERTUSSIN is safe even for small children and convalescents—a good remedy for "coughs that hang on". It is free from dope—does not upset the stomach and can be taken as often as necessary.

Our Daily Short Story

ART AND LOVE

By EDWARD ETTINGER

"O I WISH I were dead," Frances Holmes cried despondently as she sat on the bed in her cheap furnished room. The tears streamed down her cheeks and soaked the cotton apron which she wore to protect her dress.

Frances had come to New York fired with ambition to be a great artist. But New York was cold and heartless. It would have none of her paintings.

Little by little her money dwindled until she was compelled to pawn the few bits of jewelry she possessed. Of course she could have appealed to her folks for help. But that meant acknowledging defeat. And they had urged her not to leave home.

Frances stopped in the midst of her crying to listen. Someone was tapping on her door.

She quickly dried her eyes and smoothed back her soft brown hair. She expected it to be the landlady inquiring for the week's rent that was due. Instead, a young man entered.

He was tall, handsome and well dressed. He seemed to be a man of poise. And yet he fingered his hat nervously.

"I happen to be your neighbor," he said softly. "In fact, I have the room next to this. You're an artist, aren't you?"

"Trying to be," Frances answered with a touch of despondency. "I haven't sold a picture yet. I guess I'm a failure."

He walked over to her easel and gazed at the painted landscape.

"I don't think you're a failure at all," he said. "I think that success is just a little slow in coming to you. I'd give anything in the world to be able to paint like that. In fact, that is the reason for this intrusion. I wish you would teach me how to paint. I would gladly pay you $10 a week for instruction."

"I can't promise to teach you very much," she said, "but I'll teach you whatever I know."

The young man, Daniel Millay, came in three evenings a week for instruction. There was something about him that inspired an exchange of confidences. Frances soon found herself telling him the innermost secrets of her heart. He seemed to be so understanding.

He told her about himself. He was an accountant. And he had just passed the examination which gave him the degree of C. P. A., Certified Public Accountant. That degree entitled him to a membership in his firm.

At the end of three weeks Frances realized that she was deeply in love with Daniel. All day long she looked forward to his coming in the evening. It made her whole life seem brighter. She found herself singing at her work, something she had not done for months.

But, with her happiness, there came an equal amount of sorrow. In her heart and soul she knew that Daniel would never be an artist. He had not that real love for art. He had not that real feeling for colors. She knew it all the time and yet, she had been taking his money. She had been deceiving the man she loved.

In all fairness to him and to herself, she must tell him the truth. Even though it meant she would see him no longer.

"I'm sorry," she said the next time he came in, "But I can't give you any more lessons."

"You're not going away, are you?" he asked anxiously.

"No. But I'm so ashamed of myself," she cried. "I've been deceiving you. Taking your money when I knew all the time it was wasted. If you lived to be a million years, you could never be an artist. I'm a thief and a fraud. Please go. I haven't the courage to face you. But I'll pay you back some day, every penny I took."

She burst into sobs.

"I would never have taken your money if I hadn't been hungry and broke."

He walked over and patted her shoulder.

"I know it, dear," his voice was filled with love. "I've often heard you cry from my room next door. I wanted to help you. I know well enough what it means to be broke in New York. And besides, I was very anxious to know you. That's why I pretended to study art. So you see I'm a fraud, too. I love you, Frances, and I was hoping all the time that you would learn to love me."

She buried her face against his coat and cried for happiness.

Amusement World Reflections in Text and Pictures of Players

YOU CAN'T UPLIFT THE STAGE BY POLICEMAN'S MACE OR CENSOR'S NOSE

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

SUCH plays as "Diamond Lil," Mae West's underworld drama in which she is appearing in the Alvin Theater, always raise the question of a censorship—whether there should not be some power to decide what is obscene or immoral, and to forbid it. The New York police interfered with several other plays by Miss West—"Sex" and "The Drag"—closing the theaters and putting the lady in jail for 10 days. "Diamond Lil" was considered innocuous—it did not shock the police. The voltage of the Gotham force is higher than that of Boston. New England is particularly susceptible anyway. Noah Webster himself, who knew all about words, got out an expurgated edition of the Bible, in the interest of decency.

Perhaps we ought not to point the finger of scorn at New England, for when Sir William Orpen's picture, "Myself and Venus," was brought to the Carnegie Art Gallery, the title was changed to "Portrait of the Artist." And there have been times when our Finest visited the theater to insist that Gertrude Hoffman put on stockings. That was long, long ago.

Censors Are Always Busy

Minding other people's business is an easy and popular profession. But censorships often go much further and deeper than that. They are not concerned with sex and literature alone. There are four main subjects they cover in our age:

Alcohol,
Sex,
Politics,
Religion.

Our Prohibition Amendment and Volstead Act are nothing but censorship applied to alcohol. Tragic farce as this seemingly has turned out, it should discourage other attempts to make people sober or moral by decree. So our Sedition Acts are censorship applied to political ideas. That failed in Prussia and Russia—but we're trying it every now and then, here and there, to stop labor troubles. Lastly our Blue Laws are censorship applied to religious matters; so are the Monkey Laws enacted in various states.

Fortunately the censors nearly always dig their own graves. A Russian censor once banned the Czar's own speeches, we learn from Ernst and Seagle's book, "To the Pure," and a work by Pope Leo XIII was put on the Index of Prohibited Books.

Nuisance Can Be Abated

The evils of censorship are nearly always greater than the evils it aims to combat. Germany has a new law against "trash and mud," Italy plans a Central Pornographic Office, Budapest tried to remove statues of the Venus de Milo from shop windows. What's to prevent the censors from turning on Goethe, Boccaccio and Ferenc Molnar?

Existing laws are sufficient to abate any nuisance. The censorship of common sense is all that is required. Must we hire an army of guards to keep us from being polluted by radio, movie, record, novel or drama? What is to save the censors from being polluted?

The censors seldom have common sense. They may have been justified in stopping Mae West's "Sex," but they also stopped "The Captive" of Bourdet, which was a literary drama dealing with a subject they did not like. If you want to prohibit works of suggestive nature, begin with Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" and Lempriere's "Dictionary of Mythology."

Who knows where temptation lurks? When the author of a forbidden volume of poetry was arrested in Paris, the police caught him in a cemetery, reading Boswell's Life of Johnson.

We are willing to go to any length to save other people from their vices. Disciples of Volstead suggest that rum ships of other nations be seized on the high seas. Why not take one step further, and send our Marines to burn the vineyards in Italy and France?

Maybe we can solve the question as to drama by reviving a paragraph of the Theodosian Code. For a wife to go to a theater without her husband's knowledge was ground for divorce. But how are we going to save the husbands who may go to see "Diamond Lil?"

Let's mind our own business and try to save ourselves.

THESE FOLKS BRING -:- ILLUSION -:- TO STAGE AND SCREEN

Bernice Clair is to appear in "The Desert Song," operetta returning next week to the Alvin.

Jack Carter plays a leading role in "Porgy," drama of Negro life, which will be seen in Nixon.

Howard Thurston is to remain in the Pitt for a third week with his popular magic entertainment.

Trixie Friganza is to be a feature of the Keith-Albee-Orpheum vaudeville bill in the Davis.

Fannie Brice, in "My Man," will make her screen debut in the Stanley. It is a sound film.

Dolores Del Rio, in "The Trail of '98," with sound effects, will be seen on the Penn screen.

ONE EAGLE ON DOLLAR WORTH TWO IN CAGE, MOVIE ACTRESS FINDS

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 17.

FOR the first time in her hectic young life, Lupe Velez is a-twitter. Verily, the Mex chili bean is a-twitter.

Gary Cooper presented the Lupe (pronounced as though 'twer whoopee) with an eagle measuring a 7-foot wing spread. Though in a quandary over her gift, Lupe ordered a large cage to be built in the backyard of her Laurel Canyon home. No one else dared enter the cage to feed the ferocious looking bird, so Lupe turned waitress extraordinaire. She had no fear about this, but she feared greatly the eagle would succeed in hypnotizing and therefore eating her miniature Chihuahua dog, Millitone.

Because of the bird, the Velez' butcher bill increased. She must feed it a rabbit a day and plenty of raw meat to keep the doctor away. That was all right, until—Gary came to visit the eagle and discovered it beating furiously about the cage. He accused Lupe of not feeding it. This, she indignantly denied. Suddenly, Gary espied the water pan was empty. Lupe gasped her dismay. She had forgotten to give it water for two days. Together they filled a bucket and shoved it into the parched bird.

Lupe Velez

It drank long and noisily. Which ended episode 1.

A few days ago, Gary departed on a location trip. Twenty-four hours later Lupe received a letter from him. Lupe read it. Lupe fumed. Lupe sputtered. Why? Why, the dear lad wrote he was sending her a mate for her eagle!

And now the Mex chili bean concludes an eagle on the dollar is worth two in the cage. Likewise—Ouch.

VARIED NOTE MARKS NEW SHOWS

Seats are on sale in the Pitt box office for the third and last week of the engagement of Thurston, magician, who has been crowding the theater during his engagement. His company is a large one, numbering 35 assistants, including a number of pretty girls. There is a matinee today.

Jimmy Savo, with Joan Franza, in "Slow Motion," will be among the attractions in the two-a-day Keith-Albee-Orpheum vaudeville program in the Davis next week. "Slow Motion" includes a travesty on slow motion pictures.

"The Desert Song" seat sale in the box office of the Alvin is in effect today. The farewell week of this musical romance in Pittsburgh, is scheduled to open next Monday night, January 21. The same fine cast, seen here previously, headed by Alexander Gray, Bernard Granville and Bernice Claire, will return.

Seats are obtainable in the box office of the Nixon for "Porgy," a production of the Theater Guild Company, of New York. "Porgy" comes to Pittsburgh from an engagement of 49 weeks in New York in the Guild and Republic Theaters, New York. It is a vivid play of the shadows and sunshine of Charleston's Catfish Row.

"The Trail of '98," with Dolores Del Rio, based on the novel by Robert W. Service, will be the screen feature in the Penn next week. Ad. Carter, cartoonist, whose "Just Kids" is a Sun-Telegraph comic, will be feature in the stage presentation, which brings his kid characters to life.

Fannie Brice, one of the most popular comediennes of the stage, is the star of the Vitaphone special production, "My Man," which comes to the Stanley Theater next week. This marks the first screen appearance of Miss Brice.

"Captain Lash," next week's synchronized feature at Loew's Aldine, has Victor McLaglen in the title role and Claire Windsor as a pretty blonde who makes a shorn lamb of a Simon Legree.

Ruth Chatterton, famous stage actress, appears as leading woman with Emil Jannings in "Sins of the Fathers," Paramount sound film coming to the Grand next week. It is Miss Chatterton's first appearance in the movies.

Farrell MacDonald in "Riley the Cop," and "Forget Me Not," with David Rollins, a talkie, are the screen features in the Sheridan Square the last half of this week. Vaudeville is headed by Gene Greene and Company.

"Girls from the Follies" will be the attraction in the Academy next week, with Gladys Clark and Sam Raynor in the principal roles.

A talking picture program will be seen in the Harris the last half of this week, headed by "Forget Me Not," a comedy drama. The vaudeville acts will be headed by the Melodious Maids.

Colleen Moore is the star of First National's "Synthetic Sin," coming to the Enright Theater, East Liberty, Saturday. Antonio Moreno plays opposite the star.

"The Man Who Laughs," with Conrad Veidt and Mary Philbin, will have its first screenings in East Liberty in the Regent, beginning Saturday.

"Movie Star" Dance In South Side Hall

Johnny Jones, old-time dance promoter, will present a dance and entertainment, "A Night With the Movie Stars," in his movie hall and carnival tonight, in Odd Fellows Gardens, 1800 Sarah street, South Side. Cash prizes will be awarded those whose resemblances to movie stars are distinctive. Joseph Kaine's Orchestra will provide a special musical program.

Allegheny Seniors To Give Class Play

The senior class of Allegheny High School will present "Kemp" as the class play in the high school auditorium January 24 and 25. The students will make their own scenery and lighting fixtures in the wood and electric shops at the school. Mary Smith is general chairman of the play.

Fashion Maker Unsung Hero

INTRODUCING, please, Max Ree, youthful fashion director for First National. Max has consented to conduct a style department exclusively for this column. He will keep you in authoritative touch and view of the flicker lights and what they are wearing. Mr. Ree is an outstanding figure in the film colony. He was born in Sweden and is a countryman of Greta Garbo. He served Max Reinhardt, famous European stage maestro, for years as fashion director. Since coming to Hollywood, he has been an unsung picture hero. Many film players are indebted to him for their charm and grace on the silver sheet, due, in many instances to the frocks, coats and hats he designed for them.

Anita Desires Big Wedding

ANITA STEWART is scurrying around the country these days, accompanied by her fiancee, George Converse. George recently completed a two-reel picture starring Anita ycleept "Anita Stewart in Hollywood." He spent plenty do-re-me on it and together they are now reaping a pleasant return. Anita opened in San Francisco. She appeared with the film, singing several songs. I remember when Anita went in heavy for "Madame Butterfly." She had an apartment on the same court as I did. That fem rose with the crack of light and started screaming butterfly. Twas a pity the darn thing ever wriggled out of its cocoon. But Anita has improved since those piercing days.

Anita Stewart.

When she and George return from their flicker marathon, they're going to do a lockstep to the altar. A big church wedding, said Anita. None of this yes-and-run racket for hers.

Screen Scribs—Lane Chandler ambling across a parking station on Melrose avenue. . . . Alice White has gone in for culture in a grammatical way. . . . George Hale and Charlie Chaplin, goeth the whispery wheezers, are seeing the town together rather frequently these days. . . . Mrs. Jack Warner's lovely Beverly Hills home socked the Vitaphone bankroll for 90,000 grand. . . . Jane Winton enjoying sunny California wrapped in a squirrel coat. . . . Chamber of Commerce please note—and—that's all.

Uses the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique to Keep Her

TEETH Sparkling WHITE!

Read what she says:

"Teeth must flash white across the footlights," says charming Marilyn Miller, "or else all charm is lost."

"I pay special attention to the teeth, as do most members of my profession. Some time ago I made it a point to ask my dentist which toothpaste to use and he recommended Kolynos on a dry brush. I must say my experience bears him out, for my teeth are undoubtedly cleaner and whiter for the use of this splendid dentifrice."

Marilyn Miller

Removes the "Yellow"

Whitens Teeth 3 Shades in 3 Days!

YELLOW teeth, ugly and forbidding, are no more necessary than black finger nails.

For the "yellow" is but a mucin coating, or plaque that forms on the teeth and absorbs stains. The average dentifrice only cuts tiny furrows in this slippery coating, but the Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique removes it!

A half-inch of Kolynos on a dry tooth brush fills the mouth with a foam that is "live" and antiseptic. The use of a dry brush means that you use Kolynos full strength, also that the brush bristles remain stiff enough for scrubbing the teeth and penetrating the spaces between.

The "live" and active Kolynos foam works on the yellow plaque like millions of tiny fingers. It breaks it up and washes it completely off the teeth, cleaning them down to the naked, white enamel. The foam pushes its way into all the crevices between the teeth. It cleans out and disinfects those places where germs lodge and cause decay. It cleans and purifies the entire mouth.

DENTAL CREAM

Climbing

First Ziegfeld picked her for his "Follies." Next she was chosen for "Rio Rita," and now Warner Brothers will present her in the movies. Dainty Agnes Franey is climbing; helped by clever dancing and seldom equaled beauty.

Miss Franey says: "I don't believe in overlooking anything which helps add to your attractiveness. I am most particular about my hair and so many friends compliment me on its softness and lustre that I am sure my method of caring for it is right. Nearly all the girls I know here in New York are using it, now. It is so easy. All we do is put a little Danderine on our brushes each time we dress our hair. It makes my hair easy to dress and holds it in place wonderfully. It has gotten rid of my dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so comfortable that I don't shampoo half as often as I did before. And best of all, it gives my hair a softer, more silky and lustrous appearance than anything I've ever found."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color, makes it fairly sparkle! Dandruff usually disappears when you use Danderine. Waves "set" with it stay in longer. It's delicately fragranced; isn't oily; doesn't show. It's economical. The 35c bottles will last several weeks. All drug stores recommend and guarantee it.

Indian Princess And $50,000 Gone

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Search is under way by federal, county and city officers for the Princess Rose Marie, wealthy and beautiful Indian bride of Chief Red Wing, who, the husband says, was kidnaped on the night of January 9 with $50,000 from oil royalties in her possession.

Red Wing said he last saw his wife downtown on the afternoon of her disappearance. The missing princess is 26, and was married last August.

Auto Skids on Ice, Train Kills Four

BRENTWOOD, N. Y., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Four persons were killed when their automobile was struck at a crossing by an east-bound train on the Long Island Railroad near here last night. Those killed were Harold Candell, 26, of Farmingdale, N. Y.; his wife, Agnes, 21; John Holmes, 40, his father-in-law, of Brentwood Park, and Anna Holmes, 18, also of Brentwood Park.

It was believed that Candell saw the train, but that the car slid on the ice-covered road to the tracks.

CRUISERS BILL HITS SNAG IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Unless all signs fail, the cruiser bill faces in the Senate something of the experience that Boulder Dam and the Kellogg treaty have already gone through at this session—days of debate and controversy before the final vote.

The Senate had the measure before it today, having heard Senator Swanson, Democrat, Virginia, declare that in his belief the bill would in reality be a peace measure, since it would serve notice, if passed, that the United States intended for her Navy to be equally as strong as that of England. The Senator from Virginia took the view that this would cause Great Britain to decide that a pact for naval equality and a further discussion of armament limitation was necessary.

There was no indication that Swanson's speech had changed the minds of the group opposed to the building of 15 cruisers and one aircraft carrier.

President Coolidge favors the bill, but his recommendation that the time limit of three years for building the ships be removed has caused dissension.

In the historic east room of the White House, Senate members gathered this morning to watch the formal signing, by President Coolidge, of the Kellogg treaty for the renunciation of war as an instrument of national policy. The ceremony was set for 10 o'clock.

Baltimore Vote Frauds Related

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Buying of votes, the casting of one vote in the name of a dead man and "repeating" in the Third Congressional District, Baltimore, in the general election last November were described yesterday by witnesses appearing in the contest brought in the re-election of Vincent L. Palmisano, Democrat, to the House of Representatives by Col. John Philip Hill, defeated Republican. The testimony, when completed, is to be taken to Congress, where a fight over the seating of Mr. Palmisano is to be made.

Life-Long Friend Of Hoover Dies

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Lester J. Hinsdale, 58, Sacramento attorney and life-long friend of President-elect Herbert Hoover, died here yesterday after a long illness. He was president of the Chamber of Commerce and was a member of the California delegation to the Republican national convention in Kansas City.

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today, we have the candy Cascaret.

Cascarizing the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, an occasional Cascaret will usually break the habit. For cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the man-made purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy Cascarets are its ideal form. At least a million people know this; what a pity there are any who don't! Especially parents; because children love to take a Cascaret. After which, for days-on-end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascarets tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another Cascaret is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't Cascarets, so WHY experiment with laxatives?

Sufferer Felt Living Was Not Worth the While

Man of 81 Had Given Up Hope of Recovering Health When Konjola Came to the Rescue.

MR. CHRISTIAN HESS

Like the miracles of old seem many of the reports from those who have found new and glorious health in Konjola, the master medicine, which the Konjola Man is explaining daily to crowds of seekers after health at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city. Each day adds to the mountain of praise bestowed upon this remarkable remedy for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola's vast and astounding success in the most stubborn cases is due to the fact that Konjola goes directly to the afflicted organs, purifying, cleansing, invigorating and spurring them into proper action. Among the thousands of endorsements of this remarkable remedy is one of particular interest: the case of Mr. Christian Hess, 81, of Wheatland, Pa. This venerable citizen, a resident of Wheatland for 60 years, is happy to add his words of gratitude and praise. He says:

"I feel like a new man and all the credit goes to Konjola! For years I suffered from stomach trouble, weak kidneys, faulty liver and rheumatism, and try as I would, I found not a thing to help me. This fruitless search for health continued over a period of fifteen years, and you can imagine that I was about disgusted with my efforts to find relief. Indigestion, followed by bloating and gas, caused me intense pain and sapped my strength. My kidneys got me up many times at night, ruining my needed rest. Rheumatism in hips, shoulder and across my back added to my misery, and I finally came to the point where I felt that living was not worth while.

"Konjola was recommended, but I was not impressed. I had been fooled too often with false hopes. But my friends insisted that I give this new medicine a trial. Well, strange as it may seem, I began to feel improvement with the very first bottle of this marvelous compound. With the fourth bottle all of my ailments were swept away as by a magic broom. I can eat anything, sleep all night and what a relief this is. My rheumatism has disappeared. I think it little short of miraculous that any medicine could bring relief to a man of 81 who was afflicted as I was for fifteen years. You may refer anyone to me. I'll be happy to urge any sufferer to find new health in this new medicine."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of this Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health thru this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this section.

FOCH GAINING STRENGTH

PARIS, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Gen. Foch was somewhat improved today in his gallant fight against heart disease complicated by kidney trouble.

The following bulletin on his condition was issued this morning:

"The slight improvement noticed during the last three days continues."

It was signed by Drs. Daveniere, Heitz-Boyer and Degennes, who also reported that the General was taking more nourishment, which was adding to his strength and resistance.

The General's morale continues good. He was anxious to answer many of the messages which have poured in from prominent personages all over the world. The physicians attending the General have only one fear. That is the possibility of a sudden stroke.

Georges Clemenceau, France's war-time premier, who has been ill with grippe, is making good progress and no longer considers himself as "under the weather." He said today that there were not going to be any health bulletins issued from his house. The former premier is able to get sleep.

Homer D. Williams Leaves for Honolulu

Homer D. Williams, president of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, will leave today for Honolulu for a much-needed rest and opportunity to recuperate from an attack of pneumonia. His wife will accompany him. Mr. Williams has been ill in his home, 5606 Aylesboro avenue, for the last month.

IT ENDED ALL HER SUFFERING

Pittsburgh Lady Astonished Way Ten Herbs Helped Her Back to Health.

"No one could have made me believe that any medicine could have so completely relieved my health troubles in such a short time as Ten

MRS. ELISABETH BEGLY

Herbs has," was the recent statement of Mrs. Elisabeth Begly, 1760 West Liberty Avenue, South Hills, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this tremendously successful compound to crowds of men and women. "Your medicine certainly has done wonders for me," Mrs. Begly continued.

"I suffered with my stomach for two years, and was on the verge of a complete physical breakdown. I was troubled with gas, shortness of breath and heartburn. I lost my appetite entirely. There were pains in my back and limbs. I would have such terrible dizzy spells that I would almost fall over. I had been bothered with constipation for years and had to keep using laxatives. My kidneys were out of order and this caused me much distress.

"After reading in the papers of so many persons being helped by Ten Herbs, I started using your medicine. I feel like a new person now. Stomach trouble is gone, and I am free of gas pains and heartburn. The pains in my back and limbs are things of the past. I am no longer troubled with dizziness. Constipation has been corrected, and my kidneys seem to have been very much improved. My appetite is normal, and I feel much stronger. Ten Herbs gave me wonderful results, and I am pleased to recommend it to others."

Let Ten Herbs build up your general health—thoroughly cleanse and tone up your entire system. Let it benefit your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Then you will have greater power with which to resist influenza, la grippe and other disease forces, and common colds.

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Mr. George H. Lant Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples.

"My facial trouble started with hard pimples that festered. They were dark red in color and about the size of a pea. I squeezed them which only made them more unsightly. After washing my face they sometimes became irritated. The trouble lasted about nine months.

"I tried other remedies with no marked success. A friend advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a free sample. Good results were noted so I purchased more and in about two months I was completely healed." (Signed) George H. Lant, Box 45, Eagleville, Pa., July 10, 1928.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Three Short Plays on Schedule

THESE are dull days, aren't they? Not so dull, perhaps, for the girls who are going to be married soon and are being rather extensively entertained. But for that big majority of folks who are not included in these parties, there is little going on. It's a typical January state of affairs, though, and only to be expected, with so many of our society group leaving the city.

Some of our old friends on the winter social calendar, though, are being heard from. One of these is the next Stage and Play Society performance, set, as I believe I told you before, for Thursday night, February 7, in Carnegie Music Hall. I've been inquiring around a little and find that the society is planning to present three short plays, as is a frequent custom, and rehearsals will begin in a short time.

One of these plays will be "Snake," which is included in the book of plays, "Mon Ami Pierrot," written by Carroll Fitzhugh, president of the society. The Fitzhughs, by the way, returned just a week or so ago from Europe, where they had been traveling for several months, so Mr. Fitzhugh will be here for the rehearsals as well as the performance.

Arthur Schnitzler's "The Farewell Supper" is also on the society's program for the evening, and the third will be "Miss Murphy," a Harvard Workshop play.

The casts haven't been quite completed, so I will have to reserve that piece of news for a little later date.

BUT to return to the subject of these much-entertained brides-to-be, two parties are scheduled for today in honor of Anne Louise Marshall, who will marry Wallace Hurtle Rowe, Jr., on Saturday. Mary Mellon McClung, who will be one of the bridesmaids, gave a luncheon for both the girls and men of the bridal party at her houe in Murrayhill avenue, and tonight, Juliet Hillman, who is also to be a bridesmaid, is going to give a dinner dance for the bridal party in her home.

Yesterday, there was a luncheon in the William Penn Hotel for Anne Louise and her fiance. The host at this party was Henry Pearce Wright, of Beechwood boulevard.

WE can't refrain from discussing the travelers, though, can we? Did you know that William Larimer Jones, Jr., of Fifth avenue, left early in the week to spend some time at Palm Springs, Cal.? Mrs. Jones and their children will join him there a little later in the season, I believe.

Then Dr. and Mrs. William W. Blair, of Woodland road, are away from the city, too. They are at Nassau, in the Bahamas, going there from Miami, where they spent a short time. Matthew Taylor is at Nassau, too, and so are Mr. and Mrs. J. Judson Brooks, of South Linden avenue, and their sons, Alfred P. Brooks and John H. Brooks.

A little later, the G. Faber Downeys, of Woodland road, Sewickley, will be in Nassau, also, I hear. They are planning to leave early in February to spend a short time shooting at the Good Hope Club in South Carolina, and will go on then to Palm Beach and Nassau.

ONE of the girls I had thought would make her debut next winter has postponed it again, I understand. She is Elizabeth May Stieren, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Stieren, of the Bellefield Dwellings, and she is a sophomore this year at Smith College, where her elder sister, Josephine, is a senior. Her parents are planning to send her to Sorbonne next winter, it seems, so the coming-out party is deferred.

MRS. JOSEPH W. M'CARTHY, of Carnegie place, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Elsie Corynne McCarthy, and Charles Warren Kimball, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Kimball, of Germantown. Mr. and Mrs. Kimball will be at home in this city after February 15.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the marriage of Miss Anne Wanetick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Wanetick, of Kennett square, Oakland, and Harvey Deaktor, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Deaktor, of Baywood street, which was solemnized January 1 in the Rittenhouse. After an eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Deaktor will be at home in Gross street.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the engagement of Miss Annabelle G. Vernon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Vernon, of Mt. Lebanon, to Herbert L. Nicholl, of New Orleans, La., son of Herbert Nicholl, of Brooklyn, N. Y. No wedding date has been set.

MRS. ALEXANDER C. CROUCH, of the East End, has made known the engagement of her granddaughter, Miss Sara A. Crouch, to Dr. William E. Kuechenmeister, of this city. Dr. Kuechenmeister is connected with the University of Pittsburgh and the Elizabeth Steele Magee Hospital.

Mt. Lebanon Club's Program Unusual

THE Woman's Fortnightly Review of Mt. Lebanon, added another page to its history of original programs yesterday when "The Long Bright World" (New Zealand) was discussed by Mrs. John McKelvie, Mrs. H. B. Long and Mrs. W. E. McKnight, of the club, and Mrs. C. C. Kochenderfer, a visitor from the neighboring organization, the Woman's Club of Mt. Lebanon. Under Mrs. McKelvie's chairmanship, the scene had been set (in the home of Mrs. Ralph Radcliffe in Voelkel avenue) as a shipping office where Mrs. McKelvie was the agent, Mrs. Long a garrulous pre-informed traveler, and the other two participants ticket buyers. Through their conversation, characteristically conducted, much information was gleaned by the other members of the club concerning New Zealand's history, folk lore, industries, customs and scenic wonders. Mrs. Kochenderfer, who is a native of the country, had facts of especial interest to give and also sang in the Maori tongue and demonstrated a native dance. She was accompanied by Mrs. H. B. McBeth. Flightless birds, sheep being given the right of way, boating on boiling lakes, old age pensions, 90 out of every 100 persons voting, profit sharing in public utilities, wood carving and fern forests were among the more unusual points brought out concerning this country, which was the first to grant its women equal suffrage.

THE last luncheon in the Pittsburgh Y. W. C. A. budget campaign will be held tomorrow in Central Branch and the campaign will be closed with a dinner on Monday night. At yesterday's luncheon reports showed a total of $51,540.40, of which $17,505 had been added yesterday. John Manley, executive secretary of the Downtown Y. M. C. A., and C. R. Wuertenberger, of the North Side Y. M. C. A., were the speakers and the invocation was by the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers. Mrs. R. D. Campbell, of the Lawrenceville branch, presided.

MISS HELEN BELL RUSH, soprano, and Cass Ward Whitney, baritone, with Earl Mitchell at the piano, will present the program tomorrow for the musicale of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club. The occasion will be a guest day and will be held in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, in charge of Mrs. S. B. Cuthbert. Tea will supplement the program.

"SCHOLARSHIPS AND FOREIGN STUDENTS" is the subject upon which Mrs. Leroy Mitchell will speak Saturday before the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club. Mrs. Eda Schaffer Kreiling will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Alma Seifert. The program, which is in charge of Mrs. George J. Campbell, will follow luncheon in the Congress of Clubs.

HADASSAH CHAPTER of Pittsburgh will have as speaker at an open meeting Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. & W. H. A. Mrs. Pool, wife of the distinguished scholar and rabbi of the Spanish-Portuguese Synagogue of New York City, the Rev. Dr. David de Sola Pool.

ALUMNAE of the University of Pittsburgh Chapter, Eta, of the Beta Phi Alpha fraternity, will hold a bridge luncheon Saturday in the Congress of Clubs. Miss Wilma Eckert and Miss Beryl Baker will be hostesses.

MRS. JANE PACKHAM ALEXANDER, contralto; Miss Alberta Irvine, soprano, and Mark Meyer, violinist, accompanied by Miss Marjory Meyer, will give the program at the musicale tea which the East Liberty Woman's Club will have Saturday afternoon. It will be held under auspices of the ways and means committee in the home of Mrs. H. B. Ackerman, North Beatty street.

DEAN CORNWELL, ARTIST, AMONG NOTABLES ON AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

DEAN CORNWELL, artist, and Irving Kaufman, comedian will be heard over KDKA tonight while WJAS will offer two new features, "Aunt Jemima" and "Closeups."

Of particular interest to Pittsburgh club women is the address of Mrs. John F. Sippel, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which will be heard from WCAE at 10 o'clock.

Spier and Coslow are scheduled to entertain from WCAE at 8 o'clock during the Song Shop broadcast. Gertrude Mohr, musical director, will give an "all-MacDowell" program at 7:10 o'clock.

Virginia Kendrick, popular radio contralto, will present an "All-Pittsburgh" concert in the Kemble and Mills Hour over KDKA at 7:30 p. m. She will sing compositions by Foster, Harvey Gaul and Richard Kountz.

JUNE ATMOSPHERE

The soft breath of June will waft through the mid-January ether at 8:30 o'clock when the Seiberling Singers, WCAE, tear six months from the new 1929 calendar and do a summer program. Abandoning Old Man Winter to his own devices they will transport their listeners from steam-heated latitudes to India, Italy and Japan with a program of delightful love songs. The program will include a performance by the "Singing Violins" of Amy Woodforde-Finden's "Kashmiri Love Song," and Victor Herbert's "Neapolitan Love Song," sung by James Melton, tenor.

The Oriental opera, "Pearl Fishers," will be given by the United Light Opera Company over WJAS at 8 o'clock.

"Closeups" at 10:30 p. m. is a new feature, depicting the process in the manufacture of a motion picture. The first episode tonight will introduce the hero and heroine, the director and the cameramen.

"WHOOPEE NIGHT"

From KQV at 9:30 o'clock the Capitol Limited Trio will offer a special program of popular songs. The usual Thursday night organ recital at 11 p. m. will be followed at midnight by a special "Whoopee Night" at the Flotilla Club, featuring Bebe Falvo and other entertainers.

The Mid-Week Hymn Sing from WEAF at 7 o'clock has a nice appeal. Several old favorites will be sung by the quartet and soloists. These include "Home of the Soul," "He Leadeth Me," "I Love to Tell the Story" and "Faith of Our Fathers."

Bolliedieu's overture to the opera, "Caliph of Bagdad," is a request number, selected for the opening of slumber music at 11 p. m. over WJZ, WRC. Solos will be offered on the cello, violin, piano and viola. The program will close with Schumann's "Second Suite."

"ALL PITTSBURGH."

Miss Kendrick has selected an "All Pittsburgh" program. Her first number will be the old familiar, but yet very popular number, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," by the late Stephen Collins Foster. The second number, "Thou Art the Night Wind," by Harvey Gaul, and other selections are, "Land of the Sky Blue Water," by Cadman, and "The Sleigh," by Richard Kountz.

The orchestra will play "Lend Me Your Pretty Baby," "I Could Love Good Little Bad Little You," "A Room With a View," "Moonlight Madness," and "Anything Your Heart Desires."

Frederick G. Rodgers, director and special announcer, will present the guest soloist.

DEAN CORNWELL.

Dean Cornwell, American artist, illustrator, world traveler, who has lately returned to New York after four years' painting abroad, will be guest speaker. He will tell wherein the American girl decidedly outranks European girls in knowing how to assemble her good points and succeed in being more charming.

The program includes a musical offering by Jack Shilkret's novelty orchestra, instrumental soloists and a male quartet.

"PEARL FISHERS."

The subject is Oriental, and the music is full of charm and originality. The story tells of the love of two Singhalese pearl fishers for the priestess Leila and of the generosity of the unsuccessful rival, who helps the lovers to escape at the cost of his own life. The last scene, where Zurga, the unfortunate one, is burned on a funeral pyre, is a most dramatic one, with music that fully lives up to its subject.

Do You Know What a Woman of 30 Should Weigh?

It all depends on her height of course.

If she is five feet seven inches in height she should weigh according to the best authorities 142 pounds.

If she is 5 feet 5 inches her normal weight is 134 pounds.

If she is 5 feet 3 inches she should weigh 127 pounds.

It's dangerous to be always striving to grow thin—the Adirondack Mountains and health resorts everywhere are filled with health shattered women who will tell you that it doesn't pay to be too thin.

That is why so many thousands of underweight men and women are putting their faith in McCoy's Tablets.

McCoy takes all the risk—Read this ironclad guarantee. If after taking 4 sixty cent boxes of McCoy's Tablets or 2 One Dollar boxes any thin, underweight man or woman doesn't gain at least 5 pounds and feel completely satisfied with the marked improvement in health—your money will be returned.

Just ask for McCoy's Tablets at May's, or any drug store in America.

PIONEER TEXAS OIL MAN DIES

FORT WORTH, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Breckenridge Stephens Walker, a hero of Western Texas and born poor, died here yesterday a multi-millionaire. He had lived all his life of 52 years upon the soil that sheltered his wealth, brought forth in gleaming oil.

The Texan's first name came from a town that oil raised from a population of 1,000 in 1917 to more than 20,000 two years later. His middle name came from the county, west of here, in which several famous oil towns sprang into centers of bustling activity, where sleds carried passengers at 25 cents a head across streets waist deep in mud and where ham and eggs rose in price to equal that charged for use of a cot in an army tent.

He invested all the funds he could in land and oil leases and ropalties and when the oil boom swept over that section of Texas, almost overnight he became princely wealthy.

Deputy Constable Named for 5th Ward

Louis C. Shiring, Jr., of 2915 Bedford avenue, was appointed deputy constable for Alderman Martin J. Griffin of the Fifth Ward, by Judge James B. Drew in Quarter Sessions Court yesterday. A vacancy existed because of the death of Patrick A. Mullen. There was no contest for the appointment, which was favored by Councilman James F. Malone, leader of the Fifth Ward.

Bust of Hamilton In Hall of Fame Is Stolen

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Dr. Elmer Ellsworth Brown, chancellor of New York University, said last night that a bronze bust of Alexander Hamilton had been taken from the Hall of Fame for great Americans on the campus of the university.

The loss was discovered by one of the four watchmen employed to guard the campus and after an inquiry by university officials had failed, the theft was reported to the police.

The bust was the work of Giuseppi Ceracchi. It was the gift of the Alexander Hamilton Institute and was placed in the hall in 1923.

SPENT $1500 TRYING TO GET WELL

Then Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brought Relief

This startling letter from an ex-service man will interest everyone who suffers from constipation:

"I was discharged after the World War with heart trouble and bad stomach. I had saved about $1500. Since then I've spent that sum and a lot more on doctoring and operations and medicines. I always was bothered with constipation.

"I told my wife to get some kind of light breakfast food and I would try it. She came home with a small package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I ate it for breakfast, lunch and dinner, about a common tea-saucer full with milk at each meal. I have been doing this for about a month. I have stopped taking dope (medicines). I work 9 to 12 hours. I have a good appetite. And now I am gaining flesh and believe I am getting well."—GEORGE C. O'CONNELL, Barker, N. Y.

Cleanse your system of constipation's poisons. Thousands have regained their old-time vigor and vim, stopped constipation forever, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Relief is guaranteed. ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. 100% effective—doctors recommend it. Ready-to-serve with milk or cream. Use in cooking. See the recipes on the package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants—dining cars.

ACID STOMACH RUINS APPETITE

Thin, pale people—the despondent sort who never have an appetite, and complain of headaches, indigestion, dizziness, biliousness, usually have too much acid in their stomach. And unless they displace it, any food they eat turns into sour bile and foul gases, which poison their system.

Pape's Diapepsin dissolves that poisonous acid, sweetens the stomach and digests your meals. Many thousands of people have brought back the appetite of their youth and gained weight simply by chewing one of the pleasant tablets of Pape's Diapepsin after meals.

It does what it promises. That's the reason 5 million packages are used a year—ask your nearest druggist for it.

Pape's DIAPEPSIN

WHYTE-FOX FOR COLDS

A head or chest cold that hangs on may lead to chronic and dangerous complications. At the first sniffle get a small jar of WHYTE-FOX No. 2 from your druggist and be surprised how quickly it corrects your trouble. WHYTE-FOX No. 2 is the new safe way to heal head and chest colds by medicated inhalation.

Geraldine Farrar must have been gratified with the fine ovation given her when she stepped on the stage at Carnegie Music Hall last evening. After her third group of songs the applause continued for some minutes in response to a superb interpretation of an old French song, "The Fan," during which she gave those who had never seen her on the operatic stage a most delicate souvenir of her genius as an actress.

During the great war I used to observe how the brave French women in their need had taken their gowns of a better day, had stripped them of all the frayed trimmings, and, with the artistic deftness of their race, had retained all that was best and had perhaps added an occasional touch of new color to revive the garments. That is the state of Farrar's singing today. She has cut away all the tinsel of the prima donna and the opera. There remains the undoubted genius of her first triumphs, the style that she found in the studio of the unsurpassed Lilli Lehmann, and a musicianship which finds in miniatures the vast charm of her personality.

The voice is better than a year ago. It seems to have gained in volume, and of breath there is no limit. Endless phrases permitted most subtle touches in humor, aided by the briefest possible gesture.

In Farrar's program were wonderful lieder, given with keenest appreciation of their music and sentiment; an old air of Scarlatti, vocally an exquisite model, and the winsome Mozart air from "Marriage of Figaro"; two French songs of old-fashioned simplicity; and then more classic songs in worthy English translation. There were buoyancy and pathos, choicest deviltry contrasted with exultation, naivete and sophistication; in short, an unerring sense and wisdom of the truth in every song. As encores, the Mozart selection and Schumann's "Nussbaum" were irresistible.

Claude Gonvierre was the accompanist.

New German Formula Ends Rheumatic Pains

A new preparation has been discovered which seems to neutralize the poisons that cause Rheumatic pains and affords immediate relief from pain.

German chemistry that has given to the world the boon of Aspirin for the relief of headache pain, and Novocaine for painless dentistry, has now come forward with another scientific discovery that promises to make rheumatic pain a thing of the past for thousands who have suffered terrible tortures.

Even in the most advanced and stubborn cases the use of this remarkable preparation has shown astonishing improvement at once in many cases. Tired muscles regain life, creaking joints with the pain all gone become supple and the annoying twinges cease.

Rheumatism, in many cases, is due to internal abscesses, such as a blind pus pocket in a tooth or diseased tonsils, which give off poisons. These poisons are carried by the blood to the muscles and joints, and this new preparation is designed to neutralize these pain-causing poisons.

So astonishing have been the results from the use of this preparation that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense it to rheumatic sufferers in this city with a positive written guarantee, signed by themselves, to return the full purchase price of the first treatment if the rheumatic pains are not wonderfully relieved. All who suffer from rheumatic pains should take advantage of this liberal offer. Unless you get relief from the very first treatment, May's will refund your money. It is called Rheumesa and the regular $2.50 package may be had at May's Drug Stores at the special introductory price of $1.95.

TWO HURT WHEN HIT BY SKIDDING AUTO

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE "I'm the Guy" contest being run by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is appealing to all classes. In a downtown restaurant of some proportions a group of business men were using the backs of the menu cards to write down a few offerings. Sidewalks had to sit idly by as there is a rule that employes of the paper cannot bid for the $5 prize for the best selection. That rule, so to speak, put the sigh in Sidewalks.

Mr. Perry, a conductor on the Charleroi Interurban, called in his machine for Mr. Keck, the sporting editor, and Mr. Doyle, the baseball scrivener, and Sidewalks, and through the near-zero night we motored to Charleroi where a testimonial dinner was staged for Carl Aschman, captain of the Wash-Jeff football team of 1928, a Charleroi boy who was selected as a representative of the East to play in the East-West football game.

On the way I mentioned to Mr. Doyle that I hoped George Might, a newsdealer of the town, and one of its leading citizens, would be at the affair, as it had been several years since I had seen him.

Hats and coats were barely off when John K. Tener, another stalwart of the town, came up and said: "There is a pall over the affair tonight. George Might just dropped dead."

TWO speakers at that affair especially attracted Sidewalks. One was the towering John Tener, a man of many honors. Onetime Governor of Pennsylvania, onetime president of the National League, onetime national exalted ruler of the Elks, Mr. Tener has scored heavily in the game of life. He began his baseball connection as a pitcher, as a great many know. The other speaker was a boy named Elmer Layden, coach of the Duquesne University football team, who was one of the famed Four Horsemen of Notre Dame.

As you observed the man Tener and went over his honors you naturally calculated mentally what of the several public and quasi-public positions he has held he deemed the most soul-satisfying. The story he told gave the answer to such speculations. As Governor one time he signed an important bill and a prominent citizen in a frenzy of enthusiasm begged for the pen, with which the bill was signed. "You have done today," said the citizen, "something, most respected sir, something that will fix you definitely in your age. You never did anything more notable." And the Governor looked at the speaker, gazed ruminatively at the ceiling of his executive office, and then stood up to his full stature of six feet, four, and said: "Hell, my friend, I once shut out the Giants."

MR. TENER came from County Tyrone in Ireland, a county that produced a group of Pittsburgh notables, some of the best assets of our town. A Tyronian always got a welcome from friends they met here. How Gov. Tener stood on Tyronians and ball players when he was at Harrisburg may be described by the statement of the late Robert McAfee, who, upon being asked one day who was in the office in conference with the Governor, replied: "I don't know, but it's my guess that it's either someone from the county of Tyrone or one of those fellows that used to catch John when he was a big league pitcher."

Elmer Layden deserves mention as he came here to gaze at a seemingly hopeless task in constructing something of the Duquesne football wreckage. In his first year he gave that school a tradition of victory, something that will help in the years to come.

But the rest of his career must almost seem like an anti-climax due to the fact that he was one of a valiant quartet of the gridiron, which immortalized itself in football history. Later on it may be Gov. Layden, Senator Layden, Millionaire Layden, or Best-Coach-in-the-Land Layden, but recalling Gov. Tener, Elmer Layden may in the midst of a future panegyric say: "Hell, I was one of the Four Horsemen at Notre Dame."

ARCHERY GAINS FANS HERE

Archery, most ancient of the arts of warfare, is daily gaining in popularity in Pittsburgh as a recreation.

Once numbering its devotees among lovers of the outdoor life, archery is slowly, but definitely becoming a fascinating and health-giving indoor sport, according to Mary K. Hubbard, of the physical education department, Central Branch Young Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh.

"Archery," Miss Hubbard said, "is particularly beneficial in correcting posture and tends to soothe jumpy nerves. It holds peculiar fascination that once a devotee, always one."

The hope is the recruiting of a sufficient number of "fans" that some day city-wide tournaments may be arranged.

"We have had our class but a few weeks and the interest being manifested is indicative of its increasing popularity," Miss Hubbard added.

Wife Grows Tired Of Paying Gas Bills

Having grown tired of paying her husband's gasoline bill and being unjustly accused, she testified, of associating with other men, Augusta M. O'Brien, 3337 Ligonier street, wants a divorce from Cornelius J. O'Brien.

Mrs. O'Brien in telling her story to Judge Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court also had some trouble with her mother-in-law, whom she said scolded her. Mrs. O'Brien had to buy her own clothes in addition to help paying her husband's bills. She said she was forced to leave her husband on account of his treatment toward her.

Right Leg Broken, Sues for $10,000

Having received a fracture of the right leg because a truck backed into him, John D. Fulghum has brought suit against Julius Weil for $10,000 damages in Common Pleas Court for personal injuries. The plaintiff says that the accident occurred while he was in front of 241 Climax street July 22, 1927. He also was injured about the body, it is stated in the bill of complaint filed by Attorney E. T. Smith.

WRIT ISSUED IN FIGHT FOR CHILDREN

Husband and wife having separated, the wife taking the children, Clarence B. Hall, 75 Greenbush street, Mt. Washington, has obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Harry H. Rowand to obtain possession of the youngsters.

In his bill of particulars he claims that the wife, Vesta Hall, took the kiddies, William Henry Hall, aged 6, and Alice June Hall, aged 4, to 417 Atwood street, where together with her stepfather, Cecil Schelly, they are now living. He says it is not a proper place for the children, as five others are living in the apartment. Judge Rowand has fixed January 23 as the date of the hearing, the husband claiming his wife has refused to permit him to see the children.

PATROLMAN TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

When his auto skidded in an effort to stop while driving in Braddock avenue at the Cable street entrance of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company's East Pittsburgh plant today, Joseph Heaven, of Murraysville, Westmoreland County, struck a police officer and an employe of the plant, police say.

Patrolman William Smith, aged 35, of 619 Durango way, Brushton, a plant policeman, directing traffic at the corner, and Isadore Grabowitz, 42, of 321 Fourth ave., Homestead, who was leaving the plant, were injured.

Police Chief Frank Kelly, of East Pittsburgh, and Westinghouse employes took the injured men to the relief department of the plant for first aid. They were later removed to the Braddock General Hospital where Officer Smith's condition is regarded as serious.

Grabowitz was not detained at the hospital. Chief Kelly arrested Heaven for reckless driving. Heaven, also an employe of the plant, was returning from work when the accident happened.

WEIRTON STEEL TO EXPAND

WEIRTON, W. Va., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—An expansion program which, it is claimed, will place the Weirton Steel Company among the largest independent steel producing concerns in the world, was announced yesterday at the company offices here.

The program calls for the erection of a new blast furnace and a battery of by-product ovens, to cost approximately $10,000,000.

The new units will adjoin the present plant of the steel company and will give the Weirton plant a monthly production of about 70,000 tons of pig iron and 70,000 tons of coke.

The company has just finished an extension program at its local plant which cost $15,000,000. The concern now employes 7,300 men and this will be increased to 8,300 when the new units have been completed.

The Weirton company also operates plants at Steubenville, O., and at Clarksburg, W. Va., and upon completion of the new blast furnace and coke ovens will be able to furnish pig iron and coke sufficient to operate all of its plants, officials said.

CHURCH CALLS PASTOR

The Sixth United Presbyterian Church, Chateau street, North Side, has extended a call to the Rev. Dr. Francis J. Scott, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Connellsville. His decision has not been received, it is said.

The pulpit of the Sixth Church has been vacant since the resignation some months ago, because of ill health, of the Rev. Dr. James Grier, formerly a professor in Pittsburgh Theological Seminary. Dr. Scott is president of the Fayette County Sunday School Association.

Man Shoots Self; Ill Health Blamed

Ill health prompted Francis Turney, 26, of 507 Thropp street, North Side, to shoot himself below the heart, in his home last night, police say. His wife, Mary Turney, in another room, heard the shot and found her husband lying on the floor with a .25-caliber revolver at his side. Turney was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital, where it was said his condition was serious.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.

The favorite sport now of all newspapers and politicians is picking Mr. Hoover's cabinet out for him.

Anybody that has ever indorsed a cigaret has been mentioned to be on it. I don't care how many of these "write up" cabinets you have been picked on. The only one that is going to draw any salary is the one Mr. Hoover picks himself.

He is going to fool you when he picks his "all-American." He is going to have so many business men on there that he will make politicians wish they had taken up some other life.

Yours, WILL.

Penn. Mother Praises Friend

There isn't a mother living who won't agree that no half-sick child should be the subject for an experiment with medicines of uncertain merit. When your child is bilious, headachy, half-sick, feverish, restless, with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy, you know that nine times out of ten it's a sign his little stomach and bowels need purging. And when you know that for over fifty years leading physicians have endorsed one preparation for this condition, there doesn't seem to be any reason for "trying" things.

Rich, fruity California Fig Syrup clears the little stomach and bowels gently, harmlessly and in a hurry. It regulates the bowels, gives tone and strength to them and to the stomach; and helps to give your child new strength, energy and vitality. Thousands of Pennsylvania mothers praise it. Mrs. Mary A. Johnston, 2012 S. Church Lane, West Philadelphia, says: "I'll never forget the friend who got me to give my baby girl California Fig Syrup. Nothing else helped her bowels, which were weak and sluggish. California Fig Syrup stopped her trouble quick, brightened her up, gave her an appetite. I have used it with both my children for colds and little upset spells ever since. I consider them Fig Syrup babies."

Insist on the genuine article. See that the carton bears the word "California." Over four million bottles used a year.

DEALERS OPEN CHEVROLET CAMPAIGN

Headed by H. J. Klingler, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, a party of Chevrolet officials reached Pittsburgh today to conduct the second of a series of dealer sales meetings and banquets which will be held in the important cities of the United States. The meeting here will be held at the Syria Mosque at 1:30 p. m. and the banquet in the William Penn Hotel ballroom at 6:30 p. m.

Chick.

More than 900 Chevrolet dealers from Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and Northern West Virginia are in the city for this annual Chevrolet affair. The dealers are accompanied by 200 leading bankers, including Frank Finely, of Wilkinsburg; F. L. Morrow, Turtle Creek; J. A. Kelso, Clairton; H. J. oBoth, McKeesport; J. H. Tritschler, Pittsburgh; E. W. Sutton, McKees Rocks; E. A. Young, Pittsburgh; J. F. Nellott, Wheeling, W. Va.; M. A. Sletcher, Fairmount, W. Va., and J. T. McNary, Steubenville, O.

General Sales Manager Klinger is prepared to sound the keynote of the biggest campaign ever undertaken by the company.

The afternoon meeting will embrace a graphic presentation of a sales talk illustrated in the form of playlets with high Chevrolet officials taking the leading roles.

Klingler.

To make this staging possible more than a carload of special show equipment, including drops, lights, cars, elaborate curtains and many other articles used on the stage, were brought here from Detroit. A special mechanical crew and several stage hands were also brought from Detroit.

Among the Chevrolet officials who are in the city besides Mr. Klinger, are William A. Blees, manager of dealers finance and accounting; J. H. Blackmore, assistant sales promotion manager; T. E. Chancellor, fleet sales division; D. G. Frazer, service promotion manager, and Will Power, of the sales department. J. C. Chick, of the Flint region, and W. E. Holler, zone sales manager of Pittsburgh, welcomed the officials to the city.

The banquet this evening in the William Penn Hotel will be for the dealers, bankers and the Chevrolet officials.

AUTOIST WELL, GOES TO JAIL

William Dickson, 23, of 1309 Bluff street, out of the hospital only a few months after an automobile accident in which his skull was fractured, today began serving three months in jail because a youth he had taken as a passenger in his car was killed in the smash-up.

Victor Ciampoli, 19, of 1322 Sixty-way, was the victim. He died of a fracture of the skull soon after the accident August 15. Dickson was tried before Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong county, in Criminal Court yesterday on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. On the witness stand he blamed the poor condition of Second avenue, near Marion junction for the accident, saying a rut threw his car on to the wrong side of the street where it collided with a milk wagon.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A CHARMING MODEL.

Diagonal lines are cleverly expressed in this design, in the shaping at the neck, and the placing of the bias apron on the front of the skirt. The waist blouses pleasingly above a narrow belt. The sleeve is finished with a band cuff below soft gathers. The dress has an underbody. Printed velvet in brown and green tones was selected for this style. The piping, belt and cuff facings are of brown crepe. Georgette, crepe de chine and chiffon are also attractive for this design.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: Eight, 10, 12 and 14 years. To make the dress for a 12-year size will require 1¼ yards of 27-inch lining for the underbody, and 3⅜ yards of material 35 inches wide together with ⅜ yard of contrasting material of the same width for facings on cuffs and belt.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

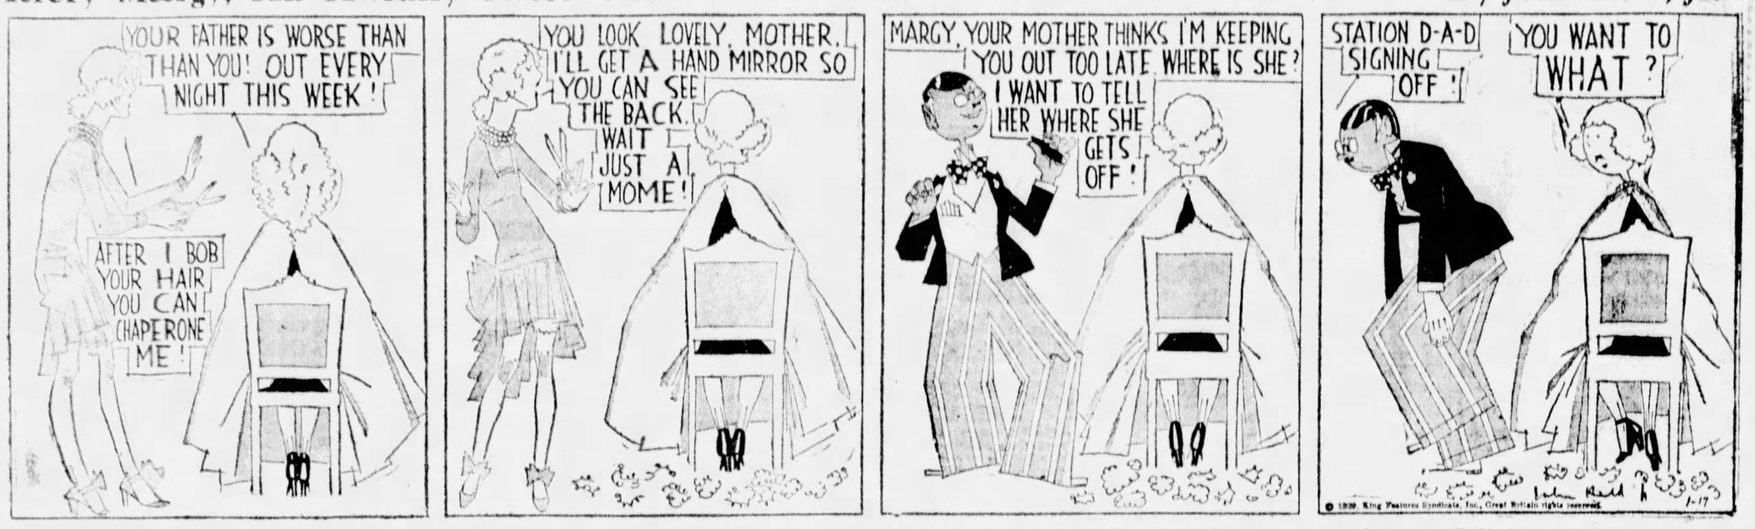
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



YOUR FATHER IS WORSE THAN THAN YOU! OUT EVERY NIGHT THIS WEEK!
AFTER I BOB YOUR HAIR YOU CAN'T CHAPERONE ME!
YOU LOOK LOVELY, MOTHER. I'LL GET A HAND MIRROR SO YOU CAN SEE THE BACK. WAIT JUST A MOME!
MARGY, YOUR MOTHER THINKS I'M KEEPING YOU OUT TOO LATE. WHERE IS SHE?
I WANT TO TELL HER WHERE SHE GETS OFF!
STATION D-A-D SIGNING OFF!
YOU WANT TO WHAT?

"My dear, I'm all-of-a-TWIT at this point—I mean I ACtually AM, because I had more darn FUN today my dear! REALly, it was SIMply exCRUciating because MOTHER finally gave IN and let me BOB her HAIR because I mean she's STILL simply LIVid about DADdy hopping out ev'ry night and I suggested that if she had her HAIR bobbed SHE could chaperone me around instead of DADdy, do you SEE? Well, ANYways, it was too SCREAMing because after I'd DONE this terribly cute JOB on her DOME? I rushed FRANtically to get a MIRror to let her see the BACK, and while I was WAND'ring vaguely ROUND looking for the MIRror, my dear, WHO should scramble dizzily in but DADdy, and, my dear, the poor soul seeing what he thought was ME sitting HEAVily in this CHAIR, draped coyly for a HAIRcut, announced that he'd tell MOTHer where she got OFF with all her incinerATions about his keeping me out LATE and everything—can you COPE with it? HONestly, my dear, you should have SEEN his exPRESsion when MOTHer suddenly turned ROUND and he discovered it was HER instead of I! I mean he was ACtually reDUCED to a PURple PULP, my dear, because I mean he was ACtually emBARrassed to TEARS, no less, do you know what I mean?"

Fight the "FLU"

Keep Your Body Free From Intestinal Poisons . . . Watch Your Diet . . . Avoid Crowds

The doctor

INFLUENZA plays no favorites. The weak and the strong, the old and the young are its prey. It's a dangerous germ disease that spreads with lightning rapidity and takes its heavy toll. Your safeguard against it is robust health—that is realized only when the system is absolutely free from poisons of constipation.

Medical authorities advise the prevention of constipation and the avoidance of crowds in fighting the "flu".

So breathe plenty of fresh air. And take this laxative which has been the family laxative for more than 20 years . . . Ex-Lax. It's the modern laxative. It tastes so good that children beg for it.

It helps to bring relief from constipation without griping or upsetting the stomach, and so protects health.

As your doctor will tell you, Ex-Lax is good for both children and grown-ups. And when influenza spreads its scourge, Ex-Lax is indispensable.

Safe and non-habit-forming. Gentle in action but thorough. Ex-Lax is pure chocolate treated with tasteless, harmless phenolphthalein which many physicians prescribe for constipation.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Deane, golden haired, dark eyed, has lived all her life with the O'Days in Washington, Pa.; for two years she has worked in the station lunch room to help pay the rent. There she meets John Blair who invites her to go to the circus. Nancy loses her job and learns she is really the granddaughter of the rich Montgomery Deane in Pittsburgh and that her mother, Julie Abbott, a circus performer, is coming to town and wants to see her. Nancy goes to the show with John and sees Julie drop from a trapeze; she rushes wildly to the hospital where her mother dies, telling her she loved her father. Nancy suddenly decided to go to Pittsburgh and Blair, whom she has grown to admire, gives her a letter to a college friend who runs the "Wear-Ever Mills." On the train she meets Ginger Varden, a model, who takes her to her own boarding house and invites her to share her room. Nancy is shocked at its disorder and doesn't know quite what to think of her new companion. Two friends of Ginger, Jerry Durant and Vic Flemming, take the girls to a party in the studio of a woman artist. Vic goes crazy over Nancy's blonde beauty and has a brawl with a man who he thinks is too attentive to her. In her amazement she meets Howard Wescott, the man to whom she has the letter from John. The next morning, disgusted with herself, she runs out of Ginger's room, hardly knowing where she is going. Gathering courage she applies at the mills for a job and Wescott tells her to report the next morning. She dashes madly to Ginger to tell her the good news, but Ginger tries to persuade her to be a model. The young men call again and Vic kisses Nancy who bursts into sobs. He quiets her and the four go on another party. Nancy is frightened when Vic drives his auto at reckless speed. John Blair sees her at dinner and she tries to explain her friends.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER X.

"WHO'S the big sheik?" Ginger asked as soon as John Blair turned from Nancy, so loudly that he must have heard her. If he did he gave no sign and hurried out of the dining room without a glance behind.

"That's what I say. Who's the big he-man brute?" Jerry added. "Is that one of the home-town boys? Looks like Gene Tunney, eh, Vic?"

Vic Flemming was angry. His scowl and the manner in which he was nervously folding and unfolding his napkin told more plainly than words that he resented Nancy's cordial greeting of John Blair, and the way she had talked to him, looking straight up into his face, half pleading.

Vic grabbed her by the wrist. "Sit down," he commanded.

Nancy snatched her hand away. Her own eyes were flashing now. The little gold glints in them began to shine. They always did when her "dander was up" Darry O'Day often said.

"Vic Flemming, what do you mean," she demanded.

"I mean just this," he said between his teeth, "I mean that I'm not going to have you flirting with any big bimbo while you're out with me. You're my girl when you're with me, understand, and if there's any cooing to be done in any guy's face, it's my face that gets it. See? I'm your papa tonight and I want you to remember it."

Nancy had never had anyone talk to her like this before. She opened her mouth to defend herself against the injustice of his anger, but no words could come.

"Why Vic Flemming—"

"Don't let him bluff you Goldie Locks," Ginger broke in.

You keep out of this."

Vic turned to Ginger, his face getting redder and redder as his anger increased.

Nancy didn't know whether to cry or to fight. The people at other tables were staring at them. She bit her lip. She decided she was through with crying if ever she was to get along in this amazing new world into which she had been hurled so suddenly.

"Vic Flemming, please listen!"

Her own face was red now. She jumped to her feet and flung her napkin down on the table. It loked as though she meant business.

"That man I was just talking to is a very dear friend of mine and of my family. He's going back to Washington tonight and I asked him to do me a favor. What it is has nothing to do with you, it's none of your affair. I wasn't flirting with him. I'm not in the habit of flirting with men in public dining rooms. Another thing, I don't know what you mean by being my papa tonight. You're not my papa and no one else is. I—"

"Sit down, kiddo, girl. I'm sorry," he said, "awfully sorry. I never thought you'd take it so hard, only that guy made me mad clean through, the way he looked at you as though he was your Godfather or something. And you just looking up in his face pleadin' like that. He looked too condescending to suit me. And it just got my goat, that's all."

He put his hand on her arm, tenderly. Nancy could see that he really was sorry.

Nancy accepted his apologies and the episode was closed. Ginger started ordering the meal, and soon they were all absorbed in discussing the things they wanted to eat.

At a roadhouse, The Green Dragon, an hour later, Nancy had just finished a marvelous dance with Vic Fleming. How she loved to dance. The jazz music made the very soles of her feet tingle. Vic was leaning over her in the small, closely packed dancing space. So crowded was the room that she hardly had excuse to object when he held her so tightly. It was a sort of protection from the swaying and the jostling of the other couples, many of them boisterous. Nancy had seen many flasks surreptitiously pulled from hip pockets and hidden under crumpled napkins.

She was learning things, keeping her eyes open. She decided she would express surprise at nothing, that she would act as blase as any of them. She wasn't going to let anybody think she was a goody-goody girl, and yet, some of the sights she saw made her blush.

She took the cigarets that Ginger and Vic offered her, as casually as though she were a confirmed smoker. They didn't notice she was only an amateur. She began to feel that perhaps she wasn't as awkward as she thought. She wondered if now, for the first time, she was really beginning to live.

"I've actually been buried alive," she mused, "it certainly was time something happened to get me out of that lunch room."

The music was starting. Vic Fleming took her in his arms again. She put her hand on his shoulder—half way around his neck. She adored any man who could dance as Vic could.

They fox-trotted in and out among the scantily clad girls and sleek young men. Vic pressed her closer and closer. Nancy could hardly breathe.

"Vic, please. Let's go out. I'm just about burning up."

The long balcony outside, with its few dim lights was empty with the exception of a couple sitting on a bench at the very farthest end. They were too engrossed in petting to pay any attention to Nancy and Vic. Vic led her the other way down to a porch swing at the other end.

"Whew, isn't it wonderful to get some fresh air?" Nancy said.

Vic's answer was a kiss. He grabbed Nancy, bent her head back, his long fingers pressing her arms. She could feel them sinking into her flesh. His lips were hot against hers.

"Nancy, Nancy, kiddo, girl. I'm simply crazy over you. I love you, Goldie Locks. I love you! I've got to have you, Nancy. Will you marry me, Goldie girl?"

Nancy tore herself out of his arms and leaned against the bannister, facing him, panting. He came toward her again, his arms outstretched. She turned to run. He grabbed her and held her arms so tightly that they hurt.

"I've got to have you, Nancy. You're the sweetest kid I've ever met. You've had me going dippy from the minute I laid eyes on you. I'm crazy jealous over you, Goldie, and when that big boy was talking to you there in the Ligonier tonight, and you looking up to him like he was Ronald Coleman—things started to go black on me. You'll marry me, kiddo, girl. Say you will."

It was the first proposal Nancy had ever received. When she was a little girl she had read many a romantic novel in which an impassioned lover made violent love to the girl he adored. Now she was experiencing the same thing, but for all the love situations she had read, she could not remember how the girl acted, what she said.

"Vic, please. Can't you let me think. Vic, can't you see I'm dazed with all that's happened in the last 36 hours. Why, I never met you until last night. You only think you love me, Vic. You're dance mad. What would you say if I told you that all I have in the world is $9, and that I just got a job in a factory?

"You think I'm smart, Vic. I'm not. Until yesterday I was never further away from Washington than Ligonier. You think I'm pretty. Well, maybe I am, but I don't know it. I don't care. All that I want in the world right now is to get a job and to work like other girls. I've got to help at home. You don't know what it is to be poor. I don't want to be married. All I want is a job.

"Were you ever hungry? Did you ever have to worry about where the next month's rent was coming from? Did you ever want nice clothes and have to be thankful that you got shoddy ones?"

She started to cry—and she had resolved that she wasn't going to cry any more. She stood with her back against the wall of the building, the wind whipping her sheer little dress. She looked cornered. She turned her face to the wall. Vic Flemming walked to her, put an arm around her, wheeled her about and kissed the tear stained face again and again.

"Nancy girl, please, don't," he begged.

"Hey, what's going on here? We've been looking for yo, high, wide and handsome. What's the idea sneaking away on us like this, pulling a little private petting party, I spose."

Jerry Durant appeared out of the darkness, and close behind him was Ginger. Ginger, in that quick way of hers, read what had happened at a glance. She went up to Nancy, put her arms around her, and turned to Vic ready to fight.

"Up to your old tricks again, eh? she said, "torturin' the kid again? Well, you're a swell egg, that's all I got to say. Let's get home out of here."

"Don't Ginger," Nancy pleaded. "Vic's alright, he hasn't done anything. I guess I'm just homesick and nervous."

Vic covered the miles to Pittsburgh in a little less than an hour. He dashed through the moonless night, reckless, crazily.

Ginger's alarm cut into the silence like a siren. Both girls jumped. For a minute Nancy couldn't imagine where she was, who she was.

"For cryin' out loud, what a machine of the devil that is," Ginger said, leaning her georgette nightgowned and beribboned form over Nancy to shut the alarm off.

The illuminated hands of the clock pointed to a quarter to seven. Nancy knew that if she wanted to get to the mills by 8 o'clock she had no time to lose. It certainly wouldn't do to be a minute late the first morning.

She jumped out of bed, standing there an instant, not knowing what to do. There was no turning back now. She tried to bury the cold fear in her heart.

"May Gawd be good to the wolkin' girl" Ginger remarked and flounced down on the pillows again.

"Hard as it is on the dogs and as much as I could scream at old Ziegelbaum, I'd rather be Ginger the Exhausted Cloak Model at this zero hour than Nancy the Socks Sorter, believe me you.

"Make some coffee for yourself, kid," she said, "you'll find it in that big cardboard box in the closet. Unfasten the old curling iron from that socket. My Lord, if a curling iron ain't more important than food these days. Life is funny, ain't it?"

The thought that life is funny must have set Ginger to pondering on other things, for she ceased talking for a few minutes, staring straight before her. Nancy untwisted the curling iron, attached the coffee percolator and in a few moments the room was filled with the odor of the boiling coffee.

"Golly that smells good," Ginger said.

Nancy gulped down a few mouthfuls, buttered herself a roll that had been lying in Ginger's closet pantry since the day before, and started putting on her hat and coat.

"You poor, innocent kid. My heart aches for you. You got so much to learn," Ginger said as she watched Nancy, "but you'll get wise, kiddo. I was just like you once myself. It ain't so long neither. Good luck, Cherio, old dear."

"'Bye, Ginger," was all Nancy was able to say.

Girls, girls, girls.

They were pouring from every direction into the big doors of the knitting mills. Some of them were laughing, fresh-faced. Some of them were serious looking beyond their years, shabby girls and well dressed girls. They were all swallowed by the gaping doors—food for a great, throbbing factory, that for eight hours kept them prisoners at merciless, tireless machines that seemed to drone their eternal song—faster, faster, faster.

Before Nancy had time to observe the stream of girls, she, too, was swallowed by the wide-open jaws of the knitting factory. She hurried up the broad stairs, following the rapid pace set by those girls who knew where they were going, just what they were doing, who had a place in the factory, a machine or a table or a typewriter to work at.

At the employment desk Nancy spied the same smiling, gray-haired woman who had helped her the day before.

"Oh, here you are," the woman said, and thrust her arm through Nancy's, "come right along. I'll show you where you are to be.

Then Nancy got her first glimpse into the actual working of the knitting factory. She was led past row after row of highly complicated machines, past great tables of the knitted product, past mountains of crates and boxes, and into a room where 50 or more girls were sitting at long tables, scrutinizing silk hose, running their fingers into them rapidly and drawing them out slowly.

"This," said the woman, "is where you will work. Miss Peterson, the forelady, will show you what to do."

Nancy, grandchild of rich and aristocratic Montgomery and Caroline Deane, foster child of Darry and Maggie O'Day, daughter of Julie Abbot, the circus trouper and Monty Dean, sat down at the sorting table in the Wear-Ever Knitting Factory.

It was the first time since her arrival in Pittsburgh that she had given a thought to the Deanes. She wondered if she would ever see them.

She wondered what the future had in store for her.

THE SNOWFLAKES

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

". . . frail creatures of middle sky, what speed they make!"—Bryant.

JANUARY FIRST came—and no snow in the Eastern country around this Pennsylvania city for little boys to try their new skiis on. Christmas morning was brown and bare, and little boys' snow-skates reposed on the hall-chest. Little boys out where you are, in California, where the orange-trees look like Christmas trees, with yellow candles burning, to the New Englander who shuts his eyes and uses his imagination, they don't care! But little boys here do.

Little boys and big ones, in Florida, with the purple and jade waters of the velvet Gulf Stream thereabouts to bathe in at mid-winter holidays, don't care if the snowflakes are late. But little boys and big ones, and girls, too, up here, DO!

But there has been a rumor, a small news item, an obscure whisper, that the writer and her little boy did not miss; and it said:

"SNOWSTORM DUE—now on its way!"

And when they saw it a day or two ago with their four eyes, one pair grey and the other pair as blue as the background of the stars in the flag, they watched at the window for the first down-dancing snowflakes. And the two of them thought of those hurrying first flakes, white, mysterious, soft, as living pretty creatures, woolly in winter clothing, skipping down the dizzy steeps and hills of the air, swooping and falling on faery skiis, trooping countlessly, the Snow-Queen's minions, the advance flurry of her whiter coming.

And we hoped for the sake of the very real, heavy, golden-brown skiis leaning in a corner of the windbreak porch—close to the door for a quick get-away—yet to feel the thrill of their maiden flight on the stubby feet of the little boy—that it would snow!

Poinsettias for honey-aired Florida; orange-flowers for Christmas; that is proper and right for their mid-winters.

But snowflakes are the proper things for us!

". . . stream down the snows, till the air is white,
As myriads by myriads madly chased,
They fling themselves from their shadowy height.
The fair, frail creatures of middle sky,
What speed they make . . ."
Maybe by the time you read this it has snowed.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

WHEN a masterful man marries a managing woman, the angels stuff cotton in their ears.

The tired business man in search of a little diverting love-making must find the flapper a wonderful labor-saving device.

Men are rebelling against the payment of alimony. But if a man will pay a wife good money for running his house, censoring his diet, mussing up his morning newspaper, hiding his gin and making him wear overshoes, why shouldn't he joyfully pay her twice the amount for letting him ALONE?

Marriage has become a "major operation," to which a man submits only under an anaesthetic, and against which he struggles as long as he is conscious.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Shopping Tour Brings Painful Realizations to Lillian

LILLIAN'S eyes followed mine to the corner of the subway car where Mary and Marion had found seats, and she nodded a smiling assent to my amused comment that the sanity of both young girls would be endangered if their shopping trip was longer delayed. With bright eyes, flushed cheeks and feet occasionally tapping the car floor, they might have posed for a picture labeled "Impatience."

"It won't be long now," she said, and her prophecy was justified, for there was no delay on the subway, and the taxi which we took from the station to the shop of Lillian's dhoosing threaded traffic miraculously to my eyes, although both girls grumbled at his pokiness.

"Hurry, Mother!" Marion urged as Lillian was paying the driver. "I'm so afraid those jackets will be gone."

"You and Mary go up to that floor at once," Lillian directed. "Auntie, Madge and I will meet you there."

They scurried away and Lillian fell into step with me.

"Six years ago she was tugging at my hand to see a display of dolls in this very store," Lillian said, with a vaguely regretful note in her voice. "Today it's the latest thing in leather sports jackets. I wonder what six more years will bring."

"Her trousseau, probably," I said, smiling, but at the look which came into Lillian's eyes, my idle amusement vanished.

"Heaven forbid!" she said fervently. "She'd be barely 22!"

I told myself that many fashionable mothers would feel that 22 was quite an advanced age for their unmarried daughters. But I knew that Lillian, deprived for so many years of her little daughter, was panic-stricken at the idea of Marion's making an early marriage and leaving her.

"That's true," I assented in hasty amends. "You probably will have to trail her to a stationer's instead of a dress shop. She'll be laying in a supply of paper for the great American play or novel."

Lillian's relieved laugh was as hearty as if the trite suggestion had been something worth saying, and then the elevator crowd engulfed us, and we had no more opportunity for speech until we reached the section where Marion and Mary with a differential saleswoman in attendance were looking at a fascinating array of colored leather jackets.

"Oh! Mummy!" Marion's voice was ecstatic. "The blue one I read about isn't gone, she says. She's having the stock girl get my size in it. Oh! here it is now!"

Lillian and I exchanged amused glances over her shoulders, which were fairly wriggling with impatience to try on the jacket. The saleswoman put her into it, buttoned it up and Marion dashed for a mirror, returning after a satisfied glance to ask our approval.

"Isn't it the spiffiest thing ever?" she demanded, "and isn't the color heavenly?"

"I can't subscribe to all your adjectives, Marion," her mother told her with a smile, "but I like it very much. Don't you, Madge?"

"Indeed, yes," I agreed heartily, noting how the color brought out the blue of Marion's eyes. Then I turned to Mary, who was holding a russet brown jacket in her hands with almost a caressing touch.

"Is that the color you're choosing, Mary?" I asked.

She dropped the garment abruptly.

"I'm not getting one," she said.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Caring for the Sufferer of Dysentery.

AT all seasons of the year, although more frequently in summer, of course, diarrhoea and dysentery used to be common ailments. Fortunately for us, modern medicine has banished from most communities the serious and fatal dysenteries. They are rare in the northern states, but are met in the South, in Cuba and in the insular countries.

DR. COPELAND

This disease is ushered in with diarrhoea, pain and fever. There is great straining and urging. Blood and mucus may be passed from the bowel. The fever steadily increases till it reaches 104 or 105 degrees.

The patient gives evidence of being very sick. He may grow delirious and, unless well treated, may even die from its effects.

This is a picture of the acute form. There is also another form, lasting for weeks or even months. In the latter variety the patient becomes little more than skin and bones.

All dysenteries, regardless of the form, are carried by contaminated drinking water, by milk, and by other infected foods. Human carriers have transmitted it and possibly insects are carriers of dysentery.

Every community should make sure that its water and milk supplies are pure. No greater blessing can be given a people than the ceremony of protection in these essentials. Every food handler should be in perfect health and no exposed food should be sold unless it is of such a nature as to require cooking before serving.

If any doubt exists as to the purity of the water, it should be boiled and cooled before drinking. Never take a chance on bad water. Never take a chance on bad food.

The patient with dysentery should be isolated and all his discharges destroyed. In any form rest and absolute quiet are essential. Warmth of the body is important.

Very simple food should be given. Barley water, white of egg, gruel and whey are all right. Small quantities of water, just enough to relieve the thirst, may be administered.

If there is much pain hot compresses to the abdomen will help. Rectal injections of bicarbonate of soda solution, a tablespoonful to a pint of warm water may promote a comfort.

Needless to say, any form of dysentery requires the early and constant care of a wise doctor. Diarrhoea may be cared for by home measures, but dysentery is too profound a disease to be temporized with or neglected.

Answers to Health Queries

R. M. Q.—Will decayed teeth—if they do not cause annoyance, be detrimental to the health?

A.—If they are decayed they should be removed—they may be the cause of infection in the system.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, January 18.

A DAY of great opportunity and advantage is foreshown by the stellar operations, in lunar and mutual aspect. New projects are under excellent auspices and all labor, industry and initiative should yield substantial return. Investments and speculative enterprises should thrive. But employment may assume some disagreeable features.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a year of progress and success in many directions. It is a time for enterprise and initiative, with labor, diligence and hard work promised recognition, although there may be some inharmony in the employment of others.

A child born on this day may be industrious, hard-working, and have many substantial qualities making for success and good position in life.

My work is mine, and heresy or not, if my hand slackened, I should rob God, since he is fullest good.—GEORGE ELIOT.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Mourning Periods

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please tell me how long one should stay in mourning for either of one's parents? ANN.

THIS depends entirely on one's reaction to an outward manifestation to an inner sorrow. Some people now do not wear mourning at all, and some people wear it for many years. And both are right if they abide by what they sincerely feel concerning the question. The customary time, however, if one abides by conventions, is about a year.

As You Choose

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct today to leave a small portion on the plate after eating, or is this no longer necessary? J. C. C.

THIS hasn't been considered necessary in this country, since the war showed us how ridiculous and wasteful it was and is. In other countries, not so prosperous as ours, it has never been considered necessary; indeed, it has been considered as unreasonable as it really is. Of course, if you want to leave a portion you may; the point is that it has nothing to do with good manners.

Vegetable Cooking

When cooking vegetables add a knob of dripping or butter to the boiling water, as this helps them cook quickly, keeps the water from boiling over, and brings out the full flavor. If soda is used it takes some of the vitamines and flavor form the vegetables.

Washing Woolens

When washing woolens, give them a final squeeze through clean soapsuds and let them dry with the soap in them. They don't drip, but dry rapidly, and remain surprisingly soft.

Earp Disarmed in Ring Gun Taken by Copper Bench Harms Perkins

Tigers Please Harris Cub-Cardinal Contrast Gross' Floor Success

FISTIC JOB NETS GAMBLERS $250,000

SINCE the death of Wyatt Earp, gun fighter of the early West, in Los Angeles the other day at the age of 78, there has been a controversy among Queensberry historians as to whether he carried one or two six-shooters in his belt with which to discourage possible protests when he handed down what was perhaps the fistic game's most notorious decision a little more than 32 years ago. That was on the occasion of the memorable first battle between Bob Fitzsimmons and Tom Sharkey at Mechanics' Pavilion in San Francisco, on December 2, 1896. Fitz apparently scored a clean knockout over the sailor with a left-hand punch to the pit of the stomach in the eighth round, but Earp set the glove world in an uproar and caused the loss of a quarter of a million dollars in bets by declaring Sharkey the winner on a foul.

Bob Fitzsimmons.

As a matter of fact, according to the best information obtainable from old-timers, Earp was unarmed at the time, but that was not due to any oversight on his part. As he climbed through the ropes to call the fighters to the center of the ring, a bulge in his hip pocket caught the eye of Police Capt. Whitman, who occupied a front seat, with the result that the officer ordered Wyatt to pause and relieved him of a big gun before permitting him to proceed with his duties as referee.

THE loss of his shooting iron, however, did not deter Earp from going through with his part of what was denounced throughout the country as the boldest ring "robbery" of all time. Sharkey previously had attracted much attention by drawing with Alec Greggains in eight rounds, stopping Joe Choynski in eight, Jim Williams in three and getting a draw with Jim Corbett in a four-round engagement that was halted by the police.

Fitz, though outweighed by 25 pounds, had a clear margin over the tar in the first seven rounds of vicious fighting, and in the eighth sent him to the floor in a helpless state with a terrific left to the stomach. Danny Lynch, a well-known gambler, who was Sharkey's manager, claimed a foul, whereupon Earp pushed Fitz half way across the ring and instructed Announcer Billy Gordon to inform the excited crowd that Sharkey was the winner.

SHARKEY was carried to his dressing room and a doctor was summoned, but Lynch locked the door and refused to admit reporters until an hour later. The sailor then submitted to an examination, which showed a black and blue spot on his groin, but it was charged that this had been caused by some means after he left the ring.

Earp always denied having been influenced by Lynch, but it is said the decision enabled the latter and other gamblers to clean up $250,000 in bets, they having played the short end of 3-to-1 odds heavily. Four years later, Fitz, still seeking vindication, knocked out Sharkey in two rounds at Coney Island, the only time the sailor ever was put away in his ring career.

Cy Perkins.

ONE man's success in baseball sometimes may mean another man's ruin. Mickey Cochrane's quick rise to stardom as a catcher for the Athletics appears to have worked out disastrously for Cy Perkins. The latter formerly was first-string backstop for the Mackmen, but, though still in his prime, was forced to spend long periods on the bench for four years beginning in 1925 because Cochrane showed so much class that the youngster was used almost every day. The idleness has lessened the value of Perkins in the eyes of other managers, who might ordinarily be glad to take him on, now that Mack is said to be willing to let him go.

BUCKY HARRIS, the new skipper of the Tigers, for instance, intimated when asked if he would consider a deal for Perkins that he would be glad to give Cy a job if it were not for the fact that he has been out of the game so frequently.

"Under ordinary circumstances Perkins might be worth taking a chance on," said Harris when questioned as to the possibility of a deal that would shift Cy to Detroit, "but he has been sitting on the bench so long that I have my doubts about his present value."

HARRIS expresses satisfaction with the manner in which the Detroit team is shaping up. "I think we are going to have a pretty good club," he says. "A lot depends upon Heinie Schuble, whom we expect to use at shortstop. If he comes through we'll be all set."

George Uhle, obtained from Cleveland, has signed his Detroit contract and Harris believes he will be of great help to the Tigers. Harris, while bossing the Washington team, got a great deal of good work out of other cast-off pitchers, such as Stanley Coveleskie, Sam Jones, Garland Braxton, Tom Zachary and George Mogridge.

Billy Southworth.

THERE will be a striking contrast between the Cardinals and Cubs this year in the nature of their respective batting make-ups. From present indications Billy Southworth will be as strong numerically in the possession of left-hand hitters as Joe McCarthy will be in batsmen of the right-hand type. Charley Grimm will be the only portside swinger in the regular lineup of the Bruins, and if Southworth wills he can present an attacking array that will include only one right-hand batter.

WHEN the Red Birds face a right-hand pitcher, and that will be in more than two-thirds of their games, it will be possible for Southworth to greet the enemy with an almost unbroken string of left-hand stickers. The manager himself can go into the lineup, and besides he has such other portside swatsmiths as Bottomley, Frisch, High, Orsatti and Watkins.

Watkins, an outfielder, is a mere rookie, but is said to have more than ordinary driving power. He hit only .306 in the Texas League, which would not appear to promise much more than .250 in the majors, but he was among the leaders in total bases. And Catcher Earl Smith is another left-hand hitter of ability whom Southworth can throw in when conditions warrant.

THE fine finish made by the Miele-Franchina basketball team in the the first half of the Allegheny County League season, despite the fact that this is the initial campaign of that quintet in such fast company as the Lafayettes, Rauhs, Goldensons and others represent, says much not only for the ability of the players on the squad but also for the coaching skill of Dr. A. M. (Mickey) Gross.

With the exception of Nate Lippe, the Miele-Franchina team is

J. V. M. Charleroi—Concerning your query on strikeouts to be credited pitchers, Rule 85, section 8, is herewith quoted: An error shall be charged to the catcher if he drops a third strike, allowing the runner to reach first base, but the pitcher shall receive credit for the strikeout. MIELE PASSERS LOSE OUT IN CLOSE GAME

FINAL STANDING OF THE CLUBS, FIRST HALF OF SEASON.

	W.	L.	Pct.		W.	L.	Pct.
Lafayettes	9	1	.900	Rauhs	5	5	.500
Mieles	5	5	.500	Reliance	4	6	.400
Goldensons	5	5	.500	D. Light	2	8	.200

A thrilling, spectacular battle marked the closing of the first half of the Allegheny County League cage season last night when the Duquesne Lafayettes chalked up their ninth victory, against a single defeat, in nosing out the Miele-Franchina five, 18 to 17, in Columbus Temple.

The Lafayettes were the only club sufficiently strong to twice take the measure of the Italians in the first half.

Throughout the battle the score varied in matter of favor. Seven times the count was tied. And it was Pfeiffer's neat field goal with only 60 seconds remaining that decided the contest. He slipped under the net when Georgie Delvecchio was blocked from the play and accounted for the bacon.

An even more spectacular finish might have occurred, for Willis Cotz, the little Miele star, sent a beautiful shot from mid-floor even as the final whistle sounded, the ball hitting the rim and falling to one side.

Duquesne outscored the Italian club, getting no less than seven field goals as against three for the Mieles. Accurate foul shooting aided the Mieles greatly. Delvecchio caged six out of six tries. The Lafayettes could only net four out of 13 chances. The lineup:

Lafayettes—18.		Mieles—17.
Minnick	F	Lippe
Drotar	F	Cotz
Ramsay	C	Foley
Gubby	G	Tracy
Benedict	G	Delvecchio

Score by periods:

Lafayettes	4	8	2	4—18
Mieles	3	6	5	3—17

Field goals—Pfeiffer, Minnick 3, Drotar, Ramsay, Gubby, Lippe 2, Cotz. Fouls—Lafayettes, 4 out of 13; Mieles, 11 out of 15. Substitutions—Shirello for Tracy, Pfeiffer for Drotar. Referee—Leo Mackey. Time of quarters—10 minutes.

AMATEUR SHOW PROMOTER TO SUE COMISH

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Papers in a $10,000 damage suit against the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission were being prepared this afternoon by counsel for Al Sandofy, promoter of an amateur boxing contest which was stopped by state police here last night. Sandofy said he engaged a lawyer when he received a telegram from W. S. Haylock, president of the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., instructing him to enter the suit at the expense of the A. M. A.

The controversy between the A. M. A. and the boxing commission hinges upon the commission's claim that it has supervision over amateur bouts, while the association contends that if it is forced to pay regular boxing show tax for amateur bouts such bouts could not be held.

The Uniontown police refused to interfere with the amateur show last night, the state police were called, said to be acting on a complaint loged by Boxing Commissioner Havey J. Boyle, of Pittsburgh. The troopers stopped the show, but made no arrests.

HARRY RICONDA NOT HOLDOUT

Reports that Harry Riconda, utility infielder obtained by the Pirates from Brooklyn in the Glenn Wright-Jess Petty deal, was a holdout, were denied by officials of the Pittsburgh club today. Riconda's contract is in the club's safe.

Asked to confirm a report that Pitcher Petty had accepted terms, the Pirate authorities stated that no official word has been received from the Brooklyn southpaw, although they expect no trouble getting him to sign on the dotted line.

Hagen Selects Ryder Cup Team

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen, British open golf champion and captain of the American Ryder Cup team, has announced the personnel of the American squad which will sail from New York on April 19 for the English invasion.

The 11 players selected are: Johnny Farrell, American open champion, Florida; Gene Sarazen, former American open titlist, Florida; Horton Smith, Catalina Island open champion, Joplin, Mo.; Leo Diegel, American professional champion, Los Angeles; John Golden, La Jolla (Cal.) open champion, Paterson, N. J.; Al Espinosa, finalist in the national professional tournament, Chicago; Billy Burke, Port Chester, N. Y.; Willie Klein, Florida; Joe Turnesa, Florida.

Larney Lichtenstein, Vet Manager, Dead

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—Larney Lichtenstein, veteran manager of boxers, was dead here today after an illness of several weeks. He had been identified with the fight game for 50 years. When he died Lichtenstein was looking after the affairs of Baby Joe Gans, Negro junior welterweight.

Inventor of Cage Game Disagrees With Meanwell

LAWRENCE, Kan., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Dr. James Naismith, originator of basketball and a member of the faculty of the University of Kansas, is not at all in sympathy with the suggestion of Dr. Walter Meanwell, basketball coach of the University of Wisconsin, that the center toss-up in basketball be eliminated.

"Why should we take from the game an interesting phase, the center toss-up, and start the game with a pass in from outside the court?" asked Dr. Naismith.

"No other game starts outside the court or field. Hockey and football begin at the center."

As a substitute for the center toss-up, the Wisconsin coach would start the play with a pass from outside the end lines, using the same method after each goal. Dr. Meanwell contends that a tall center has an unfair advantage under the present system, but the opposite view is held by Dr. Naismith.

MICHAELS, ETNA BOY, STARS IN A. A.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Ralph Michaels, a boy liked by everybody in Etna, on account of his upstanding qualities, was a high light in the day-to-day play of the American Association games last season, it was disclosed today by the official figures of the recent campaign.

A .300 hitter in his 136 games with the Kansas City club, Mike, starring at first and third base, was exceptionally brilliant at the hot corner, he leading all rivals in defensive efficiency with the remarkable fielding average of .982.

It is seldom that a third-baseman is able to handle such a high percentage of chances. Ralph made only seven misplays in 111 games at third—in other words, he was called upon to take part in 386 plays and erred just seven times. He performed at first in 23 contests.

Elmer Yoter, another Pittsburgh youth, enjoyed a big season with the Minneapolis club. Elmer played third base in 117 games and also performed at short. He rapped the ball to the tune of .322 throughout the race and was a valuable player in other respects.

W. P. I. A. L. CASE UP TONIGHT

The decisions committee of the W. P. I. A. L. will meet here tonight to render a final decision on the now famous New Castle-Beaver Falls eligibility case, which has had the league by the ears for the past month.

New Castle was set down for one year for having played an alleged non-resident student against Beaver Falls High School in a football game last November. The decision caused no little comment at the time, as the violation of the rule was merely a technical one.

New Castle countered with a lengthy defense at a recent meeting, presented by the president of the school board, in which it was pointed out that inasmuch as the violation was New Castle's first, and that it was unintentional, that the penalty seemed too severe. New Castle also alleged that Beaver Falls had violated the same rule, pointing out that the Tiger center, Howe, was a non-resident of Beaver Falls. No protest was made, however.

The committee plans to make known a final decision tonight. It is likely that Beaver Falls will be forced to prove Howe's eligibility or meet the same fate as befell New Castle.

Interesting, isn't it?

Mid-Atlantic Loop Meeting Postponed

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 17.—The meeting of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League, scheduled here this evening, was called off this morning by President Elmer Daily, who informed Burgess Woodward, an official of the local club, that, because of bad roads, he felt it advisable to defer the session. The meeting likely will be held in Pittsburgh within a week or 10 days.

The Wheeling moguls informed President Daily they would not be able to attend a meeting tonight, and a similar report came from Fairmont. The Cumberland club already had served notice that it did not intend to be represented.

Reports here are that Altoona may enter the league, to take the place of Cumberland.

VETERANS OF PYLE RACE TO COMPETE AGAIN

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

JUST try to keep some of those marathon runners who competed in C. C. Pyle's cross-country grind last year out of this year's renewal of the event. Just try to do it!

Virtually all of the veterans are flocking back to the banner of the ballyhoo artist and will line up for the start in New York, March 31, the route of the second "annual" race having been reversed. Last year the boys legged it from Los Angeles to New York, but this year they will go from New York to Los Angeles.

Rod V. Ellsworth, of Monongahela, is the first of the Pittsburgh district stars to stir in anticipation of winning one of the 15 prizes hung up for the leaders. He has been working out regularly at from eight to 25 miles and says he feels better than ever before in his life. He feels the race last year has made him a better man physically. He does not complain of slight illnesses that formerly beset him, and believes he has built up his system materially.

BUSCH, DILKS IN LINE

Word from Bill Busch, of Millvale, who has been in New York since he went there for the big marathon dance, is to the effect that he is going to be in the fold again, and Earl Dilks, of New Castle, also has his heart set on running in the event at least once more. Mike Joyce, of Cleveland, writes Ellsworth that he, too, will be in the field.

Ellsworth is 29 years old, Dilks 30, Busch 24 and Joyce 34. Andy Payne, 19, was the winner last year, after getting off to a slow start. He was a dark horse and didn't begin to race until after almost all of the stars had made their splurge and settled back. Two of the aces were Pete Gavuzzi and Arthur Newton. The former was 32 years old and the latter 44. They fell down after seemingly having the race sewed up between them. Pap Hart, the oldest entrant in the race, was 65, and he lasted 400 miles, and, according to Ellsworth, his contention is that a marathon race never hurt anyone.

EXPENSIVE GAMBLE

With the change in the rules for this year's grind, whereby Pyle places the burden of providing trainers, food and sleeping accommodations on the runners themselves, instead of trying to take care of these details himself, as last year, most of the potential entrants are scouting about in search of backers. It is estimated that each runner will require at least $2,000 to stake himself comfortably. The entry fee is $200. Each trainer will require a small automobile to keep up with the caravan, but one trainer can take care of several runners.

Ellsworth plans to take his younger brother, Tom, along with him as his trainer, and he feels that with the experience he gained last year he will be able to stick it out and be right up in line for the first prize of $25,000 at the finish. He is trying to interest some of the folks in and around Monongahela to back his venture as a civic project, since he cannot afford to make the second trip on his own. He is married and is employed as a lineman for the West Penn Power Company.

W. VA. BATTLE WILL DECIDE LEADER

By JESS CARVER

It is almost impossible at this time, to select a possible eventual tri-state district college basketball champion. There are three or four teams which might be mentioned as having the best possibilities, namely Pitt, West Virginia, Westminster and Duquesne.

As matters stand at present, Pitt and West Virginia seem to be the most likely victors. Pitt, of course is a slight favorite right now, principally because of the fine showings the Panthers have made in their games to date out in the Stadium pavilion. There isn't a team in the district, aside from the Mountaineers, that could be accorded a chance to beat Pitt, either here or on foreign floors. West Virginia, I think, will cause trouble for the locals, here tomorrow night and in Morgantown March 2.

Should Pitt and the Mountaineers split even in their two-game series, the Mountaineers will stand the best mathamatical chance of winning the honors. West Virginia plays 14 games with district rivals, while Pitt has but nine. If they break even, and win all the rest of their battles, the final standing would be something like this:

	W.	L.	Pct.
West Virginia	13	1	.929
Pitt	8	1	.889

CAN'T AFFORD DEFEAT

But the Mountaineers can not afford to lose more than one contest, even though they should beat Pitt. By winning 12 games and dropping two, Stadsvold's club would finish with an average of .857, lower than the 8 and 1 percentage of the Panthers.

So tomorrow night's contest in the Stadium will be an important one. A victory for either will put the losing club on the defensive, and will make the game at Morgantown the most important of the entire season hereabouts.

The Mountaineers have won five games in a row, adding their fifth triumph last night at the expense of Marshall College. The score of this game was 44 to 21.

Westminster, undefeated and with a 16-game district schedule, can win all the honors by going through undefeated, of course. Geneva and Duquesne, along with one or two other sectional rivals are determined that this shall not be. The Dukes are looking forward even now to the return game with the Titans to be played here March 5, and Geneva hopes to spill the United Presbyterians at Beaver Falls tomorrow evening. Both may realize their ambitions.

BIG WEEK AHEAD

Pittsburgh will enjoy its finest basketball program of the season next week, both from independant, scholastic and collegiate standpoints.

There are four first rank college games listed, including the Pitt-Tech, Pitt-Army, Geneva-Westminster and Duquesne-Geneva battles. The Pitt-Army game is the biggest basketball feature of the season in this city.

In high school circles, Oliver will face Perry in an important Section Two City League battle Friday, and Schenley and South, Westinghouse and Fifth and Peabody and Schenley will clash in Section One.

The Rauhs are to play the Lafayettes and the Mieles the Goldensons in important second-half County League games. The Rosenblums of Cleveland will make a tour of these parts, playing among other teams, the Goldensons on the Market House floor.

FLORIDA HOLDS EDGE IN TRAINING CAMPS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

FLORIDA, with 10 out of 16 clubs listed to train on the soil of that state, continues to hold a big bulge on other commonwealths in the matter of preparatory camps for major league teams.

The resort state on the Atlantic Ocean and Gulf of Mexico draws opposition from only three other States, they being Texas, California and Louisiana.

Three changes are noted in this year's training plans. The White Sox will move from Shreveport, La., to Dallas, Tex., while the Tigers have decided to pass up San Antonio for Phoenix, Ariz. But the Giants will disport themselves for the edification of San Antonio folks. McGraw had his club in Augusta last year.

The action of the Tigers in moving into Phoenix gives Arizona a big-league touch for the first time in so far as training camps are concerned. The state, however, has seen more than one major league entry in action. The thriving capital stepped out with enough zest to lure the Tigers and the populace apparently is all keyed up over the proposition.

California, like Texas, claims two clubs, although Catalina Island, the springtime home of the Cubs, is about two hours out from the mainland. The Pirates, as you all know, go through their sprouts at Paso Robles. The Cleveland Indians will be at New Orleans.

It is striking to note that while no major league team will train at Hot Springs, former home of the Buccos, the spa will attract many athletes who like to take preliminary work in advance of the regular training season.

DOUBLE WINDUP AT M'KEESPORT TONIGHT

A double windup boxing card is on the program at McKeesport tonight. Henry Firpo, of Louisville, and Young Saylor, of Charleroi, middleweights, will clash in one of the 10-round battles and Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, junior lightweights, will trade blows in the other long-distance battle.

Johnny Michaels, of Braddock, and Frankie Moran, of Homewood, featherweights, will box the second bout, and a couple of heavies, Al Walker, champion of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Field Artillery, and Frank D'Angelo, of Greensburg, will open the show.

END TRAINING TODAY

Jackie Rodgers and Howard Mayberry, district bantamweight rivals, will conclude their hard training today for their 10-round windup battle featuring the first show of Francis Flynn's new club in the Moose Temple tomorrow night. It is a return engagement. They put up a hard 10-round bout in McKeesport a few months ago with Mayberry rallying to win the decision after getting off to a bad start. The card for the show was completed last night with the signing of George Tomosky, of Wilmerding, to box Sammy Paris, of the Hill, making his professional debut, in the six-round opening bout. Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, and Teddy Welch, of McKeesport, will appear in the semi-final, and Mike Hogan, of the North Side, will battle Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, in the second number.

If Mayberry wins his bout he will be matched with Midget Mike O'Dowd for the main bout of the next show at the Moose Club, while, if Rodgers wins, he will be paired with Willie Davies.

DONORA RIVALS IN BOUT

Battling Gizzy and Bad News Taylor, both of Donora, will meet in the eight-round main bout of a show at the Washington (Pa.) Gardens next Monday night. Leo Kyburski, of Swissvale, and Red Ryan, of Washington, will meet in the semi-final. Harry Spencer, of Washington, is paired with Lee Sala, of Donora. Joe Ribnickey, of Donora, will oppose Howard Copeland, of Swissvale, and Young Angelo, of Swissvale, will clash with Freddie Bolen, of Canonsburg.

Benny Bass boxes Joe Rivers, of Kansas City, at St. Louis and Otto Von Porat mixes with Tom Sayers at Davenport, Ia., tonight. Tony Canzoneri boxes Armando Santiago at Chicago.

Orsatti, Cardinal Outfielder, to Wed

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Ernest Orsatti, St. Louis Cardinal outfielder, and Martha Von Estey, San Antonio newspaperwoman, obtained a license to wed here yesterday. They said the marriage would take place next week. Orsatti gave his age as 25, and Miss Estey said she was 19.

MORRYS ON TOP

The Morrys smothered the Jeannette Felders, 64 to 34, in a P. & O. League game at Braddock last night. The lineup:

Morry—64.		Felder—34.
Lanowitz	F	Huntsman
Harrett	F	Walters
Cassidy	C	Rosie
Schweinberg	G	Smeltzer
Powers	G	Henry

Fields goals—Mervis 4, Barrett 11, Powers 7, Schweinberg 5, Lanowitz 2, Cassidy 1, Henry, Smeltzer 2, Rosie 2, Huntsman 4. Fouls—Merry, 4 out of 5; Felder, 12 out of 18. Referee—Griffith.

Chillysauce

Clarence (Pants) Rowland, new manager of the Nashville club of the Southern Association, apparently is on the right road toward the rebuilding of a pennant winner for his new employers. The former manager of the White Sox, who later umpired in the American League, has acquired four players from the Milwaukee club of the American Association, including Bunny Brief, Spencer Adams and Roy Sander, all of whom had brief experiences with the Pirates.

Bunny Brief has been hitting homers in the Association for so many years that he was regarded as an institution. He has a scant opportunity to show his worth while a member of the Pirates, but Bunny was not a great fielder, his hitting and fine team-work qualities making him a very valuable performer.

It is a bit strange to see Spencer Adams demoted. Spencer was a fleet kid from the West when he bended with the Pirates. Later he was returned to the Coast League in the deal that brought Remy Kremer to the Pirates. The Senators eventually landed Adams and he then moved to the Browns and Yankees before making his departure to the Association. Evidently the boy could not measure up as a hitter. He batted only .272 last year. Sanders was on the Bucco slab staff for a short spell.

Allegheny's Grid Card Announced

MEADVILLE, Pa., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The Allegheny College football schedule for 1929, announced by Graduate Manager S. S. Townsend, finds the Meadville collegians opening against Geneva here September 28. Dartmouth and Pitt are on the card for the third straight year. The complete schedule:

September 28, Geneva at Meadville; October 5, Westminster at Meadville; October 12, Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H.; October 19, permanently open; October 26, Pitt at Erie; November 2, Thiel at Meadville; November 9, Grove City at Grove City; November 16, Waynesburg at Meadville; November 23, St. Vincent's at Latrobe.

ST. VINCENT'S LOSES

LATROBE, Pa., Jan. 17.—St. Vincent's College met defeat at the hands of Indiana State Teachers' College, 32-23, here last night, after having led the visitors, 13-11, at half time.

By JAMES J. LONG

made up of players who had no experience in the fast set prior to this season, but Coach Gross has succeeded in getting remarkable work out of them and has imbued them with the fighting spirit that always characterized his own floor play.

Mickey Gross.

GROSS has had a brilliant career in basketball. From South High School he branched out into the independent and professional ranks and made good with the best teams in this district, including the Ormsbys, Broadways and finally the crack Morrys, the class of the region. Last season he played with the major part of his present combination, which was then known as the Siano Club, winning the P. & O. League championship in the play-off series with the Junkers, of McKeesport. The great record of Gross as a coach—he is being tipped as likely to shine as a college mentor in this section at no far distant day—is in keeping with the splendid one that he made as a player. Such authorities as Morris and Joe Goldman, who had numerous opportunities to observe his work closely while he was with the Morrys, pronounced him one of the smartest players in the floor game anywhere.

SAM WILLAMAN TO SUCCEED WILCE

By LESTER BIEDERMAN, Special Correspondent.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 17.—Sam S. Willaman, born and raised in Salem, O., and for the past three years assistant coach here, has been delegated by the athletic board to succeed Dr. John W. Wilce, resigned, as director of football at Ohio State University. His contract is for one year.

Andy Kerr, coach at W. and J., was given serious consideration and the final balloting took place with the names of these two grid geniuses as the remaining contenders in the field, but when Willaman was finally approved it was by unanimous consent.

TO CHANGE POLICY

Willaman's appointment means a complete reorganization in Ohio State's football coaching policies and staff members. He is known to be favorable to the open style of football and has freely stated that if given the head coaching post here, he would institute the policy—"A good offense is the best defense."

Immediately after Willaman was approved, he announced one of his choices to assistant coach would be Don Miller, one of the famous "four horsemen" at Notre Dame a few years ago, where he was an All-American selection. Miller is present backfield coach at Georgia Tech. Miller will be head backfield coach.

WANTS HAUSER

The other assistant Coach Willaman would like to have with him at Ohio State is George Hauser, former All-America tackle at Minnesota in 1916 and present head coach at Colgate. Hauser was first assistant to Willaman at Iowa State during Willaman's regime there. Willaman wans Hauser as his head line coach.

Willaman played football at Ohio State University in 1911 and 1913 as a halfback, fullback and end before graduating in 1914.

He served as athletic director, coached football, basketball and track at Alliance High School from 1914 to 1918, before going to Cleveland East Tech from 1918 to 1922.

At Ames, from 1922 to 1925, he was head football coach, and in 1923, 1924 and 1925 coached the track team. He came to Ohio State in the fall of 1926 as assistant director of football.

Waunesburg to Fete Grid Team Tonight

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—The football squad of Waynesburg High School, together with Coach Earl B. Zook and the athletic management of the school will be honor guests at the annual Waynesburg football banquet in the high school tonight.

Bob Reagan, line coach at Duquesne University, and Jess Carver, of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph sports staff, will be speakers.

KNICKERS ON TOP

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Jan. 17.—The Knickerbockers of Pittsburgh nosed out the East Liverpool Independents, 46-44, in a fast game here last night. The lineup:

Knicks—46.		E. Liverpool—44.
Montgomery	F	English
Hunter	F	Smith
Harrop	C	Brooks
Babic	G	Miller
Murawski	G	Wyant

Substitution—Knickers: Clark. Field goals—Montgomery 6, Hunter, Harrop, Babic 8, Murawski 3, English 4, Smith 4, Brooks 4, Clark. Fouls—Knickers, 6 out of 11; East Liverpool, 12 out of 15. Referee—Watkins.

RICKARD and the RING

By JACK DEMPSEY, World's Greatest Ring Idol

"Fighters Temperamental"—Tex

"FIGHTERS," Tex Rickard once said to me, "are as proud and temperamental as opera stars. Each one wants to be considered the greatest. I never saw a champion yet who didn't think more of holding the title than he did of the money it brought in.

"Say, I'll bet when Jess Willard nearly tore your head off with that right uppercut in Toledo and Luis Firpo had you dizzy in the stadium and you came back like a wildcat it wasn't the money that made you fight the way you did.

"It was your darn pride, and that pride is what keeps the boys going along."

Right again.

A man is in the ring to do something more than just see his strength, courage and hitting power. He's in there to prove that he is the best man of his weight around. Say, I got as much kick out of my fights with Johnny Sudenberg and Jack Downey and other unknowns as I did beating Firpo and Carpentier. They were as comparatively big shots when I was a kid as the later stars I met, and they gave me just as savage fights. The difference in the returns was about a half a million dollars. But when you're in there trading punches you don't think of that.

Jack Dempsey.

There was as much thrill in being knocked down by Sudenberg and then getting up and licking him as there was with Firpo, even if there was such a great difference in the financial returns.

ADMIRED FIRPO

Tex incidentally got more kick out of my Firpo fight than any other he ever saw. It took a lot to shake him out of his calmness, but he told me afterward that he was never so excited in his life. There wasn't any time for me to get excited. If you were present you know that I was kept pretty busy that evening.

Rickard incidentally, was a great booster for the "Bool," and there was every reason why he should be. The fellow fairly oozed color, and he was tremendously impressive and strong. And, what a wallop he had. It felt as though the whole side of a house had fallen on you when it landed. Tex never forgot him. While Firpo was prospering and growing fat in Buenos Aires, Rickard still had him in mind. He cabled to find out if there was a chance of his bringing his bulk and color back into the present heavyweight scene. And Firpo immediately went into training. He wouldn't have done that for any other promoter, either, but he respected Tex even more than Tex admired him.

There always was a lot of talk about how greedy Firpo was for money, but he had as much of the pride and temperament Rickard spoke of as anyone else.

SWEET ON STRIB

My fighting pride has been touched by the Stribling-Sharkey fight that we are going to put over in Miami Beach. I'm going to do my darndest to help put it over, too.

Tex thought Sharkey, Stribling, Paulino and Heeney were the leading heavyweights in his elimination field. He thought Sharkey the best of the lot, both from the point of view of hitting and speed. He was also sweet on Stribling, and Billy's knockout record indicates that he does not have to take a back seat for anyone in that line.

How Tex would have loved being in the thick of this thing, with a little time off here and there for golf. Nobody ever became more wrapped up in a game than Tex did in golf, and he was a pretty good player, of course, he wasn't the sort who could be satisfied with being poor at anything he tried.

He'd be all around down here, smoking his cigars and strolling about with that famous cane of his, and sometimes you'd think that he wasn't doing much of anything, really—but in his quiet way he could have everything going along as smoothly as clockwork. He had his assistants thoroughly drilled, and in putting over this show we will have the benefit of all Rickard's great expereince.

The start has been made. The organization that Tex perfected is still here, and though we are going to miss his guiding genius, perhaps tremendous energy will partly make up for that.

PITT JUNIORS WIN

SALTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—The Pitt Junior College team, of Johnstown, coached by Dr. Charles R. Colbert, sprang a surprise here last night when it took the Kiski Prep passers into camp by a score of 21 to 26. The Flood City team got off to a lead of 8-1 early in the fray and was ahead 17-13 at the half. It plays Indiana State Teachers' College next Tuesday. The lineup:

Pitt J. C.—31.		Kiski—28.
Barkheimer	F	Lipinski
Hensel	F	Bryant
Hostetler	C	Gosnell
Heffler	G	McNicoll
Mattern	G	Seifert

Substitution—Tremain for Barkheimer. Field goals—Barkheimer, Tremain 3, Hensel 2, Hostetler 7, Heffler 2, Lipinski, Bryant 4, Gosnell, Seifert 4. Fouls—Pitt Jr., 1 out of 7; Kiski, 6 out of 9. Referee—McWeeney.

WOOD CAPTURES PASADENA OPEN

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Craig Wood, of the Forest Hills Club, Newark, N. J., captured the Pasadena $4,000 open golf tournament with a card of 72-66—138, a two-stroke margin over the field of contestants. Wood's victory gave him first prize money of $1,000.

Two strikes behind Wood finished Dallas Jeffers, Long Beach, Ca., professional, who also clubbed out a 66 on his final 18-hole round. Second place was worth $600.

George von Elm, Detroit amateur, finished one stroke behind Jeffers, with 69-72—141. In a tie for fourth place were Bobby Cruickshank, of Purchase, N. Y., with 73-69—142, and Henri Cuici, of Bridgeport, Conn., with 70-72—142.

MacDonald Smith, of Great Neck, L. I., took sixth place with 72-71—143. The Scot, winner of the recent $10,000 Los Angeles open, was awarded $400.

Walter Hagen had 70-76—146, a card one stroke behind that of Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, Cal., who finished with 75-70. Hagen was richer by $175 and Dutra by $200.

CLEVELAND PROS TO PLAY HERE NEXT WEEK

By JULIUS LEVIN.

EVERYTHING is in readiness for the invasion of the tri-state district by the Cleveland Rosenblum-Celtics, American League champions, starting next Sunday, when they meet the Cumberland Caseys in the first game of their long exhibition tour.

Included in the itinerary of the Rosies are two games in the Greater Pittsburgh District, one at Homestead and the other at the South Side Market House. The complete schedule for the Rosies in this section follows:

Sunday—Cumberland Caseys at Cumberland.

Monday—Altoona Big Five at Altoona.

Tuesday — Homestead District League All-Stars at Homestead Elks Temple.

Wednesday—Goldensons of the Allegheny County League at the South Side Market House.

Thursday—Romola Five, formerly the Five Horsemen, at Uniontown.

Friday—Washington Moose at Washington, Pa.

Saturday—Armco team at Butler High School.

This year's Cleveland team is the strongest ever to represent the Forest City in professional ranks and it should attract capacity crowds to its games in this section. The regular lineup includes Carl Husta and Dave Kerr of last year's team, and Henry (Dutch) Dehnert, Joe Lapchick and Pete Barry, former New York Celtic stars.

Officials of the Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League today selected Thursday, January 31, as the date for the playoff game between Kingsley House and the Young Men's Hebrew Association for the first-half title in the amateur loop. Kingsley House finished in a tie for the lead by defeating Community House at Kingsley House last night.

DRIBBLES

One of the features of the P. & O. League race to date has been the strong comeback of the Mangan Club. This team got off to a poor start, but is up among the leaders as a result of a recent spurt.

Joe Dobba will take his Immaculate Heart team to Buffalo next Saturday to meet the St. Stanislaus Polish League club of that city. This is one of the most important games ever booked by an Immaculate Heart quintet.

The W. U. Hoyle Club is finding it difficult to arrange games at home and abroad with light first-class teams. Call Cedar 6345-J, or write Charles Fulton, 2446 East street.

The Enoch Rauhs will have the Buhl Club of Sharon as their attraction at Columbus Temple tonight.

LYCEUM WANTS GAME

St. Joachim's Lyceum has tomorrow night open for such teams as Lucky Club, Lewis Club, P. N. A. or any others in this class. Call Hazel 9410 or 9340.

The South Side Falcons will open their second half West Penn League schedule tonight when they meet the Knickerbockers on the Falcon floor. The Falcons are determined to better their showing in the second half of the schedule and will be out tonight bent on defeating the first-half champions. The reserves meet Mt. Michael's in the preliminary.

J. J. Freund, Jr., president of the Tri-State Officials' Association, is handling the local booking arrangements for three American League clubs. Teams desiring dates with the Rosenblum-Celtics, New York Hakoahs or the Rochester Club are asked to call Lafayette 4297.

East Liberty Y. M. C. A. will be the attraction of the Hirschberg Club in McKeesport tonight.

The Solomon Club of the Homestead Library League wants games abroad with first-class teams. Call Homestead 0785-R after 7 o'clock.

Two games are scheduled in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League, the Mangans meeting the Conleys at Homestead, while Alumni appears in McKees Rocks against the Greenfield passers.

PIRATES HOPE TO MAKE HISTORY REPEAT

By CARL W. SHATTO.

HISTORY may repeat itself in the National Hockey League, but before doing an encore history probably will request a little support from Benny Leonard's ice Pirates. At this stage of the race last season, the Pirates were trailing Boston, Detroit and the New York Rangers by about the same margin that they are trailing them today.

But Cleghorn's men were not disheartened. Starting a sensational winning streak, they overtook the Detroit Cougars when two weeks of play remained. They captured third place in their next to last fight, and then strengthened their hold on a money and play-off berth in the final engagement of the season. They finished just one-half game behind the second-place Rangers.

CLUBS STRENGTHENED

Critics are agreed that the Pirates of this year are a stronger club than they were in the 1927-28 campaign, and only the fact that the Detroit Cougars and New York Rangers are stronger than ever keeps their chances of doing a comeback from being a probability rather than a possibility. In the last few weeks Boston established a season record for consecutive victories, and Detroit's defeats have been few and far between.

Detroit and Boston are to clash tonight, and the Pirates do not care particularly which club wins. The Bruins are leading the Cougars by one game, and should the Bostonians win tonight, it will leave Detroit singled out as the club that the locals will have to beat out to get into the play-offs. Should Detroit win, the Bucs will have a larger target to shoot at, but the target will be farther removed.

CRUCIAL GAME SATURDAY

In the event that Boston wins, the Pirates' game with Detroit at Duquesne Garden here Saturday night will loom as one of those "crucial" engagements. A Pittsburgh victory will leave the Leonard forces only three games out of the play-offs, while a Pittsburgh defeat will go a long way toward eliminating the Pirates from the race.

Realizing the great importance of the game with the Detroiters, Manager Odie Cleghorn is doing everything he can to whip his men into top condition for the battle on Saturday. The Bucs have been idle from league play since Sunday, but they have been practicing diligently. They probably will be at their best for the Detroit fight—and they had better be, for they haven't defeated the Cougars this season.

MOUNTAINEERS TOP MARSHALL

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 17.—Led by Marshall Glenn, veteran forward, the West Virginia basketball team scored its fifth straight victory last night, downing Marshall College, 44-21.

Despite the fact that Emory Lepera, forward, goaled from close in only one minute after the opening tip-off, it was some time before the game warmed up. The half time score was 16-7, the Mountaineers leading. The lineup:

W. Virginia—44.		Marshall—21.
M. Glenn	F	Quinlan
Lepera	F	Wilson
Hagberg	C	Walton
Ratcliffe	G	Laird
Plaster	G	Rodgers

Score by periods:
West Virginia	16	28—44
Marshall	7	14—21

Substitutions—West Virginia, Black, Taylor, Fox, Sharp; Marshall College, Porter, Stark, Hemsley. Field goals—M. Glenn 10, Lepera 4, Hagberg 3, Plaster, Taylor 2, Quinlan, Wilson 3, Laird 2. Fouls—West Virginia, 4 out of 9; Marshall College, 3 out of 14. Referee—Daugherty.

Six to Compete For Balkline Title

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Six players have been selected by the tournament committee to compete in the world's 18.2 balkline billiards championship, to be held here beginning February 4.

The list of competitors, which includes nearly every leading balkline player with the exception of Willie Hoppe, who did not send in an entry blank, takes in Edouard Horemans, of Belgium, the defending champion; Jake Schaefer, Welker Cochrane, Erik Hagenlacher, Felix Grange, German star, and Kinrey Matsuyama, of Japan.

Senorita De Alvarez To Visit California

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Senorita Lili de Alvarez, Europe's leading woman tennis player, will visit California in March and will play exhibition matches in Los Angeles and San Francisco. Dr. Sumner Hardy, president of the California Lawn Tennis Association, has announced he has completed arrangements for her tour.

Corns

Lift Right Off!

Hard corns, soft corns, corns between the toes and callouses lift right off! You'll laugh—it is so easy and doesn't hurt a bit!

Just drop "Freezone" on any tender, touchy corn. Instantly it stops aching; then shortly you just lift that old bothersome corn right off with your fingers. It works like a charm, every time. Seems magic.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs only a few cents at any drug store. Try it!

Reputation of Business Is Better Than Government's

By B. C. FORBES

THE reputation of business is higher than the reputation of our government! Will President Hoover prove able to do something to remedy this?

IN our dealings with business concerns we know that we will get redress if we have any legitimate complaint to make. If the grocer or the butcher or the baker sends us an incorrect bill, entailing an over-charge, he very readily does the right thing. If merchandise ordered from a department store is damaged in the slightest in the course of delivery, all we have to do is to state the fact and satisfactory action is immediately taken.

It has become axiomatic that the bigger the business concern the more careful it is to satisfy customers. When the United States Steel Corporation was attacked by the government, not one customer or even one competitor came forward to make the slightest complaint of unfair treatment. Have you ever heard complaints about improper financial dealings on the part of such concerns as General Electric, Eastman Kodak, General Motors, Westinghouse, and latterly, our large railroads? True, some corporations have not a spotless record, especially in their dealings with supply concerns, but their number is decreasing.

BUT what do we find when we examine the record and reputation of the United States government?

Its highhandedness, its dilatoriness in remedying its mistakes, its unbusinesslike behavior are notorious. Its minions rarely feel bounden to treat citizens with that consideration expected and received from business organizations. Tax gatherers and inquisitors of every description usually act as martinets. The hundred-dollar-a-month government clerk does not hesitate to talk dictatorially to a hundred-thousand-dollar-a-year executive on some matter with which the latter is thoroughly familiar.

A SHINING example of the code and the tactics of lawmakers has just been afforded by the discussions in Congress of tax refunds.

If they could have their way, certain of our rulers apparently would refuse point-blank to repay the million of dollars federal tax gatherers have illegally compelled individuals and corporations to hand over to the government. Because Secretary Mellon has favored honest action by the Treasury, he has been denounced and maligned disgracefully—this notwithstanding that Andrew W. Mellon built up a reputation over a period of half-a-century for honorable dealings and an unimpeachable character.

WHAT would these same critics say and do if they personally were grossly overcharged by some corporation?

Would they not first storm and rave, then institute legal proceedings if the money rightly belonging to them were not promptly returned?

Yet they stop at nothing to throw obstacles in the way of the United States government making refunds to individuals, firms and corporations abundantly proved entitled to refunds. They demand that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon act in a way that Banker Mellon would never dream of acting in his own business relationships.

Is it not justice, the most elementary justice, that money illegally taken from the pocket of a citizen be restored at the earliest moment, whether the illegal taker of the money is a private citizen or the federal government? Should a government be less honest, less honorable, less considerate than its citizens, the people it is supposed to represent?

To ask the question is to answer it.

THE impression created in many minds by reading some of the wild statements made in Congress must have been that the Federal Treasury is being emptied, not to say looted, by the settlement of disputed tax payments.

What is the plain truth?

None other than that the government has actually collected in the form of back taxes, which it has proved were due it, no less than four times as much as all the refunds paid!

The activities of the Treasury and of the courts in digging into disputed taxes, far from bankrupting the government, have actually yielded a favorable balance of more than $3,000,000,000.

SECRETARY MELLON deserves the thanks of all decent citizens for what he has been able to do in the way of raising the government's reputation.

Herbert Hoover has earned an equally enviable record in the world of business. Is it not reasonable to expect him to do everything within his popwer to improve the record and reputation of our government in all its business dealings? It should not much longer be a commonplace complaint, "Oh, well, what can you expect from the government?"

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTION BIG SURPRISE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE infusion of new blood into the management of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and an increase in the Mellon influence in the company's policies are seen in the change in the organization's official family announced yesterday.

The selection of A. W. Robertson, president of the Philadelphia Company, to fill permanently the place of chairman left vacant by the death of Guy E. Tripp came as a surprise since Mr. Robertson has spent the greater part of his business career with Pittsburgh's utilities and has been at the helm of the Philadelphia Company for only two years.

IN RELINQUISHING his duties with the Philadelphia Company Mr. Robertson steps into a much broader field. His influence ceases to be local in character and becomes international. From being the operating head of a company which is just one link in a chain of utility companies he becomes the dominant figure in an independent organization which is the second largest maker of electrical equipment.

Mr. Robertson is expected to bring a new outlook into the Westinghouse management. He is coming to the company without previous experience in manufacturing operations, although his general executive training has been extensive.

In its past history the Westinghouse Company has been considered more of an engineering than a commercial organization. The great majority of its executives are technical men. Mr. Robertson will approach the company's problems from an entirely different standpoint.

THE election of H. B. Rust, president of the Koppers Company, to the board extends the Mellon representation. The Koppers Company is under Mellon control. Mr. Rust will also be associated on the board with W. L. Mellon, president of the Gulf Oil Corporation and leader in Pennsylvania politics.

Mr. Rust will be a valuable acquisition to the company from another standpoint. In fortifying its position in the field of producing gas and selling by-product coke and gas plants, the Koppers Company has secured large holdings of public utility stocks. Most of these were bought with an eye on gas operations, but the close tieups of gas and electrical utilities has made the company a big influence in the power field.

THROUGH its subsidiary, the Koppers Gas and Coke Company, this organization holds large blocks of stock of the American Light and Traction Company and of the United Light and Power Company. Both of these are buyers of electrical equipment of no small importance. United Light and Power serves communities with a population of 2,000,000 people. It has 338,382 electric meters in service and sells 973,641,057 kilowatt hours of power annually. Its railways carry 88,576,021 passengers a year.

ALTHOUGH Mr. Robertson is severing his connection as president of the Philadelphia Company, the announcements have not made clear whether or not he retains any connection with the Byllesby interests, who control the organization he is leaving. There is a possibility that he is establishing a community of interests between this great utility system and Westinghouse Electric.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Bulging prices for corn in Argentina and at Liverpool sent the corn market here soaring anew today in the early dealings. All Chicago deliveries of corn jumped to a new high price record for the season. Opening at ¼ cent to ¾ up, Chicago corn soon scored general gains. Wheat, oats and provisions were also stronger, with wheat starting unchanged to ¾ advance and afterward holding near to the initial figures.

At noon, corn was at the same as yesterday's finish, to ¼c lower and wheat unchanged to ¾c up.

Sharp advances in corn values today at Buenos Aires, as much as 2¾c a bushel in some cases, were promptly seized upon here as confirming acute need of further rain to relieve drought in the Argentine corn belt. Meanwhile, the Liverpool corn market was reported as 2¾c up over night for United States corn, which was still underselling corn from Argentina.

An additional stimulus to corn buying in Chicago today was an estimate current that the probable export surplus of the 1929 Argentine corn crop was only 157,000,000 bushels, based upon existing conditions. This compared with actual shipments of 228,000,000 bushels for 1928 and 290,000,000 bushels for the last preceding entire crop year. Profit taking sales, which increased on today's advance in corn here, were generally well taken.

WESTINGHOUSE
SERVES EVERYWHERE

Men who put "mountain air" in basements and tunnels, theatres, mines, stores and factories

Think of the hours you spend in windowless places, places walled in from fresh, life-giving air. Every time you are in a subway or tunnel, a department store basement, a theatre or an inside office—you breathe and live only because pure air is propelled continuously into those places.

The genius of ventilating engineers has achieved the miracle that puts fresh "mountain air" where otherwise you would suffer from the want of it.

In the ventilating field, as in every other branch of industrial activity, Westinghouse serves with electric motors and control to fit all requirements of electric drive.

BUGS BAER Says

WALL STREET had a quiet session last week.

It settled down to abnormal.

There were a few well-groomed panics, seven or eight corners in winter cement and only a gross or two of assorted mergers.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We don't tumble to this merger business but if seems to be important.

This symptom of the investment college is what is known as a healthy reaction.

When a clam is tossed into the chowder he is merged. If he gets out again it is a healthy reaction.

Last week we bought two shares in American Vestless Button and put it away in the safety deposit waste basket.

The next thing we heard was that Vestless Button had been merged with Indoor Harvest Machinery.

That made us a stockholder in two very strong corporations. We didn't know whether Vestless Button had absorbed Indoor Harvest or whether the parent company had eaten its young.

But our board of directors held their annual parade through cheering aisles of disgruntled stockholders who objected to a marriage without a honeymoon.

The merger paid two for one. Which means they pay two other guys instead of you. For every share in Vestless Button the stockholders got two shares in Indoor Harvest and were on the road to get rich if it hadn't been for the detour signs.

That made two board of directors, one to suggest and the other to do the heavy nodding.

We now owned four shares in Indoor Harvest which got so successful that it was merged with Public Toothbrush of Arizona. The president of Vestless Button was promoted to office boy of Public Toothbrush. He had his picture printed in the Wall Street Journal alongside of Jackie Coogan under the caption:

"Success came to them late in life."

The second merger paid three to one. So we now owned 12 shares of Public Toothbrush, paid-up and non-profit sharing.

Merger followed merger, until now we own 1,600,000 shares of Sun-Kissed Mushrooms.

They say that Sun-Kissed Mushrooms would be a very good investment if it were not for the fact that mushrooms will not grow in the sun.

THE BUNGLE FAMILY — Very, Very Good

MOTHER, I HAD AN ACCIDENT TODAY. I RAN INTO ANOTHER MACHINE BUT THE CHAP DRIVING IT WAS JUST WONDERFUL AND INSISTED HE WAS TO BLAME. IT WAS A GREEN CAR.....THE ONE WE SAW THE OTHER DAY. YOU REMEMBER IT, DON'T YOU?
WHAT! WAS THAT SAME BOLD FACED SHEIK DRIVING IT, PEGGY?
WHY MOTHER YOU GET THE STRANGEST IDEAS. MR. WHITE, THAT'S HIS NAME, WOULDN'T EVEN LISTEN WHEN I TRIED TO SAY I WAS TO BLAME. WE BOTH THOUGHT IT SO STRANGE THAT I'D BUMP INTO HIM SO SOON AFTER WE.....WELL YOU AND I SAW HIM THE OTHER DAY.
STRANGE IS THE RIGHT WORD, PEGGY. WELL.....I JUST DON'T KNOW WHAT TO SAY.
I FELT THE SAME WAY WHEN I SAW HE WAS DRIVING THAT MACHINE. FOR A FULL MINUTE I JUST SAT THERE LOOKING AT HIM. HE TOO WAS SURPRISED. THINGS LIKE THAT HAPPEN. I SUPPOSE IT'S JUST FATE OR WHATEVER YOU CALL IT THAT BRINGS PEOPLE TOGETHER.
PEGGY, WHAT DO YOU MEAN BY BROUGHT TOGETHER? HEAVENLY DAYS! THIS IS CERTAINLY THE STRANGEST THING I EVER HEARD OF. YES SIR. IT CERTAINLY IS!
IF I MERELY HEARD ABOUT A THING LIKE THIS I'D THINK IT WAS REMARKABLE. THE IDEA! OH I KNEW WHEN WE SAW THAT MAN THE OTHER DAY THAT HE WAS JUST BOILING OVER WITH NERVE.
OH, NO MOTHER. IF YOU KNEW HIM REAL.... AS WELL AS I..... IF YOU KNEW HIM BETTER YOU'D REALIZE THAT HE'S A GENTLEMAN, A REAL FELLOW. SO DIFFERENT, VERY EXCEPTIONAL AFTER YOU HEAR HIM SPEAK.

Fight on Blue Law Needs Your Support to Triumph

The attack on the blue law has begun—in Harrisburg. Three bills have been introduced and the battle of the centuries is on—the youthful, modern, striving, searching Twentieth Century versus the old Eighteenth, which, in 1794, adopted a Sunday law suited to its time and inclination. We are not certain about "inclination," but let it pass. It is quite likely it represented the views only of lawmakers even at that remote time, and that those who did not want it, but had to accept it, represented quite a numerous part of the general public.

But, for comparison, we'll suppose it represented the desire of all of the people. Their mode of life, if we rely on historians, was greatly different from our own. Many of them were deeply religious, as many of us are, but we doubt if they were better. Sunday was a day to go to church, as it is now. It was the duty of every Christian to attend church, as it is still. But their life was simple, their tastes primitive, and opportunities to indulge them few. The law of 1794 then deprived nobody of any right, perhaps. The scapegrace who might have disturbed the peaceful tranquillity by shooting off his fowling piece was quite properly kept from that. The tippler could not go to the tavern, but we imagine that in many houses, including those of some ministers, there was an ample supply of whisky.

Now our life is not so simple. The hunting law tells us we may not shoot on Sunday, so the blue law is not necessary to cover that. The prohibition law tells us we may not drink on Sunday, or any other day, so the blue law is not necessary to cover that. We know it is our duty to attend church, and do it willingly, so the blue law is not necessary to cover that. Yet we accord to the other man the privilege of opinion and do not grab him by the coat collar and make him go to church whether he would or not. So the blue law is of no effect in forcing church attendance.

It has no beneficial effect and many baneful effects. Its adherents try to tell us that we who oppose it are trying to foist upon the good people of the state "a Continental Sunday." Horrors! We make that exclamation because we presume a Sunday on the Continent is something dreadful. Most of us don't know what the expression means. It means that life in Spain, where they have a Catholic state religion, and Germany, where they have Protestant state religion, and in France, where they have no state religion, is not interpreted to mean that Sunday should be a day of gloom and that church attendance and Christian life is not incompatible with a little worldly joy on Sunday.

That is the terrible "Continental Sunday," but we do not want it in this country. We don't say that it is not all right for Continental Europe, but we do not want it and do not advocate it. All that we want is the right to engage in orderly, decorous and necessary recreation and amusements on Sunday. We want a law that hampers us changed. We want it changed because it is discriminatory and unenforceable.

That it is unenforceable is proven by the stand of the advocates of it themselves. They are opposed to one of the bills presented in Harrisburg to provide for stringent penalties for all infractions of the law. Blue law supporters don't want that. It would just about kill the churches. We don't want it. We don't want the churches killed. We support them and cherish them. We don't want any good thing killed. And we don't want the discrimination and unfairness and injustice the blue law entails.

Those who favor changing the law of 1794 to suit the times should keep their eyes on Harrisburg. Now is the time to let your representatives there know that your number is a vast army of good Christian people of fair mind, not content to be bound any longer by restrictive legislation, adopted in a day when our state was young and there was no such a thing as an automobile, or a motion picture, or aviation, or passenger trains, or electric light plants.

The Good Dean Inge

He Talks Savagely, But Don't Worry.

DEAN INGE CALLS FOR NEWS OF THE KING

This is the extremely Reverend Dean Inge, the Dean of St. Paul's, called by Britons "the gloomy dean."

Sometimes he is gloomy and sometimes he is a little savage, as when he recently said of the United States:

"It is more than possible that the nations of Europe, enraged by the bloated prosperity and airs of superiority of 'the man who won the war,' will combine to draw Shylock's teeth."

When you read that statement about "Uncle Shylock" by a clergyman, brought up on the idea that you ought to turn the other cheek, you are surprised, even shocked.

But when you see this mild picture of the Dean, who made the savage statement, you decide NOT to be frightened to death, after all.

Perhaps the good Dean will change his mind and decide to let us thrive and enjoy our American prosperity a little while longer.

May we never have any more dangerous enemies than this gentle, if cantankerous, old man, or any more serious wounds than mere words can inflict.

Tales That Are Told

"Any Excuse Better—"

MRS. DOOLEY was not an educated woman, but she had tried hard to pass as one ever since she came into money.

"Will you sign your name here, Mrs. Dooley?" asked the solicitor, who was drawing up an agreement for her.

"You sign it yourself," said the old woman, "and I'll make a mark. Since my eyes gave out I'm not able to write a word."

"How do you spell it?" asked the solicitor, "With or without an 'E'?"

"Spell it whichever way you like, young man," said Mrs. Dooley. "Since I lost me teeth there's never a word I can spell."

The Hundredth Chance

ALTHOUGH snow covered the ground it was a glorious morning, and neither of the small boys felt like going to church.

"What shall we do, Willie?" asked the elder of the two. "Go round to the pond and slide or make a big snow man?"

The other was undecided.

"Let's toss up," he suggested. "Heads we go sliding, tails we build a snow man."

"What about church?"

"Oh, well"—after a moment's consideration—"if the penny falls on its edge and stands upright we'll go to church," decided young William.

Cruel Words

THEIR quarrel had been a very bitter one and they had parted bad friends, but he turned up once again.

"Darling," he said, pointing to the little oblong parcel under his arm, "I have brought a little present for somebody I love more than anything in the world."

The girl, who had opened the door just wide enough to see who it was, regarded him disinterestedly.

"Really?" she remarked coldly, shrugging her shoulders. "What is it? A box of cigars?"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was a Swede girl that just come over and was looking for a job, but she wasn't used to American ways, and she didn't know a thing about being high-hatted by employers, because at home she had been friends with the people she worked for. So she applied for a job as housemaid in a family with a big house on Long Island, and the lady interviewed her for two hours, asking her all about her ancestors and everything. When the girl told her that her ancestors went clear back to Lief Erickson, the woman says, "Well, you seem to be all right. How about references, then?"

"Oh, never mind," says the girl. "I tank I kan tell when I see a honest person, and I don't want you to bother about references at all."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

I NOTICED an interesting sign the other day. It was on a truck which was carrying a crew of men to their work. It said:

"JIM SMITH IS FOREMAN OF THIS GANG."

I am told that many big companies are using such signs on their work trucks and that they are immensely helpful in preventing strikes.

Holding men through their pride—that's big business psychology.

A man will do much for money or privilege, but he will do his utmost if you will appeal to his pride.

I saw a chest the other day. It was made two hundred years ago in a small village in Italy. Its maker must have spent months upon its carving and probably received scarcely enough money to keep himself in bread and sausage. But he did receive recognition. He was known far and wide as a great carver and men respected him. You can see the fruit of that respect in the lovely chest with its perfect workmanship which has lasted through all the years.

Workmanship like that was common in the days when work was really honored and a man's pride was fed. Donn Byrne wrote this description in his book, "Messer Marco Polo." It tells of a parade in the days of the Crusaders—not a splendid procession of dukes and kings, but a parade of workingmen, butchers and barbers, tailors and tanners and grocerymen.

"The processions of the tradespeople were like a king's retinue and they marching in state on the election of a doge. Each, in their separate order they'd come; the master smiths first, as is right, every one garlanded like a conquerer, with their banners and their buglers. The furriers next in ermine and taffeta; the tanners, with silver cups filled with wine; the tailors in white, with vermillion stars; the wool workers, with olive branches; the quiltmakers, in cloaks trimmed with fleur-de-lis; the cloth of gold weavers, with golden crowns set with pearls; the shoemakers, in fine silk, while the silk workers were in fustian; the cheese dealers and pork butchers, in scarlet and purple; the fish mongers and poulters, armed like men-of-war."

A parade of butchers and barbers, tailors and tanners and grocerymen—dressed like kings!

DRESSED LIKE KINGS BECAUSE THEY WERE PROUD OF THEIR CRAFTS AND BECAUSE THEIR FELLOW CITIZENS WERE PROUD OF THEM!

The appeal to pride—that was the secret of the great workmanship of the middle ages. That has always been the secret of all good workmanship.

It is also the secret of good education and of good government.

We wouldn't have to build grim prisons to restrain men if we knew how to foster and manipulate their pride.

We wouldn't have to punish if we knew how and when to praise.

ANCIENT ELEPHANT

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE soil of Utah has yielded the skeleton of a mammoth (Elephas primigenius) the "hairy mammoth" of geological fame, from a gravel pit in a terrace of the ancient Lake Bonneville, which in prehistoric days covered that part of the land. Perhaps the most characteristic American elephant was the mastodon, of which so many remains have been found in New York State and other parts of the East. But the mammoth is the beast that used to be known to the ancient cavemen of Europe, who drew its huge form in lifelike portraiture on the walls of some of their home caverns.

Now we have striking proof that this giant companion of early European men was an inhabitant of our own western continent at the same time that he was exercising the dawning artistic genius of the cave dwellers of the old world. The intensely interesting question that remains to be answered is whether man, too, was here with him. Some of those who ought to be authorities say "yes," but others say "no." But if the mammoth, who is not by nature a navigator, could get here, why could not man? If so strange and unwieldy a beast was worldwide in distribution during the glacial age, why should it be regarded as inferentially probable that a far more active and mobile contemporary was confined to a single half of the globe?

Anyway, if the mammoth preceded man in America, he recorded a story which can quite easily be read without the aid of cavern pictures. This particular specimen, found near Payson, Utah, last September, has left a remarkable history in the ancient clays and gravels where he died and was buried by nature. Only a part of him was found, as described by George H. Hanson, of the Brigham Young University, who supervised his disinterment. That part includes two well-preserved, spirally-shaped tusks, a lower jaw, some rib bones and two legs with their feet. The strange thing is that these parts were preserved because in the burial they happened to be embedded in a bed of fine clay. Above this bed, 15 feet thick, was a layer of "almost blood-red gravels," and below it a bed of coarse-grain sands. And so much of the skeleton as projected into the red gravel above or the coarse sand beneath was completely oxidized and so lost, while the section between was preserved in the clay.

But listen to the story told by his tusks. The left tusk is six feet long, curved, and terminates in a sharp tip. The right tusk is only five feet five inches, being much worn off at the end. He had dug hard for his living along the shores, probably swampy, of that now vanished lake. Prof. Hanson says it has been observed among the African elephants of the present day that almost invariably they wear down the right tusk by digging, a curious example, one might remark, of "right-handedness" in an animal below man. Hitherto, I believe, right-handedness has been regarded as a specially human characteristic. Some men are left-handed, and so, perhaps, are some elephants. But this ancient individual followed the rule of the majority of his kind.

Bible Passages

The Holy Ghost

(John 14; 15-31.)

IF ye love me, keep my commandments.

And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever;

Even the Spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you.

I will not leave you comfortless: I will come to you.

Yet a little while, and the world seeth me no more; but ye see me: because I live, ye shall live also.

At that day ye shall know that I am in my Father, and ye in me, and I in you.

He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him.

Judas saith unto him, not Iscariot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the world?

Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.

He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings: and the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me.

These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you.

But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you.

Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.

Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoice, because I said, I go unto the Father: for my Father is greater than I.

And now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe.

Hereafter I will not talk much with you: for the prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me.

But that the world may know that I love the Father; and as the Father gave me commandment, even so I do. Arise, let us go hence.

Isn't It So?

No man is good enough not to be better.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Precious jewels rarely have a fixed price. They are worth whatever the highest bidder will pay, and his bill of sale is a working basis for the price in the next sale. A big square diamond in the Diamond Jim Brady collection sold for $13,000.

Mr. Brady had purchased it for $8,000. The last purchaser has refused $16,000 for it. Thus it goes. There is a true story going the rounds of diamond merchants illuminating the idea. It concerns the neat coup of a Maiden Lane dealer.

He had with great care assembled a string of unique emeralds at a cost of $40,000 and after offering it in the various markets, discovered he had a "white elephant" on hand. Special gems that do not have a ready sale acquire a trade hoodoo. Such news circulates in the district.

In his dilemma the owner consulted an able advertising specialist who, after considering the matter, advised: "Let me write a ponderous essay on emeralds in general and these in particular. We will engross it on vellum, put it in a flossy frame and send it out with the necklace."

The jeweler, grasping at the proverbial straw, consented with little hope of success and the necklace and the description were sent first to a nearby jeweler in Philadelphia. The next morning the Philadelphia merchant telephoned rather eagerly to know the price.

The New York jeweler took a long breath and decided on a long shot and his $40,000 string was priced at $340,000. He expected, of course, to begin a game of bargaining. But the following day was utterly dumbfounded with a telegram. "We'll buy." The sale was made.

A week later he saw the Philadelphia jeweler, who greeted him with a broad and knowing smile. "You thought you put over a fast one, didn't you?" he queried, and added: "But we were not so slow. Your necklace has been sold to a Pittsburgh woman for $700,000." Selling jewelry must be more fun.

Skyscraper building is playing hob with the sedate private residence speakeasy in the Foaming forties. And a new hush hut zone is springing up way down by Brooklyn Bridge. Drab old buildings are rented cheap and their interiors are touched up with a flash splendor and the boys and girls are flocking there. The new note is private booths where the bottle of vin ordinaire may rest on top instead of under the table where many customers gather as the evenings lengthen.

Perhaps the world's greatest astrological business is carried on in the studio of Evangeline Adams in Carnegie Hall. It is there Miss Adams and her 13 assistants carry on the "personal appointment" and mail order business. What was believed to be a passing fad of the moment has stretched over several years and is not waning. Visitors are impressed with the statues of elephants all about the astrological parlors—some 1,000 from postage stamp size up to huge affairs, but they are not regarded as tokens of good luck. Someone once sent her a jade elephant that pleased others heard of it—hence the stampede. Mrs. Adams is a rather motherly type, with none of the professional manner of the seer. Many of her clients who appeal to her for advice are said to have more faith in her good common sense than they have in astrology. Wall Street operators are frequent patrons, as are many people in the arts. In her earlier days of a prophetess she was haled to court several times, but never convicted.

RIGHT ANGLES

By Alexander Cairns

HE was a depository for legal tender and he had just returned from a Columbus haunt to the Antipodes.

And when I inquired about the wonders of the bon voyage he replied:

"Never again! We were in a party of eight and one of the men before leaving home made his wife sign a written agreement that she would not ask him to go again for five years. And so he and I had our Never Again Club."

I will gamble my gold on the proposition that the psychology of that well-padded globe trotter is utterly beyond the comprehension of nearly every per cent of the teeming tenants of the earth.

We are all like the little children of the poor who cannot imagine such a thing as enough candy.

How a round-the-world trip should be suffered instead of enjoyed is a thing as puzzling as the legerdemain of a magician.

We are reminded of a whine of Schopenhauer, prince of pessimists, wherein he declares that the best objective of life is to avoid ennui. Well, that may be the pathological status of wealth minus brains, but most of us never had enough of anything to get surfeited except possibly noise and meanness.

If this column should happen to fall under the optics of any such surfeited folk whose motto is never again, won't you consent to try a little prescription and then report results?

Suppose you have a loose $5,000 for a trip you do not care for. Just take about 5 per cent of that and send a poor man and his worried wife for a joy trip and see how speechless with joy they will be and how rejuvenated when they return to the daily grind.

And you yourself will collect a few lark songs and heart thrills.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

PERHAPS you belong to the large middle class.

You feel sorry for what you consider a lower class.

Cheap, ordinary furnishings—the general outfits make you think that these persons have little worth living for.

Have you ever thought what those in the strata above you must think of you and your belongings if they should see them?

Yet you get a lot of comfort and pleasure out of your possessions.

They are yours and have a significance to you as your home surroundings.

You bought what you could afford.

You enjoy the things with which you have surrounded yourself.

Others have better, but you would not have chosen as they did with their larger incomes.

Richer material but not useful to you in your home.

If you have ever had any idea of extending sympathy to any person because of what he lacks in home furnishings consider well and then don't speak.
